JOHNSON ANNOUNCES CUT IN SPENDING

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Johnson administration today unveiled a new proposal for a combined spending cut and tax increase in an effort to break a long stalemate over economic legislation. The plan calls for a 10 per cent income tax surcharge coupled with a $4 billion cut in spending, a $10 billion reduction in new obligational authority and an $8 billion cut in carry over obligational authority.

$58M Hospital Schedule Drafted for Metro Region

Early Start On Two Major Units

By JIM HUME
Times City Hall Reporter

A $58 million hospital bill is facing taxpayers in Greater Victoria between now and 1987.

Dr. Harvey Agnew of Agnew, Peckham Associates, Toronto, was scheduled to tell the Regional Hospital District Board the costly news this afternoon.

His $40,000 report, held under tight wraps by Mayor Hugh Curtis, board chairman, until after the Times deadline, will be published in detail Thursday.

In the meantime the Times had learned that an early start on an extended care hospital, probably for the Colwood area in the vicinity of St. Mary's Priory, is one of the major recommendations contained in the report.

IN THREE PHASES

Total cost of a three phase hospital construction program to serve population needs in 1987 has been estimated at $58,472,000 on present-day construction costs.

While details of his report remain secret, Dr. Agnew is already on record as having stated that few cities in Canada have as low a chronic care bed availability as Greater Victoria.

He was expected to tell the regional group that extended care needs at present call for 566 beds of which only 286 beds are available. By 1976 extended care needs will total 706 beds, by 1987 some 854 beds will be required.

The building of an extended care hospital in the Colwood area would immediately relieve the acute care bed shortage, although the doctor was expected to stress that a new 150 to 200 bed acute hospital is also required.

As recently as January Dr. Agnew informed civic authorities that he favored the Elk Lake-Royal Oak area as the site for the new acute care hospital.

NEEDS 10 ACRES

He will tell the regional board that a minimum acreage for the site of the new hospital should be 10 acres with a target of 20 acres if possible to leave room for future expansion.

The report will also recommend that all hospitals in the area become regional in many basic functions.

He will suggest that the hospital's planning board commence studies with a view to bringing specific basic services under one roof.

The services he will give priority are a central clinical laboratory serving all hospitals, radiology, laundry services, purchasing and medical records.

It is expected that Dr. Agnew will follow an already detailed pattern of construction. If he does he will recommend construction in three or more phases over the next 20 years.

Phases one and two, to be

AMONG the military hardware the Soviet Union displayed in today's parade through Red Square in Moscow was this anti-aircraft rocket, which is of the type supplied to North Vietnam for defence against United States bombers. Several other types of missiles were shown in annual May Day parade.

'NO TALKS WITH CONG'

Viet War Looms Big In May Day Rallies

By The Associated Press

The Vietnam war loomed large in May Day demonstrations around the world today. Communist speakers attacked the United States. South Vietnamese leaders attacked the Communists.

Soviet Defence Minister Andrei A. Grechko told Russian troops the Soviet Union supports the Vietnamese Communists "to the utmost."

He called the struggle against the United States and its supporters in Vietnam a "sacred war" and denounced the American's as "invaders"

South Vietnam's President Nguyen Van Thieu told a labor rally in Da Nang that South Vietnam will never negotiate with the Viet Cong and will not cede "even one centimetre" of land to North Vietnam.

Around the world parades and rallies were held to celebrate labor's traditional day.

In Tokyo, 200,000 persons assembled to hear socialist and Communist speakers urge the overthrow of Premier Eisaku Sato's government. The Spanish government massed police and civil guards in Madrid and other industrial cities.

REVIEWS PARADE

Grechko also reviewed the annual Soviet military parade through Red Square and said in a short speech that U.S. "aggression" in Vietnam represents the most serious threat to peace today.

The military parade through the square lasted 45 minutes. No new military hardware was shown.

Thieu spoke in Da Nang before some 5,000 workers, civil servants and schoolchildren. He told them organized labor in South Vietnam must strive to present a unified front as this

U.S. ACCEPTS

Indonesia Offers Ship For Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House quickly accepted today an Indonesian suggestion that preliminary peace talks with representatives of North Vietnam take place on an Indonesian naval vessel in the Gulf of Tonkin.

There was no indication whether the suggestion was also acceptable to North Vietnam.

Shortly after Indonesia's suggestion was announced in Jakarta, White House press secretary George Christian told reporters:

"A neutral ship on a neutral sea would be a good meeting place.'

He said Indonesia's proposal "is acceptable to the United States."

Christian made it clear the U.S. government—and presumably Hanoi—had been informed of the Indonesian plan in advance of the public announcement in Jakarta.

HAD PREVIOUS CONTACTS

"You can assume that there have also been other contacts on this," he said.

Christian said he was not certain whether a formal reply by the American government had been dispatched to Jakarta, but he left no doubt that an affirmative response was in the offing.

In announcing acceptability of Indonesia's idea, Christian said: "As you know, both the United States and North Vietnam have ambassadors in Indonesia."

One of the stumbling blocks in finding a site for preliminary talks with North Vietnam has been a search for agreement on a location where both countries and their allies have diplomatic representation.

The announcement came as backstage efforts to set a meeting-place moved into their fifth week and the White House showed signs of growing impatience.

Surprise Appearance

When the red curtain went up and revealed Ho on the stage the spectators, obviously surprised to see him, burst into wild cheering and applause.

In the past, because of the United States raid danger, the celebrations were held at night. But today they took place in daylight, though at an early hour.

QUEBEC COURTSHIP ANNOYS OTTAWA

Envoy Seeks Meeting With French Minister

(Times News Services)

PARIS — Canadian ambassador Jules Leger today asked Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville for an urgent meeting, presumably to protest against France's growing treatment of Quebec as an independent country.

Diplomatic sources said Couve de Murville probably will receive Leger Thursday shortly before leaving with Premier Georges Pompidou for an official visit to Iran and Afghanistan.

Informants predicted France would not be swayed by Ottawa protests from its courtship of Canada's French-speaking province.

President Charles de Gaulle was described by political circles as being determined to speed up, rather than slow down, France's co-operation with Quebec.

An announcement, setting the date for a "summit" meeting between de Gaulle and Quebec Premier Daniel Johnson, is expected to be issued shortly. The meeting has been postponed twice so far this year.

It would inaugurate regular top-level meetings between France and her former colony, lost to England in 1763, but with which the Gaullist regime has set up relationships closer than with any other territory or country.

'COUNTRY'

An official communique Tuesday, after a brief session of the French-Quebec financial cooperation committees referred to the Canadian province as a "country."

Official French feelings about Canadian matters were reemphasized when, while Leger sought an appointment with the foreign minister, Education Minister Alain Peyrefitte went to Orly Airfield to see off Jean-Guy Cardinal, the Quebec education minister. Usually, only members of independent governments are seen off by members of the French cabinet.

Trudeau told a press conference in Ottawa Tuesday that Mr. Leger had been sent back to France with instructions related to French acceptance of Quebec at a Paris education conference without Ottawa's approval.

Mr. Trudeau declined to say

SUMMIT OF NATIONS URGED ON VIETNAM

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, declaring United States policy in Vietnam has failed militarily and politically, today called for a reversal of the "Americanization" of the war. He said Saigon must assume greater responsibility for its destiny.

Rockefeller, in his first speech since announcing his candidacy Tuesday for the Republican presidential nomination, urged the United States to call a summit conference of governments "in the giant crescent from Japan throughout India to Iran" in search of methods to insure economic progress and political stability in the area.

WINS PRIMARY

Startling Upset By Rockefeller

BOSTON (UPI) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, who polled a flood of write-in votes only hours after announcing his candidacy, today was declared the winner of the Massachusetts presidential preference primary in a startling upset.

The New York governor staged a stunning victory Tuesday over Gov. John A. Volpe of Massachusetts, a favorite son candidate whose name was the only one on the GOP ballot. Former vice president Richard M. Nixon was third.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota easily won the Democratic race as expected over Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York. McCarthy's was the only name on the Democratic ballot.

Returns from 99 per cent of the state's 1,734 precincts gave Rockefeller 1,240 votes more than Volpe and 4,882 more than Nixon.

SERIOUS BLOW

The results dealt a staggering blow to Volpe who has been considered a possible vice-presidential contender.

TWO DIE IN FIRE UP ISLAND

Dead are Mr. and Mrs. James Herbert Webb of 728 Nicol St., Nanaimo.

A boarder in the house who was identified by RCMP as Allen Thompson escaped from his back room when roused by a passing truck driver who spotted the flames.

The fire was reported at 3:01 a.m., but it is believed that Mr. Webb, 66, and his wife, 57, had suffocated several hours earlier.

TIME TO WORK TOGETHER'

Switch to Tories Likely By Cariboo Socred MP

OTTAWA (CP) — Bert Leboe, Social Credit MP for Cariboo in the last Parliament, said today he is considering running as a Conservative.

In fact, this may be the course followed by all four Social Credit MPs from the last Parliament, he said in an interview.

In his case, he said, the final decision will be up to his constituency organization.

Meanwhile, in a statement issued here, Conservative Leader Stanfield said:

"I am pleased to learn that some Social Credit members of the last Parliament will consider seeking nomination as Progressive Conservative candidates in the federal election of June 25.

"Of course, the actual choice of a candidate is a matter of local concern, to be decided by persons residing within any constituency involved.

"It seems to me, and to my colleagues, that this is a time for Canadians who agree on basic matters of principle and policy to work together. We would welcome and encourage the active association and full contribution of every Canadian who shares our general approach to national policy."

Mr. Leboe said he is completely in the hands of his organization, which meets Saturday in

'Various Alternatives'

Alexander Patterson, Social Credit member for Fraser Valley in the last Parliament, denied a similar report that he would change parties for the next election.

"I have given the matter careful consideration and though various alternatives may be open as far as co-operation is concerned, I have not made any decision whatever as far as changing my course as Social Credit."

Replying to a question in a telephone interview from his home in Abbotsford, he added: "Yes, it is my intention to stay Social Credit in the next election."

ELECTION ROUNDUP

Sheep Rancher May Be Candidate

James Campbell, of Saturna Island, today said he may seek the Liberal nomination in the Esquimalt-Saanich riding but hasn't decided yet.

"Personal factors don't make the picture too promising at the moment but I'm not prepared to say yet whether I will try to obtain the nomination or not," he said in an interview.

CAMPBELL

Mr. Campbell's name had been mooted as the choice of a group who would like to see a contest in the Liberal riding association's re-run nomination ordered after provincial headquarters voided the acclamation selection of association president James Gorst at a stormy meeting.

Mr. Campbell is a sheep rancher and vice-president of the B.C. School Trustees Association who was an unsuccessful Liberal candidate in Saanich and the Islands constituency in the 1966 provincial election.

Lawrence Jolivet, B.C. Liberal party president in Vancouver, said he likely will announce a date for the second nomination meeting by the weekend.

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Trudeau said Tuesday his cabinet ministers will be free to hit the campaign trails by the end of the week.

However, until the election they will still be required to report back to home base for Wednesday cabinet meetings.

When Mr. Trudeau announced the election April 23 he stressed his first priority in coming weeks was to carry out an orderly transfer of government and make sure it was functioning effectively while the campaign was in progress.

At the news conference he said the cabinet had been operating very well and by the end of the week the ministers could be absent "one, two or three days a week."

Mr. Trudeau remained mum on the date when he would officially begin his own election tour. Next Monday he is scheduled to speak at a meeting of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters in Montreal. On May 13 he will be in Edmonton to join United Nations Secretary General U Thant in accepting an honorary degree from the University of Alberta.

Efforts are being made to arrange an appearance in Vancouver prior to the Edmonton trip.

Mr. Trudeau said these commitments were "prime ministerial more than electoral."

He also expressed some reservations about engaging in a debate with Conservative leader Robert Stanfield on the CTV television network.

Telegrams had been sent to both leaders on the matter, and each is seeking clarification of details before making a commitment.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Industrialist J. V. Clyne said Tuesday the forthcoming federal election offers Canadians a "rare opportunity" to do something about the danger of advancing inflation "because of spiralling wage increases and reckless government spending."

The chairman of MacMillan Bloedel Limited, addressing the annual general meeting of shareholders of the far-flung forest industries concern, urged his listeners to question election candidates closely on the policies they will support if sent to Ottawa.

"If you can find a candidate who, in these days of spiralling inflation, advocates retrenchment, drastic reduction of government expenditure, and relief from excessive taxation, you will know he is talking sense in the national interest," said Mr. Clyne.

QUEBEC (CP)—Jean Marchand, federal manpower and immigration minister, Tuesday announced he will seek the Liberal nomination in the newly-created riding of Langelier.

The new riding includes the Quebec-West constituency which Mr. Marchand represented in the last parliament.

Mr. Marchand said a nominating convention will be held in the new riding May 14.

MONTREAL (CP) — Full-page advertisements appeared Tuesday in French and English-language daily newspapers here and in Toronto suggesting that readers write to Prime Minister Trudeau to say they are concerned about national unity.

The advertisements were paid for by the advertising firms of Goodis, Goldberg, Soren Ltd., of Toronto and BCP Publicite Ltee., of Montreal.

The text of the advertisement says Canada is in danger of splitting up into English and French sections and suggests that people talk about the problem to each other and to their prospective member of parliament.

It is suggested that a coupon in the advertisement be clipped and mailed to the prime minister.

The English-language coupon suggests an "honest, frank dialogue" as a means of achieving national unity.

The French-language coupon suggests that the sender write in 20 words or less his thoughts on national unity.

The headline on the English-language advertisement says: Does it worry you that our national anthem could become No Canada?

The French-language advertisement contains a photograph of an attractive young girl, an allegorical text about a girl who has taken the wrong turn, and bears the headline: National unity, a girl who has taken the wrong turning.

Chetwynd, B.C., and will probably decide then whether to ask him to run again as a Social Credit candidate or to join forces with the Conservatives for this election.

"If the decision is to join forces, I shall be subject to a nominating convention and there will be competition," he said.

The constituency in which Mr. Leboe plans to run now is known as Prince George-Peace River. It lies entirely within the boundaries of the old Cariboo riding in the British Columbia interior, but covers somewhat less territory.

Mr. Leboe said there have been informal talks here between Social Credit and Conservative MPs, but no joint decision, either to move with the Conservatives or to stay put, was taken by the Social Credit caucus.

DIFFERENCES SLIGHT

Mr. Leboe said as far as he was concerned, there is "not that much difference" between the Social Credit and the traditional Conservative positions, particularly in fiscal matters.

But he emphasized that "I will not make any move myself" towards the Conservatives. If any arrangement were to be made for a joint nomination in Prince George-Peace River, it would be decided by his riding organization.

He said he is confident that he can win, either as Social Credit or as a Conservative standard-bearer. "There has been no swing to either the Liberals or the Conservatives in my riding."

He saw "no possibility at all" of Social Credit candidates joining forces with Real Caouette's Creditistes in the election campaign.

"We don't buy this two-Canada business," he said. The Creditistes had put too much emphasis on what divides French and English in Canada, not enough on what holds them together.

Mr. Leboe said the Liberal convention, which elected Pierre Elliott Trudeau as leader, has underlined and speeded up a grouping of political forces in Canada around two poles.

SEES CO-OPERATION

In such circumstances, the Social Credit and the Conservatives could make common cause. They shared a common concern about the country's economic weakness—the inability of productivity to keep pace with the rise in government spending.

Mr. Leboe has sold his Ottawa house and bought one in Prince George, the chief city in his riding. He plans to leave for British Columbia by car on Friday. He will not, therefore, be at the Saturday meeting but "I will be represented."

Mr. Leboe has won five of the six federal elections he contested in Cariboo riding. His only loss came to a Conservative in 1958, the year of the John Diefenbaker sweep.

He has held the seat from 1953 to 1958, and from 1962 to the present.

In the last election, in 1965, he had a plurality of 4,742 in a four-man race.

In Vernon, Howard Johnston (SC — Okanagan - Revelstoke), said he had been approached in Ottawa by individual Conservative members but he had made it clear "there is no deal."

He said he is working on his campaign as a Social Credit candidate.

George Driediger, president of the B.C. Social Credit League, said in Vancouver he had discussed the matter with all three Social Credit MPs from B.C. on Tuesday and "I'll guarantee all three will run as Socreds."

Columbia Shut For 'Reflection'

NEW YORK (AP) —Columbia remained a university without classes today as the administration of the strife-torn school called up faculty and students to meet for discussions of the campus crisis.

The administration acted in keeping with a resolution by a group of 500 senior faculty members asking for "a day of reason and reflection."

The university said the school would be open but there would be no regular classes.

About 125 members of an ad hoc faculty group voted Tuesday to "respect" a student strike. There were indications, however, that the faculty of about 4,000 is substantially split over the issue. The senior faculty meeting did not endorse the strike.

A student strike was announced Tuesday by J. Michael Nichols, executive vice-president of the undergraduate Student Council, a few hours after 1,000 city policemen stormed five university buildings that had been occupied and barricaded by students.

ROUT STUDENTS OUT

A hundred youths and 15 policemen were reported injured, none seriously, in the club swinging, fist fighting, pushing, hauling and kneeing as the embattled demonstrators were routed from their strongholds.

Police said some of their men were bitten by girl students.

A total of 720 persons were arrested on trespassing and other charges. Of the total, there were 628 arrests in the actual routing of the demonstrators and 92 on the edge of the melee.

Principal target of the strike was Dr. Grayson Kirk, president of the 25,381-student university, who had called in the police to break up the disruption caused by the 600 to 700 students whose sit-ins to protest some university policies began April 23.

"Kirk must go! Kirk must go!" groups roaming the littered uptown Manhattan campus shouted.

Kirk said he had no intention of resigning.

The sit-in demonstrators protested construction of an $11,500,000 university gymnasium on 2.1 acres of Morningside Park, between Columbia and Harlem.

The demonstrators joined neighborhood activists in a contention that the gymnasium deprived the people of Harlem of a needed part of the 30-acre park.

Another demand was that the university sever ties with the Institute for Defence Analysis, a research group which they contended was furthering the war in Vietnam.

The university agreed to a temporary suspension of the gymnasium project.

The demonstrators then demanded total amnesty as their price for leaving the buildings. But Kirk already was committed to disciplinary action against them for violating university regulations.

EX-MINISTERS ARRESTED IN GREECE

ATHENS (AP) — Greece's military-backed regime placed two more former cabinet ministers under house arrest today.

The action brought to five the number of former political figures under house arrest since the middle of April.

Latest to be confined were George Rallis and George Mavros.

Rallis, 62, issued a statement calling for the return of King Constantine and formation of a government under former premier Constantine Caramanlis to hold free elections.

Mavros, 59, is reported to have smuggled a statement to the BBC last week attacking the regime.

Bennett to Miss Premiers' Meet

Premier Bennett will not be able to make the annual premiers' conference at a summer resort in northern Saskatchewan because he'll be busy celebrating in northern B.C.

The conference has been scheduled for Aug. 1-3 in Waskesiu, 45 miles north of Prince Albert, Saskatchewan Premier Ross Thatcher announced Tuesday, adding two premiers likely will be absent although federal-provincial relations will be high on the agenda.

One of the absentees will be Mr. Bennett who has a previous commitment in Fort St. James Aug. 1 on three counts:

As government leader at a cabinet meeting scheduled there in recognition of Fort St. James' role as the original capital of the west coast territories;

And as president of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway which holds an inauguration ceremony of a new spur line linking Fort St. James with Prince George.

The other absentee from the Saskatchewan meeting will be Newfoundland Premier Joey Smallwood who makes no secret of his scorn for premiers' conferences.

Judge Insists On Woman Jury In Baby Death

SWANSEA, Wales (Reuters) — An all-woman jury was sworn in Tuesday, making British legal history, for the trial of a white woman accused of killing a non-white baby girl.

The judge, over-ruling protests by both prosecution and defence lawyers, issued an unprecedented order that the case be tried by woman jurors only.

He said that after reading preliminary evidence he could not imagine a more appropriate case for an all-woman jury. The case involves the bathing of a baby and the feelings of a woman, he said. The prosecution says the baby died from scalding.

NEW TRUDEAU SYSTEM

Hellyer Now 'No. 2 Man' In Cabinet

(Times Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA—A restructured cabinet with Transport Minister Paul Hellyer emerging as No. 2 man was announced Tuesday by Prime Minister Trudeau at a press conference.

Control over planning and priorities has been placed in the hands of a cabinet committee which Mr. Trudeau explained would be the equivalent of the "inner cabinet" under the British system where there is an inner and outer cabinet.

Mr. Trudeau has re-organized the Canadian committee system in the cabinet. The small inner group will review priorities and planning of government policy and give special attention to questions which have important long-term implications.

There will be also a committe on legislation and planning for the house. It will be responsible for the planning of the parliamentary program, dealing with legislation and for determining governmental priorities in parliament. It will be chaired by the government leader in the house.

The third co-ordinating committee is the treasury board which will carry out the work it now does under the statutes. It will continue to exercise its vital functions with respect to the co-ordination of expenditure programs, control of departmental estimates in relations to fiscal resources and matters of government management generally including collective bargaining.

The new system in the cabinet is already operating. Prime Minister Trudeau said the cabinet has made progress in coping with the accumulation of work. He has ordered his cabinet ministers to stay on the job in Ottawa until this weekend. After that he expects to be able to free them to hit the campaign trails for the general election.

The new prime minister was high in his praise of Mr. Hellyer. He said the transport minister is acting prime minister and has been so designated by order-in-council.

Mr. Trudeau explained that Mr. Hellyer "has a clear mind and knows what he is about. He is a very efficient person. I find it very useful to have him as acting prime minister." He pointed out that Mr. Hellyer was entitled to the post of acting prime minister, or No. 2 man, because of his seniority in the cabinet.

The tough job of handling housing and urban development policies has been handed to Hellyer in the new cabinet.

Mr. Hellyer will play a major role in housing development and in encouraging the development of better transport systems in urban areas including the construction of traffic arteries linking air fields with the downtown sections of major cities.

Mr. Trudeau confirmed that the responsibility for reporting to parliament for Central Mortgage and Housing, the government owned housing agency, has been assigned to Mr. Hellyer.

The prime minister recalled that Mr. Hellyer had indicated he was greatly interested in the housing and transportation problems of large urban areas and made several speeches on the subjects during the recent leadership campaign.

HUMPHREY WILL GET FUND AID

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sidney J. Weinberg, the investment banker known throughout the financial world as "Mr. Wall Street," said today he has begun a drive among his friends and associates to raise "millions" for vice-president Hubert H. Humphrey.

Describing Humphrey as a man of exceptional qualifications for the presidency, Weinberg said he was concerned that the lack of a personal fortune would keep Humphrey from winning the office.

"I don't believe that only rich men should run for public office," he said.

"I'm getting up a fund called the Sidney J. Weinberg Fund for Hubert H. Humphrey's nomination for president and I'm soliciting all my friends and people I think will be interested in making a contribution to Humphrey," he said.

PANCREAS SWITCH SET

CAPE TOWN (UPI)—Heart transplant surgeon Dr. Christian Barnard disclosed today South Africa's first pancreas transplant will be attempted soon at Cape Town's Groote Schuur hospital. Barnard said the "immensely complex" operation would be performed by the hospital's diabetes specialists.

DRAPEAU 'LOTTERY' FACES COURT TEST

QUEBEC (CP) — Justice Minister Jean-Jacques Bertrand has moved a step closer to confrontation with Montreal Mayor Jean Drapeau over the imaginative mayor's "voluntary tax" scheme.

Mr. Bertrand said Tuesday in answer to a question asked in the legislature by Jerome Choquette (L—Montreal Outremont) that "as long as the Criminal Code contains dispositions prohibting lotteries, the minister of justice will see that the law is applied."

The justice minister had said in a statement Friday that the unusual tax scheme, which offers up to $100,000 in monthly cash prizes for $2 donations to the city coffers, is "illegal and a contravention of the Criminal Code."

Pressed by reporters Tuesday to elaborate outside the house on his plans to fight the scheme, Mr. Bertrand said: "I don't want to make any further comment because this affair is to be submitted to the courts."

Mayor Drapeau, who has steadfastly denied his plan as a lottery because winners will be asked "skill-testing questions," told his city council Monday night that "nothing to this day has arisen" to indicate the plan is illegal.

The novel scheme, first of its kind in Canada, was intended to avert a 20-per-cent increase in Montreal's property, business and water tax rates. It was expected to raise $28,000,000 in voluntary donations from all over North America, although it has been denounced as illegal by the U.S. justice department.

another Peter Jackson smoker has just won $10,000

Mrs. Ingeborg Bessman, 127 Mundy Street, Coquitlam, B.C., switched to Peter Jackson in the hope of winning a large sum of money. She was so determined to do this, that she bought two cartons of P. J. at a time and then opened all the packs at once to see if she had been lucky!

Mrs. Bessman's dream has come true at last! She recently found a package with one of P. J.'s lucky $10,000 dollar cash certificates inside! And all that money is tax-free! Mrs. Bessman said she would have been thrilled to find a $1,000 cash certificate . . . but finding a $10,000 one is just too good to be true!

Mrs. Bessman is now happily planning a trip to Denmark to visit her brothers and sisters whom she hasn't seen in several years! Yes, Mrs. Bessman certainly has the proof that when you switch to P. J. you can be a winner!

You Can't Lose on Parks

WHILE CITY ALDERMEN ARE right to question any proposed disposition of Thetis Lake Park—that is part of their duties — they should not overlook one basic fact in regard to parklands that serve a regional population. That is, that the city can lose nothing by giving the park to the regional authority or selling it for a nominal sum, because no matter what governing body gets control of the area it will still be open to Victoria residents.

The Elk-Beaver Lake Park, sold by the city to the regional board for a token sum, is still as much a recreation ground for Victorians as it ever was. Therefore to talk of "letting Thetis Lake Park go for $100,000," as Alderman Frampton puts it, is to ignore the fact that parklands don't go anywhere. Parks can only be lost through abandoning them as recreation areas and converting them to housing or commercial sites or otherwise making it impossible for the public to use them.

In proposing to turn Thetis Lake Park over to the regional board, Mayor Stephen is giving nothing away, he is merely saving the city the sole future burden of maintaining the park for regional use. It should be remembered in any case that the area in question, a priceless botanical treasure as well as a pleasure ground, is not yet dedicated parkland but only watershed territory. Formal conveyance to the regional board would guarantee the land for park use as safely as any arrangement could do. It would be an excellent and wise move for the city to take that step.

There can be no doubt that the parks function of the regional board, which at this point is merely to purchase parklands for preservation, must eventually be broadened to include maintenance as well. This could be achieved merely by amending the letters patent, and it would conform to the principle of regional responsibility for assets which enjoy regional use.

Let us therefore hope that aldermanic eyes will be kept on the main objective and that decisions will be made in broader terms than the bookkeeper's concept. In assuming responsibility for a further three years of maintenance and improvement, Victoria would only be paralleling in regard to Thetis Lake Park what Saanich has undertaken in regard to Elk-Beaver. The ultimate result in both cases should be ownership and operation by the regional body, a move whereby everyone will gain.

Assurance Doubly Sure

SOVIET SUSPICION OF UNITED States intentions in announcing last fall that it would construct a $5-billions "thin" anti-missile shield will be deepened by reports coming out of the hearings of the Senate armed forces preparedness committee in recent days. While much of the testimony was given in secret—notably that of the service chiefs of staff—enough has been reported to make it clear that the anti-missile shield is not merely a defence against a possible Communist Chinese attack four or five years from now, as it was originally described.

The admission was made by Dr. John Foster, top scientist of the defence department, that the system is also the first step in an anti-Soviet shield. Other civilians in the department acknowledged that the United States no longer has a clear-cut measure of nuclear superiority over the Soviet Union. The situation appears to be that while the United States could retaliate against any surprise Russian attack, inflicting punishment which the Russians could not endure, the Soviet Union is also rapidly approaching the same "second-strike" capability. Both sides, in fact, are achieving what former Secretary of Defence McNamara once called "assured destruction."

A report from the Senate committee last week stated that General Earle Wheeler, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, had pointed out that this "nuclear stand-off" would embolden Moscow to become more involved in political wars within its sphere of influence. And once the Russians were in, he said, they would be hard to dislodge. This is the argument, apparently, which the military leaders are using to support their request for an all-out anti-missile system along with a massive shelter program for the nation's main population centres.

For the Pentagon, obviously, the main enemy is still the Soviet Union. Perhaps from a military point of view this makes sense, but it gives little weight to the vast changes which have taken place both in the Soviet bloc and inside Russia itself in recent years. Undoubtedly a nuclear stalemate would leave Moscow with a certain freedom to bring pressures to bear on various foreign countries; but overwhelming American nuclear superiority was not a notably successful deterrent in preventing this in the past.

Lower Classroom Costs

GREATER VICTORIA'S school board has been surprised to find that the portable classroom units for which it believed it would have to pay more this year can, in fact, be acquired for less than the 1967 prices. The figures are interesting. Last year units were purchased for $15,512 each. This year, it was argued, the allowance of $15,000 per unit suggested by the department of education was too low. In consequence, the government raised the figure to $16,000. Then came the surprise. All but one of seven tenders received this week placed the figure per unit below that of the lowest 1967 bid—and the lowest this year is $11,844.

Trustees have offered a plausible explanation: contractors and prefabrication specialists appreciate the increased competition they face in landing contracts this year and have, in consequence, lowered their bids. Assuming that no retrenchments in construction are entailed in this year's specifications compared with those of last year, the district will benefit in a change in the builders' approach to the project—what board chairman Peter Bunn sees as evidence of "an aggressive and progressive prefabricated building industry." Improved techniques and increased competition are having their effects.

Savings of the nature implied in prefabricated portables are important in themselves. They could, however, have another significant result. If it is possible to provide units of this type at a figure more than $4,000 below that of last year, the board should most certainly give its attention to the prices it contemplated for the more ambitious school buildings included in the current program. If it can save more than 25 per cent on portables, what can it save on more orthodox schools?

The situation underscores a point made recently by Mr. Frank Beinder, president of the British Columbia School Trustees Association. Faced with the request from the department of education that boards examine construction plans to bring costs within certain limits—below what many had approved previously—Mr. Beinder has agreed that boards should make such examinations — not dismiss the suggestion out of hand on the ground that they had effected all economies possible. The bids on prefab portables here emphasize the value of his suggestion.

"Of course I wouldn't mind . . . but how do we catch one . . . ?"

FROM WASHINGTON — By RICHARD PURSER

A Basic Frustration in Student Protest

THE outbreak of studentitis in this and other countries has been growing more severe, and befits the arrival of spring. Not so many years ago studentitis in the United States expressed itself in such symptoms as water fights with campus fire hoses, and raids on girls' dormitories for the purpose of seizing panties as symbolic trophies. Later, perhaps in part because the reality behind the symbol became more readily available, students began to switch to less juvenile causes. Here, the inspiration was the civil rights movement. In Britain and Canada it was the Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament. More recently, the Vietnam peace movement became co-equal with the cause of racial equality on American campuses. The march and the demonstration became the new order of things.

Purser

New Militancy

But now — and it is not a sudden development — a new militancy has appeared among students, here and in Britain, Germany, Italy, Czechoslovakia, Brazil, Poland and elsewhere. It has resulted in actions often exceeding the customary bounds of legality, and sometimes exceeding the bounds of violence. It is as though students everywhere were beginning to take their inspiration from the by now long-standing techniques of the Japanese student militant left.

Sometimes it also appears to the adult world that the students further emulate the Japanese in the absence of any coherent motivation. This is unfair and inaccurate. In virtually every instance of militant student action, the participants have a specific goal. Take two recent incidents in this area: When students at nearby Bowie, Maryland, seized buildings at the largely Negro state college there, they were protesting the college's inadequate funding, which left it dilapidated in comparison with well-funded state colleges attended mostly by white students. And when students at Howard University in Washington did likewise, they were protesting that institution's traditional policy of training black men to fit into the white man's world. They wanted a black-oriented university.

No Mass Anarchy

There is such a multitude of universities and colleges in the U.S. that the continual stream of incidents pouring off the wires and into the press may create the impression of mass anarchy. Anarchy or not, it is not "mass." The overwhelming majority of American students are docile, calmly working toward graduation and entry into a good beginning level on the job market. They may support the militants in principle — this is certainly true where racial equality is the goal — but on lesser matters they prefer to remain non-involved.

The majority realizes the simple fact that in the long run dooms student movements: in the long run, the students aren't students any more. And it's not a very long run at that. After only one or two four-year turnover cycles, the campus population may see the world differently and have entirely different concerns from those for which its immediate predecessor fought.

This realization must also contribute to the sense of frustration that so obviously afflicts the militants. They act as they do because they despair of changing society in the short time they have before they are absorbed into it.

The immediate causes espoused by the militants are usually worthy enough, though often trivial. But make no mistake about it: the ones who extend their methods beyond those of persuasion — meetings, marches, speeches, demonstrations, petitions — to extra-legal action such as blockade or disruption of facilities, or to violence, basically suffer from the inability to accept present society as a basis for reforms that all see as necessary.

The militants are not job-oriented like the silent students. It isn't that they don't want to work, but that they see themselves useless if they are only to be units in the American production-consumption based economy, which they see as socially false, hollow, unjust and spiritually meaningless. They do not generally see communism as an alternative, being aware of the sterility of present Communist societies. (They are not anti-Communist; just anti-ideology.)

Minority that they are, they nevertheless have a remarkable knack for frightening the adult world. The big headlines, especially in hinterland newspapers, about recent doings at Columbia University in New York are a case in point. The highest estimate of student participation in the occupation and blockade there was something over 630.

There are 27,000 students at Columbia.

FROM HONG KONG — By JOSEPH ALSOP

Hostages Suggest Chinese Impotence

FOR a good many weeks now, the Chinese Communist government has been holding for ransom the British charge d'affaires in Peking, Sir Donald Hopson, and almost all other members of his considerable staff. They are being held in the quite literal sense that they are not being permitted to leave the Chinese capital, even if they wish to. Exit visas have been granted in certain hardship cases, such as one or two pregnant British wives. The rest are, in effect, prisoners in the Chinese capital.

Alsop

It is clear that ransom is the aim because, when exit visas have been asked for, they have been refused. And there have been simultaneous and open Chinese hints about the need for some sort of consolatory British move in the matter of Hong Kong.

In other words, the foreign office is not to get Hopson and his staff back without first saying the sort of thing, or perhaps even making the sort of commitment, that would completely upset the newly restored calm of this bustling city. This may seem a strikingly novel diplomatic device, as indeed it is; but the foregoing facts also have a wider significance.

Quite aside from the meaning the facts ought to have for those who want "a new China policy" tomorrow morning, they have very real meaning as an illuminating background for a recent, quite concrete event of considerable potential importance. Briefly, a large Chinese mission of unknown composition recently flew into Hanoi with a heavy escort of MiG fighter planes.

This mission is certainly protesting negotiations in any form and arguing for indefinitely protracted war. Beyond that, which would be automatic, no one is certain of the Chinese purpose.

The plight of Sir Donald Hopson and his staff implies a stop-at-nothing mood in Peking, to say the least. Hence no one can quite exclude a Chinese threat to cut off all supplies if the Hanoi leaders go to the negotiating table — thereby terribly impairing Hanoi's negotiation position, or else preventing talks.

No Chinese Intervention

On the other hand, despite the high level of lunacy now prevailing in Peking, Chinese intervention in the war to aid Hanoi can be excluded with almost complete confidence. One remembers the Korean precedent. The word "almost" should be underlined, perhaps.

But to begin with, the Chinese have bitterly and openly disapproved of the Hanoi leaders' conduct of the war since the summer of 1965, when they vainly advised the North Vietnamese to dig in for a long, classic, pure-guerrilla-style conflict. And to go on with, even if mad old Mao Tse-tung wanted to intervene, it is pretty clear that he could not do so.

Good symbols of his handicaps are the Taching oil fields and the "seventh ministry of machine building." The Taching fields, one of the most significant petroleum discoveries in this century, now provide the great majority of Communist China's oil fuel. But only a little while ago, they were actually set on fire in the course of the struggles of local "mass organizations," and the fire was only extinguished with great difficulty.

Missile Program Gutted

As for the "seventh ministry," it has long been identified as the organization in charge of the crucial Chinese missile program. Yet despite its importance, it has been all but gutted in another internal faction fight, as Chou En-lai sadly complained in a known speech. If the identification of the ministry is correct, this is about like have the Atomic Energy Commission's building gutted by an intra-staff civil war.

Even these illustrations of the sort of thing that has been happening in China are not the most lurid. In March, for instance, the acting chief of staff of the army, Gen. Yang Cheng-wu, was publicly cashiered for conspiring to attempt a coup d'etat with the Peking garrison commander and other high officers. Gen. Yang's aim, according to the best guess, was to purge Peking of paranoia, in order to get down to the very difficult business of really restoring order in the country.

Nor is the spread of "revolutionary committees" through the provinces to be interpreted as a sign that Peking's authority is really being restored. According to the most knowing China-watchers, all the provinces from the Yangtse valley southwards, with the exception of Shanghai city and wretched Kweichow, are now under more or less "conservative" control, which really means under control not responsive to Mao. The same is true for all of west China as well.

Stir into the brew the universal prevalence of "mass organizations," often huge and generally clandestine. The conflicts, intrigues and mutual accusations in Peking then begin to seem more and more like the strange, unreal struggles for power that have generally occurred at the centre in China, when a change of dynasty was fairly imminent. And the real possibility of such a change is now the most prominent fact concerning China.

Looking Back

From the Times, May 1, 1908.

Ald. Gleanson's pure food bylaw received the endorsation of the city council at its regular meeting. The measure brought forth little discussion, the members of council apparently being agreed on its necessity.

The bylaw provides that council may by resolution appoint one or more sanitary inspectors and health officers who, as such, shall enforce the city health bylaw.

Young and Good

When one sees so much publicity given to teen-agers who are rebels — and worse — it is too bad that equal space cannot be given to those who give pleasure to their parents, teachers and themselves.

Recently one of our large department stores and a pattern company sponsored a teen-age sewing contest, open to girls 13 to 19. It was my pleasure to observe the 30 finalists — with clean shiny hair and modestly made-up faces modelling their own well-sewn creations. The publicity accorded this contest was negligible; no picture and no write-up in the Times.

Until the "good" gets as much publicity as the "bad," it is no wonder our teen-agers are over exposed to unacceptable behaviour. It would be nice to see a little more recognition given to accomplishment. — Mrs. R. D. Barer, 2123 Sandowne.

My recent sojourn in hospital made me realize that nurses are wonderful people. The ones who looked after me were all young and so very kind and gave every attention to their patients. So here's to all nurses—A. Lewis, 2171 Lafayette.

Olympics and South Africa

May I be permitted to reply to your correspondent Miss Gem. McConville's complaint about the exclusion of South Africa from the Olympic Games and her statement that the U.S. should be the last critic because of her own racial troubles.

As a born South African and a citizen of that country for 47 years, I consider myself sufficiently informed to assure Miss McConville that the racial position in the two countries cannot be compared, because in the States, racial discrimination is against the law. In South Africa it is the law. In the States the government is attempting to unify the people with equal opportunities for everyone regardless of color or race. In South Africa the government is separating and dividing the people, with the black man voteless and an inferior citizen.

The athletes in the States and every other country in the world train and compete together on the same tracks to represent their country. They mix and fraternize with each other in fair and friendly competition regardless of race, etc. In South Africa this is not the case, it is against the law, therefore it is only right that she should be barred from the Games.

It is a great pity that the people and the athletes must suffer for the immaturity and fears of a bigoted government.—L. G. KIDSON, 9775 Third St., Sidney.

Too Painless?

Montreal Gazette

Can it be that the short sentences being given for so many serious crimes—such as bank robberies—are one of the explanations why so many of such crimes are being committed? For these crimes are committed mostly by habitual criminals. The habitual criminal regards a short sentence as nothing more than an unfortunate incident in a career otherwise successful. Once his sentence is served (or such part of it as he is made to serve) he returns as soon as may be possible to his briefly interrupted career.

It is always a mistake to take the number of crimes committed and to assume that there must be an equal number of criminals. The truth is that the same criminals can account for an enormous number of crimes.

According to the Montreal Police Department, the 24 bank robbers arrested last year had records of having committed 199 other crimes, ranging from assault to sexual offences. The number of crimes they had committed was undoubtedly larger still, for presumably some of their other crimes did not result in arrest.

Consent of the People Only Base for Unity

By JULIUS NYERERE
President of Tanzania

The bold initiative taken by President Nyerere in recognizing the break-way Biafra regime has given hope of ending the bitter civil war with its overtones of genocide in Nigeria. In this article written for the London Observer, Mr. Nyerere discusses the Nigerian situation within the broader framework of African unity which will be the main topics at a conference of African heads of state at Dar-es-Salaam in two weeks.

DAR ES SALAAM—Leaders of Tanzania have probably talked more about the need for African unity than those of any other country.

Giving formal recognition to even greater disunity in Africa was therefore a very difficult decision to make. Our reluctance to do so was compounded by our understanding of the problems of unity—of which we have had experience—and of the problems of Nigeria. For we have had very good relations with the Federation of Nigeria, even to the extent that when we needed help from Africa we asked it of the Federation.

But unity can only be based on the general consent of the people involved. The people must feel that this state, or this union, is theirs; and they must be willing to have their quarrels in that context. Once a large number of the people of any such political unit stop believing that the state is theirs, and that the government is their instrument, then the unit is no longer viable. It will not continue to receive the loyalty of its citizens.

For the citizen's duty to serve, and if necessary to die for, his country stems from the fact that it is his and that government is the instrument of himself and his fellow-citizens.

PRESIDENT NYERERE
. . . unity is vital

The duty stems, in other words, from the common denominator of accepted statehood, and from the state government's responsibility to protect all the citizens and serve them all. For states and governments exist for men and for the service of man. They exist for the citizens' protection, their welfare, and the future well-being of their children.

There is no other justification for states and governments except man.

In Nigeria this consciousness of a common citizenship was destroyed by the events of 1966, and in particular by the pogroms in which 30,000 eastern Nigerians were murdered, many more injured, and about 2 million forced to flee from the north of their country.

It is these pogroms, and the apparent inability or unwillingness of the authorities to protect the victims, which underlies the easterners' conviction that they have been rejected by other Nigerians and abandoned by the federal government.

Whether the easterners are correct in their belief that they have been rejected is a matter for argument. But they do have this belief. And if they are wrong they have to be convinced that they are wrong. They will not be convinced by being shot nor will their acceptance as part of the Federation be demonstrated by the use of federal power to bomb schools and hospitals in the areas to which people fled from persecution.

Stolen Stone

In Britain, in 1950, the Stone of Scone was stolen from Westminster Abbey by Scottish nationalists while I was still a student at Edinburgh.

That act did not represent a wish by the majority of the Scottish people to govern themselves. But if, for some peculiar reason, the vast majority of the Scottish people decided that Scotland should secede from the United Kingdom, would the government in London order the bombing of Edinburgh, and in pursuing the Scots into the Highlands, kill the civilians they overtook?

Certainly the union government would not do this. It would argue with the Scots and try to reach some compromise.

As president of Tanzania, it is my duty to safeguard the integrity of the united republic. But if the mass of people of Zanzibar, should, without external manipulation, and for some reason of their own, decide that the union was prejudicial to their existence, I could not advocate bombing them into submission.

War on People

To do so would not be to defend the union. The union would have ceased to exist when the consent of its constituent members was withdrawn. I would certainly be one of those working hard to prevent secession, or to reduce its disintegrating effects. But I could not support a war on the people whom I have sworn to serve, especially not if the secession is preceded by a rejection of Zanzibaris by Tanganyikans.

The Biafrans now feel that they cannot live under conditions of personal security in the present Nigerian Federation. As they were unable to achieve an agreement on a new form of association, they have therefore claimed the right to govern themselves.

The Biafrans are not claiming the right to govern anyone else. They have not said that they must govern the Federation as the only way of protecting themselves. They have simply withdrawn their consent to the system under which they used to be governed.

Support Obvious

Biafra is not now operating under the control of a democratic government any more than Nigeria is. But the mass support for the establishment and defence of Biafra is obvious.

This is not a case of a few leaders declaring secession for their own private glory. Indeed, by the Aburi Agreement the leaders of Biafra showed a greater reluctance to give up hope of some form of unity with Nigeria than the masses possessed. But the agreement was not implemented.

Tanzania would still like to see some form of co-operation or unity between all the peoples of Nigeria and Biafra. But whether this happens, to what extent, and in what fields, can only be decided by agreement among all the peoples involved. It is not for Tanzania to say.

We in this country believe that unity is vital for the future, of Africa. But it must be a unity which serves the people, and which is freely determined upon by the people.

Many Killed

For 10 months, we have accepted the federal government's legal right to our support in a "police action to defend the integrity of the state." On that basis we have watched a civil war result in the death of about 100,000 people and the employment of mercenaries by both sides.

We watched the federal government reject the advice of Africa to talk instead of demanding surrender before talks could begin. Everything combined gradually to force us to the conclusion that Nigerian unity did not exist.

Tanzania deeply regrets that the will for unity in Nigeria has been destroyed over the past two years. But we are convinced that Nigerian unity cannot be maintained by force any more than unity in East Africa could be created by one state conquering another.

It seemed to us that by refusing to recognize the existence of Biafra we were tacitly supporting a war against the people of eastern Nigeria—and a war conducted in the name of unity. We could not continue doing this any longer.

Cooling Breezes Blowing Between Paris-Quebec?

By BERNARD KAPLAN

PARIS — Headmaster Charles de Gaulle no longer looks upon Quebec Premier Daniel Johnson as his most promising pupil. According to informants, their relations have grown decidedly strained in recent weeks.

There has been no overt quarrel. But the French president is understood to be "disenchanted" with Johnson for showing excessive timidity in pursuing Quebec's struggle for a place in the sun.

De Gaulle also reportedly detects a growing coolness toward him personally on Johnson's part. Published remarks attributed to Johnson that he believed de Gaulle was attempting to "use" him for ends having little to do with benefiting Quebec have not been appreciated at the Elysee Palace.

Their tiff is unlikely to affect the upward course of Franco-Quebec co-operation over an ever-widening area any more than it will deflect de Gaulle from his passionate espousal of French-Canadian nationalism.

Personal relations play no part in this so far as the French chief of state is concerned. But the differences between Johnson and de Gaulle could, just possibly, provide a small opening for Prime Minister Trudeau's expressed desire for a new dialogue between the Canadian federal government and France.

PREMIER JOHNSON

Friction between the pair, carefully hidden from public view, has been accumulating for several months. It came to a head with the Quebec leader's decision to postpone his spring visit here for at least several months.

This visit was to have formed the occasion for a loudly trumpeted initial meeting of the Franco-Quebec "inter-ministerial council," dreamed up by de Gaulle soon after his July trip to Quebec and intended to give the latter a great filip in international prestige.

He and Johnson were to preside jointly over the council — this, in itself, was considered by de Gaulle to be an almost staggering compliment to his guest — and the whole affair was to have been stagemanaged so as to assume the proportions of a major political act.

Bluntly stated, Johnson is seen here to have gotten cold feet. De Gaulle apparently feels he ran out on him, although, doubtless, that is not the way Johnson would describe it.

It is believed in Canadian circles here that the latter thought de Gaulle's embrace was coming to resemble a bear hug and beginning severely to limit his freedom of movement vis-a-vis Ottawa. Therefore, he decided to put some distance between them and slow the pace.

Suspicions

So dubious have the French grown that the suspicion arose Johnson might yield to Ottawa by not sending Education Minister Cardinal to the "Francophone" educational conference here over which the three governments were sparring. There appears never to have been the slightest possibility of Johnson doing this, but the fact some people thought it could happen is comment enough.

Even at its palmiest, the rapport between de Gaulle and Johnson was never as good as both sides — but, especially, at the start, Quebec — liked to paint it.

Initially, Johnson was suspect here as a "reactionary"; the French don't like dealing with foreign reactionaries unless and until they're sure they can. This changed when he showed he was eager to give Franco-Quebec relations an even higher priority than his predecessor, Jean Lesage, had done.

Not 'French'

But, even then, Johnson appears to have struck de Gaulle as insufficiently "French," rather too much the North American politician for his taste.

De Gaulle would undoubtedly pick up where he left off with Lesage if the latter returned to office, although Lesage's mild criticisms of the July visit didn't sit well with the Elysee.

But French policy has been to steer well clear of the official separatists, at least until they demonstrate they can win at the polls. Whatever interest de Gaulle may have displayed toward Rene Levesque is not likely to have survived his recent public description of him as an "overbearing old man."

The future relations between Johnson and de Gaulle seem certain to lack the euphoric quality of the recent past. They can be expected to resemble the more guarded, watchful dealings that foreign leaders customarily have with one another. This, in itself, should not necessarily prove to be a bad thing.

Will NDP Smoke Out Trudeau for Stanfield?

By DOUGLAS FISHER and HARRY S. CROWE

Listening to and watching the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation one would conclude that there are only two political parties which will be facing the Canadian electorate, and that these two offer a clear choice to the voters.

Fisher

On the one hand, there is a new and vibrant Liberal force, led by a dashing young prime minister who is eager to make dramatic forays beyond the accustomed frontiers of Canadian politics.

On the other hand, there is a respectable, but rather ancient Conservative group, led by a distinguished and decent, but fairly uncommunicative fellow, who has probably been by-passed by the rush of events.

Crowe

It is hard to know what to do when such a caricature of the national scene is fed to us by the news department of a publicly-owned radio and television system. One could observe that what privately-owned newspapers do is their own business, and in a competitive market they would not get, and have not gotten, so far off the track.

And one could note that protests have been made by politicians affected. But outside pressure, especially during an election, is hardly the answer to the problems posed by the CBC regularly with each election.

There is a third major political party involved in the current election—the New Democratic Party. Although it differs from the Conservative Party in its history, its policies and its attitudes, it is similar to the Conservative Party of Robert Stanfield in 1968 in one essential particular—it is more concerned with issues than with images, slogans and cliches.

It could be that a key role could be played in this election by the New Democratic Party if it succeeds in Mr. Douglas' announced intention of forcing a public debate of a selected number of critical problems confronting the nation.

The opportunity for a determined third party to do this arises from the fact that the Trudeau government has neither record nor policies, and the fact that the views of the prime minister on most matters are unknown in any depth.

This is a role for which Mr. Douglas is possibly better suited than Mr. Stanfield, both by temperament and by experience. If it comes off, Mr. Trudeau will be the loser.

The areas in which the New Democrats will try to flush the Liberals out of the woods are those which were given most attention at the party's last convention and which are presented now in the form of specific NDP proposals to the electorate.

The party proposes the replacement of "secret, hurried premiers' conferences with permanent machinery for consultation and co-operation, including a federal-provincial planning and development council to make sure that the economic and social plans of our two levels of government dovetail."

There is a clear and precise proposition, a good place to begin a meaningful debate on Confederation. What is Mr. Trudeau's opinion?

The New Democratic Party proposes the establishment of scientific-technological research centres in co-operation with universities and industry to stimulate developments in a number of selected fields.

Along with this it suggests the creation of a Canadian Research and Development Corporation to invest in, or develop, promising new inventions and industrial processes.

Has Mr. Trudeau any opinion about this whole area of setting national scientific and research priorities?

As a result of a study undertaken by members of the New Democratic Party, Mr. Douglas has a party policy which would require setting up a new department of government "exclusively" concerned with testing consumer products, and equally important, publicizing the results. Also it would enforce honest labelling and packaging of products.

It strikes us that this has something to do with a "just society." What is Mr. Trudeau's view?

The NDP is committed to bringing assistance to mothers in the form of child care centres, vocational guidance and the like, so they can enter or re-enter the labor market. In very many families, this is an extremely important matter.

Would Mr. Trudeau consider that this falls properly under the heading of "manpower" and not "education" and hence appropriately of federal concern in his pigeon-hole theory of federalism? And if so, would he be prepared to do anything about it?

The New Democrats are on record in support of the principles and major recommendations of the Carter Commission. During his bid for the Liberal leadership, Mr. Trudeau hid behind the cloak of cabinet solidarity and said he could not take a position on the Carter Report.

It is now his cabinet. What is his position?

We shall turn later on to the relative positions before the voters of Mr. Trudeau's Liberals and Mr. Stanfield's Conservatives, where it seems to us, where we can get any evidence, that Mr. Stanfield is more for change than Mr. Trudeau. It is certainly so with respect to the constitution.

But for the opening stages of this election what excites our interest most is whether Tommy Douglas can chase Pierre Elliott Trudeau out of the woods of platitudes and slogans so that Robert Stanfield can get at him.

Family Finance Problem Worries Most Canadians

By the Canadian Institute of Public Opinion

The greatest problem facing Canadian families has remained static over the past decade. It is finances. The only difference in thinking on this subject in 1958 and 1968 is in degree. Politicians will find, as they go into their election campaigns, more people today are feeling the pinch of the high cost of living, increasing prices and lack of money than 10 years ago.

In 1958, 33% of the voters named finances as the greatest problem facing their families; today 47% name the economics of living. One problem high on the list 10 years ago was unemployment. Today only 5% of the people couple unemployment with "fear of a depression and insecurity."

The question: "What is the most urgent problem facing you and your family today?"

High cost of living; increasing prices; lack of money	47%
High taxes; government spending	6
Education; restless young people	6
Health; old age	5
Fear of a depression; insecurity; unemployment	5
Other (including housing)	8
Can't say	24

*More than one problem mentioned.

The Time You Waste When You Could Be Just Sitting

By ART STOTT

My friend who occasionally abandons Milton, Dryden, Pope and Boswell, classical music or watching Stanley Cup hockey to take a relaxing turn with his lathe in the basement, confessed to me a singular aberration. He had acquired a bench box full of odd ments—nuts without bolts, bolts without nuts, nails of various sizes, some bent, wood screws, washers, stray pieces of electrical equipment, staples, small pipe-fittings—everything a basement workman with the instincts of a packrat tosses into a container with the thought that it may come in handy some day.

Stott

An orderly man, my friend started to sort out the accumulation, separating the different items according to kind and size and putting them in appropriate tins.

Three hours later he had found a place for everything and put everything in its place. Three hours, he said incredulously, and the whole collection wasn't worth 50 cents. He wondered, in his logical way, how a person of any intelligence could spend so much time to so little profit. Yet, he explained, once he had begun the job, some compulsion drove him to finish it.

In terms of common sense my friend should have dumped the whole works in the garbage can. He might then have returned to reading Milton, Dryden, Pope or Boswell, listening to his hi-fi—or attended to any of a number of chores his good wife had listed for him.

He had come to the right confessional when he admitted his foolish waste of time to me. I, at least, could offer him the solace of similar foolishness. In the not-too-distant past, I had spent five hours untangling yards of six-pound test nylon fishline that had birds-nested when I tried to transfer it from the spools on which it came from the store onto my reel. The fish line wasn't worth more than a dollar, but I fiddled away at the tangles until I had a crick in my neck, double vision and a fine temper that had me saying impolite things to that gentle soul who shares my demesne. At that point I checked myself and read the directions. I always read the directions to see if I've done it right.

People who will spend hours sorting out the contents of a bench box of oddments or untangling an inexpensive fishing line have not adjusted to the modern era. Time, as we are told continually, is money. Once spent it can never be reclaimed. Therefore it behooves us all to use it judiciously, making it count and, if possible, return a dividend.

At the same time, I can think of innumerable activities which absorb time to no apparent purpose, including some that are vestigial in origin.

When I was untangling my fish line I was performing—with the ancestrally acquired impulse of generations of string-savers in my family. When he was sorting out his small junk in the basement, he was probably responding to a pioneer impulse implanted at a time when a person did not discard old nails, screws, bolts, nuts and the like.

We both, I told him, might have rejected the self-imposed chores and spent useless time looking at some inanity on the boob-tube. Or, had we been around a generation earlier, we might have whittled a piece of wood into a small heap of chips, perhaps making a willow whistle, when we could have bought a plastic one, equally as good, for a pittance. We might, under other circumstances, have been out flying a kite, unconcerned by any theories of aerodynamics and convinced that Ben Franklin had learned all that was worth learning from kite-flying.

Neither my friend nor I will ever know precisely what compulsion drove us to our time-consuming futilities. But perhaps we could draw a moral from them.

If he could give the concentration and the hours to sorting out the miscellaneous ideas tossed continually into the human hopper that passes for intelligence, or if I could use the same resources to unscramble even one of the tangled concepts which perplex me, we could count the time and effort well spent.

Even drawing a moral from the incidents seems to justify some puritanical impulse—and what can be more time-consuming or futile than that?

Universities As Partners In Corruption

(By columnist "R" in Encounter, British literary monthly.)

How does one explain, in an age which has seen the greatest multiplication and expansion of universities since the Middle Ages, this widespread revulsion of students against the society of which they are the beneficiaries?

Is it fanciful to suggest that this is a kind of doom which the universities have brought upon themselves?

The more they have betrayed the ideal of a voluntary association of teachers and taught in the disinterested pursuit of knowledge and learning, the more they have approximated to the model of educational factories designed to supply the State with the precise annual quotas of scientists, technologists, managers and administrators which it requires. Thereby they have increasingly identified themselves with the aims and objects of governments which, in the eyes of many of the young, are morally corrupt, and have sacrificed their only true claim on the love, affection and devotion of their students.

It is significant that the demands of the radical German student leader Rudi Dutschke, so far as they can be precisely formulated at all, are directed at the creation of universities which shall be totally free, self-governing communes, on a Fourierist or Tolstoyan model, which reject the corrupt democracy of bourgeois capitalism.

Marx thought that the factory would be the breeding-ground of revolution. How strange it would be if, in the modern state, it was the university which took over this function.

. . . MAY DAY

In a May Day letter, read to the crowd, the Council of Trades Unions of Da Nang said that while "the door of peace had been opened slightly, we must also deplore the slowness with which, among the people of the free world, South Vietnam has come to grips with internal organization, with cleaning up its administration. . . ."

At another labor rally in Saigon, Vice-President Nguyen Cao Ky took another swipe at critics of his government, presumably in the United States.

"It's very funny to say that there are some people who have never set foot in this country, yet they want to withdraw from it," he said. "They can withdraw. They can go because they have never been here."

May Day activities elsewhere:

Tokyo—Toshikatsu Hori, chairman of the Japan Federation of Labor Unions, told a big rally: "The policies of monopoly capital under Sato are against the interests of the workers and medium and small enterprises."

Hong Kong—Long-time residents called it the quietest May Day in the British Crown colony since the Communists took over the Chinese mainland. About 1,000 Communists wearing Mao Tse-tung badges picnicked in the colony's new territories as British helicopters observed them from overhead. Small crowds of Communist sympathizers showed up at leftist gathering places for traditional rallies and celebrations. But these were minor compared to the masses that appeared a year ago, just before violent riots ripped the colony. The giant Mao banners and Chinese flags that usually adorn Communist-owned buildings on May Day were conspicuously scarce this year.

Madrid—The Spanish government massed police and civil guard units in Madrid and other industrial cities after using clubs to curb earlier attempts to stage May Day demonstrations. Police sources said 25 demonstrators were arrested in Madrid Tuesday night and four persons including one policeman, were injured.

'WAR MONEY NEEDED AT HOME'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, leader of thee Poor People's Campaign, told State Secretary Dean Rusk today that money spent in Vietnam needs to be used to help solve problems of the U.S. poor.

"The resources which are so vital and necessary to carry on the fight against poverty at home are being used to fight this war 6,000 miles away," Abernathy said as campaign workers began their third day of conferences with government leaders.

. . . ENVOY

what Mr. Leger had been advised to do when he got back to France.

The prime minister hoped that developments in the case will not have to be made too public. He gave no indication that a break in diplomatic relations with France was in the offing.

Although Mr. Trudeau mentioned "a note," external affairs officials said later no note to the French government was involved in the latest developments.

AUTHORITY IN DOUBT

Canada suspended diplomatic relations with Gabon after that tiny African country invited Quebec to the first stage of the same conference for French-speaking countries in February. The case has raised doubts about the authority of the Canadian government in external relations.

Cardinal was accorded treatment given to representatives of independent states. Peyrefitte pointedly told Tuesday's weekly cabinet meeting under President de Gaulle that Cardinal acted as an equal at the educational parley.

Diplomatic sources in Paris wondered how far Ottawa would go in protesting against what it considers to be French disregard for the federal government.

France has been escalating her wooing of Quebec since de Gaulle's visit to Canada last year, during which he issued his "Long live free Quebec" cry that led to a sharp protest from Ottawa and a cancellation of the rest of de Gaulle's tour.

Next on the long list of visiting Quebec officials will be Gilles la Montagne, mayor of Quebec City. The mayor and his wife will be the guests May 4-8 of the Normany-Canada association. They will visit Chief Normandy province landmarks.

Viet Cong Set to Join 'Alliance'

TOKYO (AP) — The National Liberation Front has announced its support of an alliance of South Vietnamese interested in peace, a Hanoi broadcast said today.

The statement was made by the presidium of the central committee of the political arm of the Viet Cong, the broadcast said.

"The front declares its support of the political stand and program of action of the alliance, and is ready to join actions with it to fight side by side for independence, democracy, peace, neutrality and prosperity, a free and happy life for the entire people and the ultimate peaceful reunification of the fatherland."

The Alliance of National Democratic and Peace Forces of Vietnam was established in South Vietnam April 20-21 near Saigon-Cholon, Hanoi has reported.

The alliance has offered to meet with the United States on ending the Vietnam war and proclaimed the formation of a national coalition government as one of its aims.

AUSTRALIA PUT ON TRAIL OF ASSASSIN

CANBERRA (Reuters)—The U.S. Federal Bureau of Investigation has asked Australian police to look for the man wanted for the murder of Rev. Martin Luther King, officials said today.

The man wanted was identified as James Earl Ray, who now uses the alias of Eric Starvo Galt.

Police sources here were told Ray had a passport which he could have used to reach Australia, they said.

DEEP SOUTH FRENCH AIDED BY QUEBEC

QUEBEC (CP) — A spokesman for the cultural affairs department said Tuesday talks aimed at a cultural and educational agreement between Quebec and Louisiana have been under way "for some time."

The official said Quebec hopes to conclude agreements similar to the cultural and educational agreements made with France in 1965. The agreements permitted, among other things, regular exchanges of teachers and students.

The Quebec government had made grants to enable French-speaking natives of the southern U.S. state to study French in Quebec province for the last two summers.

QUEBEC'S JOHNSON ADVOCATES PARTNERSHIP

Independence 'Solution of Despair'

NEW YORK (CP) — Premier Daniel Johnson of Quebec said Tuesday night independence for Quebec would be a "solution of despair."

Johnson said in an interview Quebec's youth is "tempted by the idea" of independence from Canada. But he advocated a partnership of English-speaking and French-speaking "nations" with numerous social powers for Quebec as the "mainstay of French Canada."

In a speech later to the Economic Club of New York, Johnson told an audience of 1,400 that English Canada "will not be blackmailed into a new constitution and French Canada will not be forced into the present constitution."

However, he expressed optimism that after "two or three years" of negotiations a new constitution "for all Canadians" will be a reality. The future charter, he said, will have to recognize that Canada, because of cultural and regional disparities, cannot be a "unitary country."

RELICS MUST BE SHED

Johnson also said the new consitution will "have to shed all relics of an imperial or colonial era" including "the non-elective status of provincial lieutenant-governors."

"Federalism is the best political form of maintaining Canada as a peaceful, peace-loving and peace-contributing country," he said.

Johnson discussed the unanimous agreement of the federal and provincial governments to review the Canadian constitution.

"There will be some tensions and some attitudes will be subject to criticism," he said, but his personal expectations are high "because of the innate objectivity, self-restraint and relative lack of prejudice of our people."

He said:

"What kind of accommodation will have to be made between French-speaking and English-speaking groups under these circumstances? I can imagine all the meanders of the road. But I can see the final outcome: Canada will become more federal and less federalist, more uniting and less unitary.

"Our future constitution will have to shed all relics of an imperial or colonial era as evidenced in wornout formulas or references to the royal prerogative, the paramountcy of Westminster, the privileged status of the common law, the vesting of residual powers in the federal government, the non-elective status of the provincial lieutenant-governors, the veto of the federal government over provincial legislation. . . .

"Canada will have been the architect of its own choosing, institutions patterned after its own needs and a common purpose better nunciated than the present preamble of the British North America Act to the effect that Confederation 'would conduce to the welfare of the provinces and promote the interests of the British Empire.'"

He said Quebec's relations with French-speaking countries would be conducted "without any danger of setting up 11 or even two policies of foreign affairs in the sense of peace and war and other traditional contents of the expression."

Johnson made the following predictions regarding the constitution:

1. "The inner constitution of each province will become less stereotyped than at present where it is all patterned in the same fashion after the traditional British parliamentary system which is found to be creaking and squeaking in a number of places."

2. With French-speaking countries, Quebec would maintain "intense relations in matters of education and culture which are essential to preservation and nourishment of its particular traits."

3. More people would learn to speak the two official languages. Bilingualism "will finally be recognized at all levels," and the new constitution would rely less on customs and usage and more on "recourse to codified rules, principles and procedures."

. . . ROCKEFELLER

doubt" the Tuesday morning announcement that Rockefeller would campaign for the GOP presidential nomination gave a strong "impetus" to the New York governor's write-in support.

Rockefeller, who said he was "most gratified and heartened" by the showing, apparently won the election in the small towns of Massachusetts. Although he won Cambridge by 269 votes and Worcester by 63, he trailed Volpe by 712 votes in Boston, lost Springfield by 363, Brockton by 369, Lawrence by 367 and Fall River by 79 in the big city battles.

Lowell was the lone remaining city outstanding early today, but the Merrimack Valley industrial city is a strong Democratic area. Unoffical returns showed Volpe winning Lowell by less than 100 votes, which would not affect the final outcome.

WHAT THIS COUNTRY NEEDS IT HAS . . .

That's right! It needs a good car under $2,000. And Cortina is it. Ford Cortina costs $1995. We admit it's not far under $2,000, but then it really can't be. It just offers so much!

SECONDLY—It has lots of power and economy.

THIRDLY—Its solid unit body construction makes it durable and quiet.

FOURTHLY—It is safety engineered to conform to all North American safety standards.

We could go on and on about Cortina features, but to keep the price down, we keep these ads small.

'New Film' Wins Good Reception

By AB KENT
Business Editor

The motion picture industry's return to films with popular appeal gives much promise to exhibitors' prospects in the face of increasing competition in the culture and leisure field.

R. W. Bolstad, president of Famous Players Canadian Corp., told shareholders his company looks for a satisfactory year, basing the prospect on this acceptance of the "new film," and on first quarter results.

Kent

Famous Players has 12 new theatres under construction—one drive-in, the others in shopping centres or downtown locations, including sites adjacent to existing theatres.

The company's CATV (cable television) interests are making good progress, claiming 187,000 subscribers to March 31 compared with 173,000 at the end of 1967.

First quarter net earnings were $955,000 or 55 cents per share, compared with $817,000 (47 cents) a year ago. Mr. Bolstad indicated results would have been better but for a decline in national advertising through F-Players radio and TV interests.

It is still the company's intention to consolidate all its non-theatre operations in a new subsidiary, Famous Communications Ltd., in which directors are considering provision of a limited number of public shares.

But the change to a new Canadian Radio and Television Commission has meant "serious delay" of negotiations aimed in this direction.

Famous Players is owned largely by the American company, Gulf and Western Industries Inc., and has numerous subsidiaries and affiliates in the entertainment, motel and broadcasting industries, including British Columbia Television Broadcasting Ltd.

Western Broadcasting Co., Ltd., which owns 16.6 per cent of B.C. Television Broadcasting Ltd., nearly doubled its net income last year, and despite a two-for-one share split last July was able to pay a 34.5-cent dividend compared with 27.5 cents a year ago.

Most of the increase is explained by the non-recurring $434,000 revenue from sale of shares in Standard Radio Ltd.

Net sales last year amounted to $3.599 million, against 3.343 million the year previous. Per-share earnings, adjusted to reflect stock split, came to $1.19 compared with 62 cents.

Western intends to open a new FM station in Vancouver-New Westminster area, coinciding with the opening of new offices by wholly-owned CKNW later in the year.

White Pass and Yukon Corp. Ltd. was slow getting into the busy northern transportation season this year, but has more than made up for the delay.

Vice-president and managing director A. P. Friesen told the annual meeting the lull usually over by the end of January lasted well into February, but first quarter results are good.

Per-share earnings stand at 41 cents to the end of March, compared with 43 cents in 1967, but there are more shares outstanding this year.

Last year's gross came to $4.3 million, compared with $3.57 in 1966.

Directors of B.C. Forest Products Ltd. meet Thursday to appoint a new president replacing A. D. Hamilton, who has been named president of the newly-formed Domtar Pulp and Paper Co., a subsidiary of Domtar Ltd. consolidating the operations of six companies into one integrated pulp-paper firm.

Domtar reports sales for the first quarter down from $99.9 million to $99.5 million, but investment and sundry income is up from $400,000 to $900,000, making a net of $900,000 against $700,000 (restated).

Sales were about $3.8 million higher in the quarter not counting sales of consumer products division, sold at the end of 1967.

Reports of substantially higher earnings are believed responsible for a brisk uptrend in First National Mortgage (1962) Co., Ltd., common shares and in warrants at the Vancouver Stock Exchange.

The common closed Tuesday at $6.25, up ¼, and warrants were $4.50, up 20 cents.

It was not long ago that warrants were selling for $1. The 1968 low for common stock was $3.50, the March low $4.

INDUSTRIALIST CLYNE WARNS

'Halt Must Be Called To Enormous Wage Boosts'

VANCOUVER (CP) — The coast forest industry in British Columbia is engaged in the most critical wage negotiations it has ever faced, J. V. Clyne, chairman of MacMillan Bloedel Ltd., said Tuesday.

He warned shareholders at the company's annual meeting it is economically impossible for the export-oriented industry to meet wage increases sought by woodworkers and that a lengthy strike may result.

The International Woodworkers of America is seeking a 50-cent hourly wage increase in one year for 26,000 coastal woodworkers whose current contract ends June 14. Industry leaders say fringe benefits also sought would bring the figure to $1.01 an hour.

LISTS COSTS

Mr. Clyne said that if wages and fringe benefits sought by the woodworkers were also applied to pulp and paper workers, the total cost to the B.C. industry would be $80,000,000 a year. Of this amount $23,000,000 would be borne by MacMillan Bloedel.

"It must be clearly stated that it is economically impossible for the coastal industry to meet such demands," said Mr. Clyne.

"If the unions persist in their demands, the industry will have no alternative but to refuse.

"The inevitable result will be a lengthy strike which will have serious consequences for everybody in B.C. and for every segment of the provincial economy.

"I am not being belligerent in any sense but merely stating facts so that there will be no misunderstanding."

Some 10,000 pulp and paper workers, split between three unions, are preparing to negotiate mass contracts to replace agreements ending in June. One union has already decided to seek increases similar to those asked for by the IWA.

GUARANTEED INCOME?

The pulp workers are also expected to seek guaranteed monthly or annual incomes for their members.

Mr. Clyne said cost of wage, salary and employee benefits in 1966 increased by more than $15,000,000 and in 1967 there was another $16,000,000 increase.

"These figures were, of course, before tax, but it does not need the assistance of any expert to come to the conclusion that the company cannot continue to absorb these enormous increases and that it is time to call a halt," he said.

In 1966 negotiations with the IWA, he said, the industry was forced to agree to a two-year settlement that was "far in excess of its ability to pay over the term of the agreement." This was reflected in reduced earnings current throughout the industry.

His report showed that in 1966, MacMillan Bloedel had a profit of $42,500,000 on income of $479,900,000. In 1967, profit was $36,200,000 on income of $540,500,000.

PRESIDENT OF M & B RESIGNS

VANCOUVER (CP) — Charles A. Specht has resigned as president of MacMillan Bloedel Ltd., company chairman J. V. Clyne announced Tuesday.

Mr. Clyne told the company annual meeting that no replacement has been selected. No reason was given for the resignation.

Mr. Clyne said Mr. Specht, re-elected to the board of directors, will be nominated as a member of an executive committee earlier Tuesday.

Canada's Reserves Gain

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's exchange reserves increased by $171,200,000 in April as the Canadian dollar strengthened steadily in the exchange market.

A finance department statement today said reserves of gold and U.S. dollars totalled $2,415,600,000 on April 30. The corresponding figure on March 31 had been $2,244,400,000.

It was the first month-to-month improvement since last December, and followed a crisis that began in January and was not beaten back until mid-March.

There had been losses of $350,000,000 in January, $113,400,000 in February and $245,600,000 in March as the Bank of Canada poured U.S. dollars into the exchange market to mop up Canadian dollars and support the fixed rate of 92.5 cents in terms of U.S. funds.

Since mid-March the dollar has been pushing upward, permitting the Bank of Canada to buy back U.S. dollars and begin restoring the reserves.

Canada's commitment to the fixed exchange rate carries an obligation to maintain the exchange value of the dollar within one per cent of 92.5 cents. This represents a trading range in the market between 91.575 and 93.425 cents.

In practice, the central bank steps in to buy or sell before the dollar arrives at either end of the range.

WEAKNESS OVERCOME

The first signs of weakness in the dollar appeared after the Jan. 1 announcement of a U.S. balance of payments program that appeared to threaten the supply of American capital to Canada. This was cleared up March 7 by an announcement that Canada would be completely exempted from the program's restrictions.

Meanwhile, other blows were falling. The international monetary crisis, which eventually forced a modification of the gold exchange standard, found speculators running to gold and away from currencies linked to the U.S. dollar.

On Feb. 19, the Liberal government's bill increasing taxes was defeated in Parliament, and a successor was not passed until March 15.

Canada went abroad twice to garner support for its reserves. In January it arranged a $250,000,000 currency swap with the U.S. Federal Reserve Board, and in February it borrowed $185,000,000 from the International Monetary Fund.

Silver Output Up

OTTAWA (CP) — Silver production in February totalled 4,234,928 troy ounces compared with 2,503,916 in the same month a year ago and 2,423,810 in February, 1966, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics has reported.

Astros Go for Doubles While Reds Get Nothing

Five Double Plays Help Houston Rebound for Win

By The Associated Press

With nowhere to go but up, Larry Dierker and Houston Astros went for double or nothing . . . and made a twin killing.

The Astros, rebounding from a chaotic 17-2 loss to Cincinnati Monday that deposited them in the National League cellar, backed Dierker's two-hit pitching with five double plays Tuesday night and blanked the Reds 3-0.

It was only the second victory for the Astros in their last 11 games and the first triumph for Dierker after three srtaight setbacks.

In other games, St. Louis Cardinals held off Los Angeles Dodgers 2-1, Pittsburgh Pirates overtook Chicago Cubs 4-3, New York Mets edged Philadelphia Phillies 1-0 and San Francisco Giants trimmed Atlanta Braves 7-0.

Dierker limited the Reds to a pair of singles. He struck out seven and issued three walks, but the Houston infield turned over double plays in the second, third, fourth, sixth and seventh innings for a single-game club record.

The Astros broke up a scoreless duel between Dierker and Cincinnati southpaw Gerry Arrigo in the eighth, tallying all their runs on Ron Davis double and singles by John Bateman, Denis Menke, Jim Wynn and Doug Rader.

Ray Washburn stopped the Dodgers with ninth-inning relief help from Joe Hoerner and ran his pitching mark to 3-0 as the Cardinals won for the seventh time in their last eight starts.

The Dodgers ruined Washburn's shutout bid in the eighth, when Fairey tripled and scored on an infield single by Popovich.

DROVE IN TWO

Pittsburgh spotted the Cubs two ninth-inning runs, then rallied for three in the bottom of the ninth. Manny Mota drove in the last two with a two-out pinch double.

Run-scoring singles by Al Spangler and Don Kessinger gave the Cubs a 3-1 lead before the Pirates pulled it out on a single by Willie Stargell, a walk, Gene Alley's run-scoring single and Mota's double to centre field off reliever Bill Stoneman.

Ron Swoboda seized the major-league home run lead and powered the Mets past Philadelphia with his seventh homer, a second-inning blast off Chris Short.

The Giants stole four bases, setting up four runs, and buried the Braves behind the clutch pitching of Ray Sadecki, who gave up 10 hits but breezed to his third victory in four decisions after working out of jams in five of the first six innings.

American League hitters are ahead of the pitchers, particularly when the pitchers are doing the hitting.

Minnesota's Dave Boswell, California's George Brunet, Baltimore's Bruce Howard and Chicago's Gary Peters all came through with big hits Tuesday but only the first two managed to pick up victories for their pitching.

Sonny Siebert of Cleveland Indians also may have started a beanball war by allegedly brushing back California's Don Mincher three times in Cleveland Indians' 5-3 loss to California Angels. Siebert also yielded two singles to opposing hurler Brunet, who scored both times.

Boswell drove in two runs with a homer and double but needed relief help as Minnesota Twins edged Boston Red Sox 7-6. Howard knocked in a run with a double but had to leave in the third inning after walking six batters as Baltimore Orioles outlasted New York Yankees 6-5.

STARTS UPRISING

Peters doubled to start a three-run seventh-inning uprising as Chicago White Sox took a 4-1 lead over Washington. But the Senators tied it in the eighth on Ken McMullen's two-run homer and won out 5-4 on McMullen's second homer of the game in the 12th.

Oakland's Paul Lindblad put an end to the nonsense with 4 1-3 innings of perfect relief as the Athletics whipped Detroit Tigers 3-1 on Ramon Webster's three-run first-inning homer.

California manager Bill Rigney was seething about the Siebert-Mincher episode.

"Tell Siebert we owe him one," he said. "He's going down the first time we see him again."

The Angels, trailing 2-1, scored the tying and lead runs in the sixth inning on Jimmie Hall's double and consecutive Cleveland errors by second baseman Chico Salmon and first baseman Tony Horton.

PETE JUST CAN'T AVOID PITFALLS . . .

SEATTLE (AP)—Pete Claridge is injury prone but the University of Washington football end picks weird ways to acquire his pains.

So nobody was surprised when he asked the trainer to treat a dislocated finger.

Last fall he cut his finger when he slipped in the bathtub.

Is Rhodesia Next Olympic-Ban Target?

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Now that South Africa has been banned from the Mexico Olympics, sports officials here are worried that Rhodesia may be the next target of the Afro-Asian and Communist countries.

Rhodesia has a white minority government but permits inter-racial competition in sports.

In addition to possible block action against Rhodesia, officials also are concerned over Britain's proposals that the United Nations enforce a world-wide airline ban on persons using Rhodesian passports.

This would mean that athletes could not leave the country nor could they obtain Mexican visas.

Salisbury's Sunday Mail says South Africa's elimination "is another example how mob rule is allowed to triumph these days.

"It is also probably a forerunner of what is yet in store for Rhodesia."

The paper questions the right of the International Olympic Committee to reject a multi-racial South African team while welcoming Russia which it calls "a country where civil rights scarcely exist and justice in a mockery."

Rhodesia already has accepted the official invitation to the Oct. 12-27 Games but there are many obstacles which could prevent its participation.

Tigers Suffer For Confidence

WINNIPEG (CP) — "It's a best of five series now," said a jubilant St. Boniface manager after his Mohawks skated to a 5-1 win over Victoriaville Tigers Tuesday to even their best-of-seven Allan Cup final at one game each.

"We checked them all night and didn't let them get their plays going," Aime Allaire said.

Mohawks lost the opener 6-2 on mistakes and great goaltending by Tiger netminder Claude Hardy. The third game will be played Thursday.

St. Boniface took a 1-0 lead after one period and stretched it to 4-1 after two before 1,754 fans.

"They controlled the puck pretty good tonight," said coach Lou Poliquin after he gave his Tigers a dressing-room lecture that lasted about 40 minutes.

'TOO MUCH CONFIDENCE'

"We had too much confidence" after the first win, said Poliquin. "Now they know they're in the final for the Allan Cup and the other team is good too."

Carrying the play and forcing the Quebec team to make the first move paid off early for Mohawks. Ken Stephenson drew the Tigers defence and passed to Butch Goring who slipped the puck through Hardy's legs at 6:45 of the first period.

Mohawks' top scorer was Lorne Bodanski who got his first by slapping in his own rebound, then collected the only goal of the final frame by flipping in Gerry Kell's quick pass from behind the net.

Celtics Take Playoff Lead

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics blew a 14-point fourth-quarter lead and then bounced back behind Don Nelson and John Havlicek for a 120-117 overtime victory over Los Angeles Tuesday night, moving within one triumph of regaining the National Basketball Association championship.

Nelson scored five of his 26 points in the five-minute extra session in helping the Celtics take a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven series, scheduled to resume in Los Angeles Thursday night.

Cesare Might Conquer If Stars Can Get Goals

By MICHAEL BENNETT

SCOTTY BOWMAN
. . . praised goalie

MINNEAPOLIS (CP) — The tall, lean Italian picked up his suitcase at Minneapolis-St. Paul International Airport and left to meet his family. There were no cries of "Hail Cesare"—Cesare Maniago didn't feel much like a conqueror.

Less than 16 hours before, the six-foot, three-inch Minnesota North Stars' goaltender had been beaten on a shot by Bill McCreary at 17:27 of sudden-death overtime to give St. Louis Blues a 3-2 win in the Stanley Cup semi-finals.

Maniago had stopped 52 shots, 16 of them before McCreary sent the 11,931 St. Louis fans into ecstasy. The praise of Scotty Bowman, coach of the Blues, provided the 29-year-old native of Trail, B.C., with little solace.

"It doesn't matter how many shots you stop," Maniago said as he lifted his daughter into the car.

"You always remember the ones that get past you. Maybe, it will be our turn tonight."

The sixth game of the best-of-seven series will be played here tonight at 8 p.m. CDT. St. Louis leads the series 3-2 with the seventh game, if necessary, scheduled for the Blues' arena Friday.

Maniago is a tough competitor, the kind of a goaltender who skates out to the blueline to stop an opposing forward on a breakaway. He suffered a broken jaw in a game against Philadelphia Flyers in late February, but didn't miss a game.

His face is etched with the scars of more than 200 stitches in seven seasons as a professional, but Maniago's worst injury occurred when he was 15 and still playing midget hockey.

"I got hit in the mouth in a midget game in Trail," Maniago said. "It split my mouth and nose and I lost a few teeth, but I heal in a hurry."

Coach Wren Blair of Minnesota was criticized for picking Maniago over Charlie Hodge who went to Oakland Seals in National Hockey League's June expansion draft, but the lanky goaltender made him look like a prophet.

LED HIS DIVISION

Maniago had six shutouts during the regular season, the most in the Western Division and Blair says he is one of the reasons the North Stars are still in the playoffs.

"He is the reason we made the playoffs with a minimum of pro players," Blair said. "Maniago is young and will continue to improve."

"We started off this season alternating in goal," Maniago said.

"Gary (alternate goaltender Gary Bauman) would work one game and then I would play. But when Gary got hot, I didn't play for about two weeks.

"It's hard to adjust to a game situation after playing only in practice. It takes a period or two to sharpen your reflexes."

MISSED HAMBURGERS

"I had to eat porridge and everything out of a blender," he said. "You learn to appreciate things like hamburgers when you can't eat them."

"Cesare has had a helluva year and a great playoff series," Blair said.

"Now all the guys have to do is score a few goals for him tonight."

Blair got what he wanted out of three games in a row in St. Louis—one victory to bring the series back here.

"We're in the same position we were against Los Angeles Kings in the quarter-finals and you know what happened there," Blair said.

The North Stars were down 3-2 but won at home and in Los Angeles for the right to meet the Blues.

FOR CANADIAN TRAINER

Louisville Action Like Pitching a No-Hitter

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Twenty-three years ago Lou Cavalaris was a cook in the merchant marine.

Today he's a horse trainer out of Toronto closing in on a goal that whets the appetite of all thoroughbred trainers—to saddle a horse in the Kentucky Derby.

And if Peter Fuller's Dancer's Image goes to the post Saturday — and he will barring some mishap — Cavalaris will have his first Derby horse and could well have a Derby winner.

TOPS LAST YEAR

Cavalaris knows the disappointment of a near-miss.

Last year he had Cool Reception primed for the Derby but did not like the way the colt ran while finishing second in the Derby trial.

Four weeks later the Canadian-owned horse finished second in the Belmont Stakes but broke a leg and had to be destroyed.

Cavalaris, a native of Ohio who looks like he belongs in the Super Bowl with the Green Bay Packers rather than in the stable area of a track, got into the racing business after getting out of the merchant marine in 1945.

STARTED IN DETROIT

"I began by walking hots in Detroit for my father's trainer," Cavalaris said.

"My father owned a couple of cheap horses.

Then in 1945 he shipped his few horses in someone else's van to Fort Erie, Ont., so he could race in the fall.

He fell in love with Canada, eventually married a Canadian girl and now resides there.

Maple Leafs Complain Of Quebec Player Drain

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebec teams would have a better chance at junior hockey's Memorial Cup if they "started keeping our top players instead of giving them to the OHA as a gift," coach Pete Singleton of Verdun Maple Leafs said Tuesday night.

Singleton was still smarting from the 4-2 defeat his team suffered at the hands of the Ontario Hockey Association's Niagara Falls Flyers, largely on the strength of a sensational performance by Flyers goalie Phil Myre who kicked aside 41 of 43 shots.

Myre, 19, a native of suburban LaSalle and draft choice of Montreal Canadiens of the NHL, consistently robbed the Leafs of goals as the Flyers handed them their second straight defeat in the Memorial Cup Eastern Canada best-of-five final.

"That's the second straight game in which we outplayed them," said the Verdun coach, referring to Flyers' 5-4 victory in the series opener here Sunday night. "It hurts when you're a better team than they are."

Myre is "the difference between us and an OHA champion —experience in nets," he said. "He was terrific but he was also so lucky you could smell it."

Marksmen for Niagara Falls were Mike Keeler, Steve Atkinson, Doug Brindley and Phil Roberto. Guy Charron and Gary Brown replied for Verdun.

The series now moves to Niagara Falls for the remaining games, starting with the third tonight. The fourth and fifth, if necessary, will be played Friday and Saturday.

Quarry's Rib Not Broken

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Heavyweight boxer Jerry Quarry did not break a rib in his fight with Jimmy Ellis in Oakland Saturday night.

Ellis outpointed Quarry for the World Boxing Association heavyweight title and after the fight Quarry's mother announced that Jerry's rib had been fractured in the third round.

Ellis did indeed slam a right into Quarry's ribs in the third, as well as other rounds, and Jerry was in pain when several layers of bandages were wrapped around his waist in the dressing room later.

A friend said that recently Jerry slipped and lurched into a juke box, bruising his ribs—the same ribs that Ellis hit on occasion.

Swimmers Picked For Coventry Meet

VANCOUVER (CP) — Sylvia Dockerill and Jeanne Warren, both of Vancouver, have been selected for a Canadian swimming team to compete in a dual meet at Coventry, England, May 25-26.

Elaine Tanner of Winnipeg was also picked while Vancouver's Bill Mahoney was named as alternate.

Hunting of Muskoxen Approved by Eskimos

RESOLUTE BAY, N.W.T. (CP) — Eskimos in the eastern Arctic settlements of Resolute Bay and Grise Fiord have approved plans to allow limited sports hunting of muskoxen, the territorial government has announced.

Eskimos in the two settlements told a three-man delegation from the territorial government they approve a pilot plan allowing an annual kill of 32 of the rare animals, which have been protected from hunters since 1917.

Hunters would have to use Eskimo guides and leave the meat at the disposal of Eskimo co-operatives.

The territorial government in November, 1966, decided to establish the limited program of sports hunting but ran into violent opposition from wildlife and conservation groups who feared the animals would become extinct.

The muskoxen is a long-haired, horned member of the sheep family. Indiscriminate slaughter by explorers and others led to the federal government's ban on killing them.

PUCK POST RETAINED

Trail Golfer in Race To Win Pro Tour Spot

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. — Two Canadians were among the leading contenders for the 15 spots on the Professional Golfers' Association tour in the player school tournament which ends today.

With 36 holes to go in the 144-hole competition, Lawrence O'Hearn of Dartmouth, N.S., was tied with Michael Hill of Tecumseh, Mich., for eighth place at 435. Kenneth Fulton of Trail was 14th at 442.

Montreal's Philippe Giroux was three strokes out of 15th place at 446. Wayne Vollmer of Vancouver has a 451 total and Norm Doyle of Montreal has 459.

George Thorpe of Cleveland leads the field with a 424 total, two strokes ahead of Larry Hinson of Douglas, Ga. Jack Ewing of Bakersfield, Calif., who led going into Tuesday's play, slipped to third place at 427.

TO KEEP CHECK . . . . . . ON BALL VELOCITY

Golf Machine Unveiled

CHICAGO (AP) — The United States Golf Association has taken further steps in governing the speed of a ball and, thus, its distance.

The organization has bought a testing machine that will put a clamp on the manufacturing of golf balls that, possibly in the future, could be driven 350 yards.

Said Joe Dey, association executive director, at the unveiling Tuesday of a computerized, $44,000 testing machine developed by Illinois Tool Works:

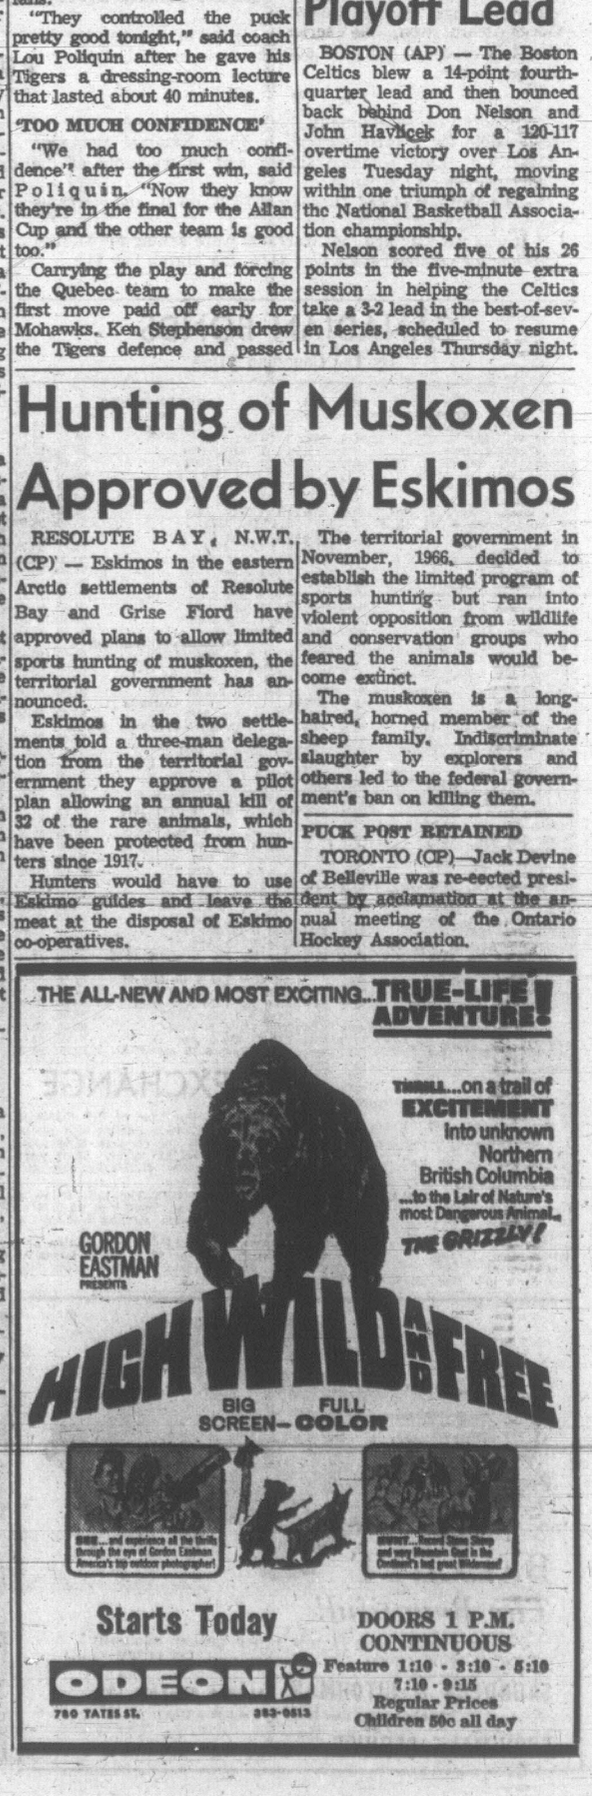
"The current rule of golf limits the impact velocity of a ball to 250 feet per second, with a two per cent tolerance.

"The speed initially is about 170 miles an hour. This is about 260 yards of carry.

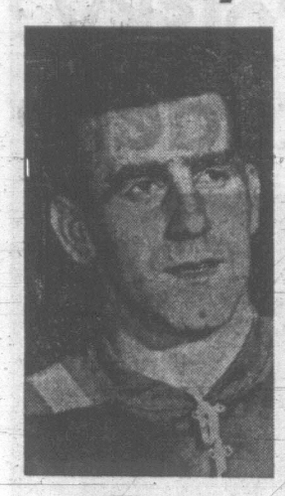
"If manufacturers were given a free hand with their inventive genius they could make golf balls that would go 300 yards on the fly—or about 350 yards in all."

If this happened, Dey said, golf courses would be outmoded.

"The average country club course is 6,300 yards. That averages out 350 yards a hole. Most holes would be driven."



Loss of Tough Veterans Felt by Vancouver Club



SID WARICK
. . . slick sniper

Victoria Shamrocks, who will help open the National Lacrosse Association season when they tackle Portland Adanacs at Memorial Arena on May 8, will also help kick the lid off the Western Division campaign at Vancouver.

Two days after their home opener, the green-clad men of coach Dave Unwin will match muscles with Vancouver Carlings in the plush new Pacific Coliseum.

While Carlings are hoping the swank sports palace they have adopted as their home will help boost attendance, they fear the Coliseum may cost them the services of two of their most valued performers—Bill Chisholm and John Cervi.

Chisholm the hard-rock defenceman often credited as the driving force behind the club with his determination and hustle, has been plagued with knee problems and coach Jack McKinnon says it appears the veteran will be on the sidelines this season.

"Bill was performing well in gym workouts and it seemed his legs were in pretty good shape," McKinnon said at Vancouver. "Then as soon as we started running on the hard floor at the Coliseum, his knees went on him. He'd be okay if he could play on wooden floors but, unfortunately, there's only one (at New Westminster) in the league.

"He's very doubtful, but you never know. He's tough and he could fool us all."

Cervi, another experienced defenceman, recently underwent a knee operation. His recovery has been slower than expected and Cervi has been placed on the club's 30-day, injured reserve list.

BILL CHISHOLM

Hemmerling Returns to Action

"We could have John back later in the season," McKinnon said, "but I am afraid he is also going to have trouble on the hard floor."

Replacing Cervi and Chisholm will be a difficult task, but Mckinnon feels he has part of the answer in big Ron Hemmerling, returning after a year's absence.

Hemmerling was an all-star defenceman two years ago then decided to retire because of a troublesome back injury. With the league acquiring professional status this season, he's back with Vancouver and McKinnon says he looks as good as ever.

When you add the names of Pete Black, Gary Stevens, Bill Robinson, Gordie Leibscher and Donnie Boyd to the defence list it's difficult to feel sorry for the Carling coach.

McKinnon has also assembled three solid forward lines with young Dennis Nagy working with Bob Babcock and Ross McDonald, rookie Bill Rawson teaming with high-scoring Gord Fredrickson and Bob Salt, and slick Sid Warick running with Val Robertson and Whitey Nelson, another player who is returning after a year's absence.

GOALKEEPING TALENT

Vancouver also has depth and talent in the goalkeeping department.

Skip Champman and Stan Brown are back for another season and facing a challenge for the starting berth from former Victoria star Don Hamilton.

Hamilton, the only goalie to register a shutout in a Mann Cup game, has played several games in the Okanagan senior "B" circuit since leaving Vancouver for Kamloops in 1961.

Vancouver is traditionally a slow-starting club and this gives McKinnon some concern.

"With the strength in the league this year, a club can't afford to lag at the start," he said. "If we are close in the early part of the season, we'll be on top at the finish."

Shot Put Record

SOCHI, USSR (AP) — Nadezhda Chizhova, 22, of Leningrad bettered the women's world record for the shot put by three inches with a heave of 61 feet, three inches, Tass news agency reported.

Sledge Signs Contract

VANCOUVER (CP) — Halfback Leroy Sledge has signed a 1968 contract with British Columbia Lions, the Western Football Conference club announced Tuesday.

Sledge, a 22-year-old native of Richmond, Virginia, who stands 6-3 and weighs 235 pounds, averaged five yards a carry during his rookie season last year.

In addition to gaining 288 yards in 58 carries he also caught 41 passes for 911 yards and a 22.2-yard average. Sledge was third in Lions scoring with 36 points from six touchdowns.

The former 1966 Junior College All-American from Bakersfield, Calif., Junior College was one of 15 Lions to play in all 16 league games last year.

Vic West Prolongs Price Cup Struggle

Victoria West edged Gorge Molsons 1-0 in Hampton Park Tuesday to force a deciding game in their Victoria and District Soccer League first division Price Cup final series.

Had the previously unbeaten Gorge team won, the series would have ended with the cup in their hands.

Vic West goalie Don Head played a major part in the upset by coming up with several outstanding saves. The winning goal came early in the second half off the boot of Jim Schulz.

Deciding game is to be played Sunday in Hampton Park at 2 p.m.

Nelson Purse Lifts Barber To Sixth Spot

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — Miller Barber's $20,000 first prize in the Byron Nelson Golf Classic moved him into the list of the game's top 10 money winners this year with a total purse of $53,918.

Barber had $47,587 in official PGA tournament winnings and $6,330 in unofficial prize money to place sixth on the list.

It is still headed by Tom Weiskopf with official winnings of $71,122 and a total of $77,677.

Others on the list with official and total winnings: 3. George Archer, $53,714, $56,557; 4. Don January, $48,428, $50,288; 5. George Knudson, Toronto, $48,382, $55,030; 7. Kermit Zarley, $46,200, $49,793; 8. Tony Jacklin, $45,690, $48,652; 9. Gardner Dickinson, $45,369, $47,227; 10. Al Geiberger, $40,595, $41,726.

Berner Selected To National Team

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Law Tennis Association has named Canada's representatives on the Federation Cup women's team which will compete in Paris, May 21-26.

Named to the team were Faye Urban of Windsor, Vicki Berner of Vancouver and Andree Martin of Montreal.

JOCKEYS WAGED BATTLE . . . . . . DOWN THE HOME STRETCH

Most Sensational Derby of All

By GENE PLOWDEN

It has been 35 years since the most sensational Kentucky Derby of them all, but racing fans won't let Don Meade and Herb Fisher forget their furious fight down the long stretch at Louisville.

"It comes up every year," said Fisher who is just short of 5-foot-7 and even now weighs only 126 pounds.

Bill Crump owned Head Play and sold the colt the day before the Derby to Mrs. Silas B. Mason. Head Play was one-half length in front at the three-quarter pole and it looked as if Mrs. Mason has bought a winner.

Fisher still had Head Play in the lead rounding the turn for home, but there Meade brought Broker's Tip, owned by Col. E. R. Bradley, along the rail—and it happened.

"He grabbed my saddle cloth and I went to the whip," Fisher recalled the other day at Gulfstream Park where he has a string of horses.

Down the stretch they came, with the major share of $50,000 and a garland of roses awaiting the winner. The horses raced head-to-head as their riders tangled like bantam roosters, with fists, feet and whips.

"The other horses were five lengths back," Meade recalled in the Gulfstream clubhouse, where he was trying to buy a horse. It was just us."

Fisher had a slightly different version.

"We more or less drug him (Broker's Tip) a quarter of a mile," he said. "It was the only time I ever lost on Head Play. He beat us by a nose. Head Play was the best colt I ever rode."

The official chart said Broker's Tip won by a nose "after a long and hard drive." Nothing more. Charley O., the third horse, was four lengths back.

Both riders were suspended, Meade for 30 days and Fisher for 60. Why the difference?

"We had a little tussle in the jock's quarters after the race," Fisher explained. "I tried to throw him through the roof." Meade didn't see it exactly that way.

"He flung a heavy boot block at my head," he said. "I was standing beside a concrete pillar and ducked just in time. The block made a deep dent in the concrete. If I hadn't ducked, it would've smashed my head."

SCOTTISH FANS HURT AFTER GATES SMASHED

DUNFERMLINE, Scotland (AP)—Forty-nine soccer fans were injured Tuesday night at the climactic match of the Scottish League season when Glasgow Celtics beat Dunfermline 2-1 to enter the European Cup for the third straight year.

Thousands of fans broke down locked gates to get into the grounds, already packed with dangerously swaying supporters, and for a while it seemed mass panic would develop.

Police said 15 of the injured were held in hospitals with broken ribs or legs or head injuries.

The trouble started after thousands of locked-out fans broke down the stadium gates and swarmed in on a crowd already at an all-time record of 30,000-plus.

Mayors Will Consider 10-City Hockey Loop

WINNIPEG (CP) — Mayor Stephen Juba said Tuesday he has scheduled a June meeting in Edmonton with the mayors of nine cities to discuss formation of a Canadian National Amateur Hockey League.

The proposed league would include the national teams based at Winnipeg and Ottawa plus teams from Vancouver, Edmonton, Calgary, Regina, Windsor, Quebec City, Halifax and one other city not yet named.

The 10 teams would play an east-west interlocking schedule. Mayor Juba said the idea has the approval of Gordon Juckes, executive director of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

Business firms in the cities concerned would be asked to sponsor players where necessary by offering employment in the off season.

Junior Bowling Starts Saturday

Victoria and District junior tenpinners start rolloffs Saturday for the Victoria Optimist Trophy, emblematic of city championship, at 10 a.m. at Mayfair Lanes.

All action Saturday is for the team event, with doubles slated for May 11 at 10 a.m. followed by mixed doubles at 1 p.m. Next day (May 12) rolloffs begin for the singles event at 1 p.m.

Both boys and girls will compete in this sanctioned tournament.

Proper Proof Takes Trial As Horses Prep for Derby

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — It was four for the money and three for show. But the goal for all seven was peak form for Saturday's Kentucky Derby.

Calumet Farm's Forward Pass, Bwamazon Farm's T.V. Commercial and Saddle Rock Farms Francie's Hat each worked a mile Tuesday at Churchill Downs.

Proper Proof, Jig Times, Verbatim and Te Vega raced in the one-mile, $16,350 Derby Trial over the same track on which the Derby will be run.

Jerry Meyer, who trains Elmendorf's Verbatim, said: "Today's race was not the ultimate with us. Saturday is the Derby. We were using today's race as a conditioner."

TV. Commercial worked his mile in 1:40 4-5 and Francie's Hat did 1:41 4-5 in the morning.

TIME WAS GOOD

Forward Pass did an impressive 1:37 between the fourth and fifth races in the afternoon, about 1½ hours before the 10-horse Trial field went to the post.

Mrs. Montgomery Fisher's Proper Proof won the trial in 1:36, finishing a half length in front of Charles W. Englehard's Jig Time, with Verbatim another neck back.

The only other Derby probable to work Tuesday was C. V. Whitney's Gleaming Sword and he turned in a real dazzler.

Working for the first time with blinkers, Gleaming Sword sizzled through five-eighths of a mile in 59 3-5 seconds.

The starting field for the 1¼ mile, $125,000-added Derby was shaping up as 14 after trainer Mac Miller announced late Tuesday night that Alley Fighter, Jig Time's stablemate, would not run.

Mathis May Try New Grid Career

MIAMI (AP) — Heavyweight boxer Buster Mathis says he wants to play fullback for New York Jets of the American League.

"I've talked to the Jets and I know I can make it," said the 240-pounder.

Then he launched a comeback fight bid Tuesday night resulting in a seventh-round technical knockout over Cincinnati heavyweight Mel Turnbow.

Tight Struggle For Gorge Duo

Extra work was required Tuesday at Uplands Golf Club as Betty Stevenson and Chris Holland advanced to the semi-final round of the Victoria and District women's two-ball tournament.

The Gorge Vale partners had to go to the 19th hole before grabbing a victory over Jane Fall and Evelyn Jackson of Cowichan.

They will face the Uplands pair of Kay Tribe and June Lovitt in Thursday's semis at Royal Colwood. Mrs. Tribe and Mrs. Lovitt also had a tight struggle Tuesday before earning a 1-up win over the Colwood combination of Grace Sluggett and Jessie Lake.

Meeting in the other semi will be defending champions Lil Thirlwell and "Mike" Price and Cowichan swingers Olive Holman and Lee Budden, who took a 2-and-1 win Tuesday over Anne Thomson and Ethel Young of Colwood.

Mrs. Thirlwell (Uplands) and Mrs. Price (Colwood) clipped the Uplands pair of Phyl Coxworth and Marge Humber, 5 and 4.

Yaz Now Batting For TV Station

Station WNAC-TV, Boston, announced Saturday that Yastrzemski will do a one-half hour television show in color each Saturday night starting May 18. He will interview two guests each week and answer baseball questions submitted by viewers.

TIME OUT By JEFF KEATE

SOFTBALL PRACTICE

Panic Button Ignored Despite Low Fan Counts

TORONTO (CP) — The president of the Eastern Division of the North American Soccer League said Tuesday night that the 17 teams in the league will have to average 10,000 fans a game this season to break even financially.

Dick Walsh, 43, said in an interview that none of the clubs has reached the minimum break-even point yet.

"Only Atlanta and Vancouver have come close in attendance. They are averaging about 6,500."

Each team in the league will play 16 home games, mostly in major-league baseball or football stadiums with an average seating capacity of about 35,000.

Walsh said that none of the club owners has pressed the panic button yet, despite the mediocre attendance figures.

"The season has just started and some of the teams haven't played a home game yet," he said.

"I know it's going to be a hard grind and so do the owners, but I think they're geared to take losses for at least the next five years."

There were 3,278 fans in the stands at Washington Tuesday night as the Whips played to a 1-1 deadlock with Cleveland Stokers.

Neils Huttle sent Washington ahead in the first half and Enrique Mateos tied the score for Cleveland five minutes after the intermission.

At St. Louis Cerillo Fernandez booted two goals to spark San Diego Toros to a 3-0 triumph over the Stars.

Famous Canadian Advocates Faster Reading

Dr. H. Marshall McLuhan, considered by many to be the world's foremost authority on methods and understanding of communications media, gave a Convocation address at Simon Fraser University. In it, he said: "Reading speed increases depths of comprehension. At high speeds, the thought form of the author emerges clearly, so comprehension and retention of data are also increased."

At Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics we are delighted that a man of Dr. McLuhan's stature has so succinctly stated a fact that we have long known to be true.

To most people, it has seemed incredible that reading speeds of 1500, 3,000 or more words per minute were being attained by our students. A majority of Reading Dynamics graduates actually INCREASE comprehension and recall.

Ladd McGowan, Director of the Vancouver Reading Dynamics Institute, has this to say: "At Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics we feel that our students must not only develop the ability to read more rapidly but they must also understand and remember what they read," says McGowan. "Almost all of our graduates have reported increased comprehension and recall along with much faster reading rates. We expect this as an inherent by-product of Dynamic Reading. Our improved methods, developed in a continuing research program, give added emphasis to comprehension and recall."

Doctors Prone To Taking Drugs

HARRISON HOT SPRINGS (CP) — Twice as many doctors become drug addicts as do members of the general public, a narcotics expert told the British Columbia general practitioners convention Tuesday.

Dr. Robert Halliday, co-ordinator of the Narcotic Addiction Foundation and clinical instructor in psychiatry at the University of British Columbia, said there are 10 physicians registered as drug addicts in the province and three known nurse addicts.

Registered addicts are those who are known as addicts to the federal division of narcotic control. Doctors who are registered are kept on a list of known addicts for five years.

Dr. Halliday said the ratio of addiction in the physician population works out to one in 280 but it stands at one in 476 in the remainder of the population of the province.

HIGHER IN U.K.

He said the incidence of physician addiction in B.C. is not as high as in the United States and United Kingdom. He quoted from a U.S. survey that said physician addiction is as much as 100 times that of the general public and said a U.K. survey shows that physicians make up one-third to one-fifth of the total number of British addicts.

Dr. Halliday said although non-medical addicts prefer to use heroin, doctors choose mepedrins, also known as demerol, because they feel it is a "safe" drug.

PAIN KILLER

Addiction to demerol, used as a pain killer, particularly in obstetrics, "is even more undesirable than is addiction to morphine and much less amenable to treatment," he said.

Dr. Halliday told general practitioners that doctors take up drug addiction for reasons which often differ from those of other addicts who are seeking kicks or thrills.

One of the most important of these reasons is the continuing stress to which doctors are subjected.

"By nature and by training physicians are usually individualistic, self-reliant, compulsive people with high aspirations, involved in the continuing struggle between life and death and under greater pressure and bearing greater responsibilities than most people do," he said.

"When fatigued, tense, worried or depressed, the physician may resort to self therapy.

"However there is a great deal of difference between occasional use of something out of the bag to meet some present need and a continued use and dependency on a mood-changing drug."

Availability of drugs is an important factor in physician addiction, Dr. Halliday said. Doctors involved with drugs tend to believe they can quit the habit any time they wish — "an unrealistic belief in most instances."

Hypnotist Claims No-Smoking Cure

The hypnotist who claims he can kill the smoking habit of confirmed weed addicts is coming to McPherson Playhouse on May 17.

Master Sinclair says he has cured many smokers in his Canadian audiences in a matter of minutes.

"What I do, is induce hypnotism to the medium and turn the control over to him," he said. "He won't smoke."

Apart from the hypnotist, assisted by his wife Betty, the show will star Ray Wee Willie Parker, a comedian and vocalist, the Master Sinclair trio and dancers.

For Parker it will be his first performance in Victoria. He was brought over from England and he is now under a five-year contract.

"He's equal to any pantomimist you will see on TV," said Sinclair. He's been in the show business since he was 11 and his pantomime has to be seen to be believed."

Master Sinclair has been in show business for 15 years and first studied under the Great Morton, a master showman.

He also studied at the school of hypnotherapy in Chicago.

Off stage, he says he has helped cure through hypnotism a number of alcoholics, insomniacs and migraine headache sufferers.

"Hypnotism has proved beneficial for people suffering from bad nerves and for curing people of various habits," he said. "It also can improve your golf and help you in your studies.

"Under hypnosis you can cultivate the sixth sense more easily."

The 3½-hour performance will run until May 25, starting at 8 p.m. A matinee performance on Saturday for children is planned.

13 PERISH IN TINY CELL

DAR ES SALAAM (Reuters) — Thirteen persons were found dead Tuesday in one of two tiny cells where 42 persons were locked up for the night near Mvanza, northern Tanzania, it was officially announced here. The 42 had been held for not paying their local taxes.

Vancouver to Study French Class Plan

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver school board has decided it is not ready to introduce French language instruction in elementary schools because it is "too big, too complicated" a question for swift policy-making.

Trustees recommended the 1969 school board set up a committee to study the question.

The decision was made after a request for French instruction was made by Margaret Clyne, president of a bilingual, co-operative kindergarten that has been operating in Vancouver for six years.

"We feel the French language should be taught as a subject at the earliest grades when our children's brains are most receptive," Mrs. Clyne said in a letter to the board.

"We believe the public is ready for this and that our children deserve the chance."

School superintendent Dr. Robert Sharp said the question of French instruction should be the subject of a major study. Current policy is to allow French to be taught in Grades 6 and 7 only where there is a qualified teacher.

Otherwise the language is not introduced until Grade 8.

In nearby Coquitlam, school board officials said earlier this month that French may be introduced as a language of instrutcion in district schools by September.

A board resolution asking classes be instructed in French from kindergarten to Grade 3 still is under consideration by the provincial department of education.

There are about 8,000 French-speaking persons in the district.

'BLOOD MONEY ON HANDS'

Sales of Arms to U.S. Under Fire by Douglas

HAMILTON (CP) — NDP Leader T. C. Douglas says Canada will go before the bar of history with blood on its hands because it has kept on selling arms to the United States for use in the Vietnam war.

Speaking to a nominating rally here Tuesday night, the New Democratic leader concentrated on what he called an economic crisis at home and a loss of political and economic independence to the U.S.

Canada has not recognized China "because the state department won't let us."

Arms shipments to other countries involved in wars had been stopped. But they had continued to the U.S. although there was no question that the arms were being used in Vietnam.

When the war ends, Mr. Douglas said, "Canada will not come before the bar of historic judgment with clean hands, because there is blood on them—blood money to the tune of more than $300,000,000 a year."

DOUGLAS
. . . tractors for guns

Prime Minister Trudeau said Canada could not halt arms shipment because it would put men out of work. But the same workers who make tanks could make tractors. Those who make napalm could be making fertilizers and insecticides.

Mr. Douglas, in his first foray outside Ottawa since the calling of the June 25 general election, spoke at a rally which chose Nick Ramacieri, 32, as NDP candidate in Hamilton East to oppose Liberal John Munro, newly-named minister without portfolio.

Mr. Ramacieri is a former steel worker of Italian descent who now operates a beauty salon. He defeated a prominent union man, Stewart Cooke, the area supervisor of the United Steelworkers of America and president of the Hamilton and District Labor Council.

Mr. Douglas will not officially open his election campaign until May 13 in Prince George but he has set up a fairly strenuous pre-campaign schedule which will take him to B.C., Montreal and Toronto.

He flies to Vancouver today to spend a few days in his home riding.

On domestic issues, Mr. Douglas sliced at Mr. Trudeau's image as a swinger and said it would not solve Canada's economic crisis.

'DOESN'T PAY BILLS'

"A sweet smile on the face of a political leader—the fact that he can dance the frug—isn't enough. That won't pay the grocery bill . . . that won't help you get shoes and clothes for your children."

Mr. Douglas said Canadians are entitled to know what each party planned to do about the crisis.

The NDP if elected would set up a prices review board, a national investment board to channel capital into areas where it was most needed and a development corporation to help expand the economy.

It would also completely reform the tax system to eliminate a situation in which there was one tax system for the rich and another for the poor.

Funeral Salesmen Unlicensed

PENTICTON (CP) — Neither four men nor two companions charged with conspiring to solicit prepaid funeral plans have been given provincial government permission to sell the plans in British Columbia, a preliminary hearing was told Monday.

Humphrey Nellish, secretary of the Public Utilites Commission, was testifying at the hearing of Donald Callahan, 42, Kenneth Schmelke, 25, both of Red Deer, Alta., the Eventide Funeral Chapel Ltd., of Sylvan Lake Alta., Frank Richardson, 47, and Lawrence Albrecht, 50, both of Penticton, and the Western Bible Society.

The charges arose out of an alleged attempt to take over the Scenic Valley Retirement Centre in Penticton by the purchase of debentures held by retired citizens in the city.

The crown alleged part payment for the debentures was to be in the form of prepaid funeral plans. The average value of the debentures is about $1,000.

Gordon McKay, secretary-treasurer of the retirement centre, and three persons over 70 years of age testified they had been approached by Albrecht.

School Chiefs Awarded Grant Boost

Annual administrative allowances for school district superintendents were raised $600 across-the-board by the provincial cabinet Tuesday.

The new allowances will range from $3,200 to a top of $5,200, depending on pupil enrolment in a district.

The previous allowances, set April 1, 1966, ranged from $2,600 to $4,600.

SEARCHING FOR STAFF

No date has been set yet for inaguration of the province's first compulsory motor vehicle testing station here but the search is on for staff, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said Tuesday.

Provincial Workers Get 6% Hike

April pay cheques mailed Tuesday to some 22,000 provincial goverment employees were higher by an average of almost 6 per cent.

Civil Service Commission chairman Dr. Hugh Morrison said Tuesday that increases, retroactive to April 1, are still to be worked out for an additional 1,200 ferry workers.

The increases range from $15 to $100 a month and are provided by a $5 million boost in the provincial payroll estimates for the fiscal year which began last month.

Special adjustments above the average have been made for registered nurses, auditors, senior administrative officers, psychologists, physiotherapists and pharmacists among others in an effort to bring their scales closer in line with comparable jobs outside the government, Dr. Morrison said.

"In addition to the above increases, approximately one-third of the employees will recieve merit increases" by being stepped up to a higher grade level, the announcement said.

ALL-EXPENSE PAID COURSE

Cellist Wins Congress of Strings Award

By BERYL PROUDMAN

He scored an imposing 94 while violinist John Rigby, the only other contestant, had 90.

The award provides the winner with an all-expense paid course at the Michigan State University Congress of Strings. It is donated by the Victoria Musicians' Association.

A sensitive, imaginative rendering of George Goltermann's Concerto in G Major Op. 45 displayed George's beautiful cello tone, musically phrasing and an impressive style range from his legato to his spiccato playing.

The sincerity of this outstanding playing convinced adjudicator Dr. Paul Stoner that George had produced his own authentic interpretation of the music and not just reproduced what he had been taught.

John, a violinist of exciting fire and verve, was sincerely complimented on the tremendous talent shown in his performance.

The remarkably fast tempo at which he played a virtuoso piece, while it showed how promising a violinist he is, proved beyond his present ability.

Dr. Stoner said he was most impressed by both players and felt each could confidently proceed to a successful career in music.

In the under 14 Sonata, Stephen Calder added a 90 to his earlier winnings and Nancy Meredith achieved a double first in winning the solo violin under 16 and the junior sonata class with 85 and 84 marks respectively.

In the evening the Greater Victoria Schools Senior Strings was rated excellent and commended for their playing of a difficult number which has spelled disaster to many more experienced groups.

Shirley Navelykin has been commendably sparing of superior ratings but in the final schools dance session on Tuesday morning, Gordon Head Junior Secondary and Margaret Jenkins Schools each earned one.

Two Grade 7 groups brought excellent marks to View Royal School, and the girls from George Jay and Frank Hobbs Schools carried off similar honors.

In the afternoon local schools of dancing took the floor of Central Junior High School. Honors were spread abroad.

The highest mark, 87, was earned by Vivian Briggs' School of Dance and dancers from Wynne Shaw's Dance Studio were awarded 86 in the open folk dance class.

A Scottish group from Shellagh Mallard's School danced itself into first place with 85, and a folk dance for under 11s was won with 84 by pupils of Adeline Duncan.

Wynne Shaw's students in the under 11 ballet classes placed first and second with 85 and 82, and achieved a winning 83 in the under 14 ballet.

Full use was made of the spacious floor. Choreographic skill brought variety to entries and exits and beautiful costumes enhanced the program.

Ballerinas of all sizes flitted back and forth, sailors were plentiful and an invasion of brightly costumed leaping Scots made Sassenach hearts tremble.

Of the 11 participants in the morning brass and woodwind class, seven were judged worthy of a superior rating. Alan Denike was particularly praised for his outstanding performance.

His excellent tone and fine playing won him a high 97. Robert Miller was so impressed by this class of excellent instrumentalists that he spent considerable time suggesting corrective refinements.

The Schools Senior Orchestra which played in the evening found particular favor for playing together in a suitably romantic style. Trumpets, first horn, flutes and clarinets were singled out for praise but the adjudicator was most pleased with the fine violin playing which balanced and gave scope to the other sections thus allowing them to play with a free full-bodied pleasing sound. This orchestra, selected to play in the honor performance was compared favorably with similar orchestras across the border.

All four senior school bands profited by careful and helpful analysis of minor problems intonation and balance were emphasized.

Mount View Senior Secondary and Victoria Senior Secondary were judged excellent and Mount Douglas Senior Secondary gained a superior rating.

Oak Bay Senior Secondary similarly honored with a superior 1 was the band chosen to perform in the honor performance.

The two adjudicators congratulated Victoria on the high standard of music they had heard.

Mr. Miller expressed particular satisfaction at the community effort which has produced such a tremendously successful festival.

Wednesday evening has been reserved for the dance honor performance and choral groups will be heard throughout Thursday.

DANCING EXCEPTIONAL

Enjoyable Evening Ahead For Lovers of Brigadoon

By AUDREY JOHNSON

Vitality might be said to be the outstanding feature of Victoria Operatic Society's production of the Lerner and Loewe musical, Brigadoon.

It moved speedily and buoyantly with generally neat handling of scene changes, supported by an immensely alive and competent orchestra.

The Wynne Shaw ballets are technically smooth, expressive and well designed and the Highland dancing schooled by Adeline Duncan and featuring several of her best dancers, is of excellent quality.

The haunting, hummable tunes — Go Home With Bonnie Jean, Come to Me, Bend to Me, There But for You Go I — are mostly the property of the men in the cast.

And they do well by them. For the unusual truth is that this production is favored by several good and musical male voices.

Barry Grimshaw as Tommy, continues the notable progress he has been making over the past two years. He not only sings well but reveals confidence and authority in his whole handling of the role.

A less strong voice, but most pleasing in quality, makes Roy Blevins performance of the second romantic role, Charlie, quite delightful.

Others who do bits well and from whom one would enjoy hearing more, are Bill Broadhead, Norman Tyrrell and Bill Dyson.

But in this instance, while he has accomplished these things, he did not favor the female case members with any particularly imaginative direction.

But hair style, make up, a pallid, uninteresting costume and uninspired direction do nothing to help her create the necessary charm and enchantment of the role.

And Barbara Desprez shows every evidence of having good comedy gifts but is not helped by the direction, particularly in her best scene in the shed with Jeff—who, incidentally is a highlight in the cast as played by Ian McIntyre.

An outstanding dancer and most promising actor is Dan Costain. In this show he has ample opportunity to exploit the varied talents that have won him a place in this year's Charlottetown Festival cast.

Brigadoon opens with a quite lovely chorus number and this was most effective. The chorus is generally good, singing and moving well. But the level of their background conversation when principals are speaking or singing, causes a distraction.

Lighting is good. Costumes range from pretty good to pretty bad. Make up, specifically in regard to eyes, could definitely be improved.

Film Visits Mountains, Northland

Canada's northland and mountains will be visited on color film Friday and Saturday in the latest presentation from the World Around Us movie-lecture series.

Edgar T. Jones, photographer and naturalist, bush pilot and artist, will present his films "Arctic Canada" Friday night and "Canada's Mountain Wilderness" Saturday night at Oak Bay junior secondary school auditorium.

Both shows start at 8 p.m. Admission for adults is $1 and for students 50 cents.

Born in Moose Jaw, Sask., Jones has travelled many thousands of miles as owner-operator of a bush flying charter air service in the Canadian northland.

The "Arctic Canada" film includes footage on sports fishing for Arctic Grayling and Lake Trout in Great Slave and Great Bear Lakes, 1,600 miles north of the Canada-U.S. border. It also shows an Eskimo whale hunt on the Arctic coast.

"Canada's Mountain Wilderness" probes wildlife scenes in the rugged North Fraser valley, including shots of sheep and goats, moose, elk and deer.

As a bomber pilot during the Second World War Jones won the Distinguished Flying Cross and bar. He has logged over 4,000 hours flying trappers, prospectors and Indians through all parts of northern Canada.

Volunteers Sought To Help Welfare Families

Churches and social organizations are being asked to appoint volunteers to serve as unofficial welfare workers.

Interested individuals are also being invited to join a training program under auspices of the Victoria Low Income Group.

Executive secretary of the group, Reg Clarkson, said the workers are expected to take the field in the fall assisting and advising families in need.

They will have full information about aid available but not always known to the family, such as how free Scout uniforms may be obtained, how to obtain free YM-YWCA memberships and what educational facilities are available to adults.

The lay workers also would act as advocates for appeals to government and civic agencies.

Mr Clarkson said Goodwill Industries has offered to provide aptitude tests to persons on welfare who wish to obtain work.

Maoists Slaughtered

HONG KONG (AP) — Thousands of angry Chinese peasants set fire to a Maoist headquarters in Kwangtung province in China then slaughtered the occupants as they jumped from upper storey windows, a Chinese newspaper received here Tuesday reported.

'White Gloves' Only For Coming Exhibit

The Art Gallery of Greater Victoria has made another acquisition.

An exhibition of Sculpture from New Guinea put together by the National Gallery of Canada will be on display at the Gallery May 7 to May 22.

Instructions accompanying the show state that "because the objects are extremely dry and embrittled, and are easily finger marked and otherwise damaged" only white gloves should be used in handling them.

"So we've bought white gloves," says curator Will Hoare who cautions viewers not to touch any of the displays.

New Guinea has produced some of the most hauntingly impressive sculptures in the richly creative art of the primitive societies of the South Seas.

In this exhibition, drawn from the extensive collections of Mr. and Mrs. Morton D. May of St. Louis, Missouri, the arts of two of the most important regions of New Guinea are given precedence: the Sepik River country and the coastal area bordering the Gulf of Papua.

Among the more than 40 objects in the survey there are pieces used for magical and religious purposes as well as objects used in daily life. These include ceremonial masks, dance headdresses, shields, ancestral figures, totemic designs, bull-roarers and sago bowls.

The Log Cabin Comes of Age on Salt Spring

ISLANDERS LIKE THEIR 'CABINS'

Boom in Logs Raising Roofs

By ED GOULD

GANGES — Ever since Abraham Lincoln was born in one, the log cabin has come to stand for all that is good, clean, pure and Spartan in the North American way of life.

Readers of American history recall how the Great Emancipator poured over borrowed law books in the light of a dying fire in the stone fireplace.

It made your feet run cold just reading about all that splendid rugged endeavor.

●

Therefore, it's a little surprising in these days of affluence to see the log boom that has developed on Salt Spring Island and other parts of the country.

There are at least a dozen of these homes being built here. We are talking now of the home made of trees, not the manufactured, prefabricated type.

Some are being built by professionals, others by weekend do-it-yourselfers. People who have never driven a nail and flunked sash prop in carpentry class are striking off into the bush, axe in hand, tree plunder in mind.

●

Bashed to the ground, the trees are dragged out, bark peeled off and the nude poles stacked neatly one on the other. Spaces are planned in advance so doors and windows can be bunged in later.

The log home goes up quickly and before you know it, there's one right next door to you. Not a bad looking structure, but would you want your sister to live in one?

I spoke to Mel Hendrickson, one of the professionals in this log-rolling contest, who came here less than a year ago from the Cariboo. He has two homes under construction with orders for three more — two of them on Pender Island.

Mr. Hendrickson has built log homes all over B.C. but mostly in the Cariboo, Shuswap Lake and Adams Lake areas. He got his first order for one here from a California couple he met at a local campsite.

The Americans confessed they had always been hung up on logs and wanted Mr. Hendrickson to start on their retirement home near Fernwood immediately.

"Strangely enough, it's the Americans and the English who seem to go for log houses today," Mr. Hendrickson said. "I think Canadians still have unfortunate recollections of them as drafty places with stone-cold floors and smoky fireplaces. This is no longer the case."

The houses that Mr. Hendrickson showed me were far from the pioneer prairie shacks with sod roofs. As well as being warm and attractive, the cost of the log home is more reasonable than the cost of the conventional style home.

He sells his homes wired and plumbed with cement block, heatilator fireplace faced with natural stone, and installed with custom-cut wooden frame doors and windows on 1,000 square feet for $11,500. That's between $1.50 and $3.00 less per square foot than current costs for a brick or lumber style home.

HENDRICKSON
. . . chief log-roller

"If the person can pay cash for a building site, I'll even carry the mortgage," Mr. Hendrickson said.

It takes about 56 eight-inch diameter firs to make a home. Cedar shakes cut by a Cowichan mill cover the roof. A basement or crawl space is optional. The basement doesn't cost much more: it's just more logs, upright, on concrete footings.

Heating is electrical to back up that heatilator. Upkeep is easy. Every four years or so a few quarts of linseed oil keeps the log bark neat and shiny and preserved against the rain. Same inside.

Mr. Hendrickson says the reason those old loggies on the prairies were so cold was the mud and straw chinking between the logs kept contracting with the cold and falling out.

●

His homes feature fibreglass filling which doesn't expand or contract with the elements and a reverse quarter-round molding which holds the insulation in.

He says he can build only three homes a year and finding the right trees for logs is his biggest problem.

"Salt Spring has lots of good log trees but people here don't seem to need the money. I may have to start trucking them in from Vancouver Island."

However, if you happen to have 56 fir trees in your own backyard, now is the season to get started on your own log home.

Who knows? Your son might grow up to be Robert Stanfield!

LOGGERS FUMING

'Oil Still Pouring' Out of Sunken Ship

By MORGAN MacGREGOR

CAMPBELL RIVER — The beaches around Bligh and Gore Islands are "a horrible oily mess," a Campbell River logger said today.

He said oil is still pouring out of the wreck of the Dutch freighter Schiedyk which slipped off its ledge in Muchalat inlet last Wednesday.

The 7,567-ton ship lunged into 600 feet of water spewing a five-mile slick of heavy bunker oil into the inlet.

"A mile of beach on Bligh Island is thick with oil," said the logger.

He asked not to be identified because his market for logs might be harmed.

"So far the logs in my boom have not been affected but one logger across the bay has had his entire boom ruined.

"This situation has put me out of work for a while as I would not dare pull a boom through . . . the oil is everywhere on the water.

LIKE MOLASSES

"Ever since the ship grounded and sank on Jan. 4 I have been writing or phoning various officials to see what could be done about removing the oil from the ship.

"My boat is covered in oil, so are my tow-lines and tools."

He said bunker oil is thick . . about the consistency of molasses.

"All the other logging operations in the area are involved and believe me we are as mad as hell."

He said that one of the loggers had to shoot a beaver who was soaked in oil and lying on the beach half dead. Shell fish have been hit hard.

TOO RISKY

Frank Grobb, Tahsis Company executive, said that Island Tug and Barge of Victoria had removed all but 50 to 100 tons of oil from the ship.

He said that the remaining oil had been stored in an inaccessible part of the ship and Island Tug had considered it too risky to send a diver in.

It is this remaining oil which escaped when the ship slipped into deeper water.

FORMER B.C. and Canadian junior tennis champion, Theo Booker of Victoria, starts giving lessons Monday night at Pioneer Park in Duncan. The 19-year-old coach will give lessons at $1 an hour every Monday from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. for six weeks, sponsored by city council and the recreation commission.

WHARF REPAIRS COMING FOR FULFORD HARBOUR

Pacific Piledriving Co., Ltd., of Victoria, has been awarded a $33,447 federal contract for wharf repairs at Fulford Harbour on Salt Spring Island.

The successful bid was the lowest of four received, the highest being $45,950.

The superstructure on the 40-by-80-foot wharfhead and a 90-foot section of the approach will be renewed.

A new pontoon-supported float, 9 by 120 feet, will also be installed.

Recreation May Go Regional

DUNCAN — City council has endorsed in principle the idea of Cowichan regional district board undertaking recreation as one of its functions.

The approval came at an in-camera meeting Monday night.

Mayor Jim Quaife said his council felt this action advisable in view of the mounting interest being shown in the Pioneer Park development plan by residents of South Cowichan and the South Cowichan Recreation Commission.

He said a letter will be sent to the regional board asking it to take on recreation as a function.

Welsh Plan Song Fest

The Victoria Cymrodorian Society will join the Vancouver Welsh Club Sunday for the Gymanfa Ganv — an annual Welsh singsong.

The song festival is held throughout Wales and by Welsh societies all over the world at this time of year.

Those wishing to join the Victoria group may contact Mrs. Phyllis Hill at 382-3992.

Yugoslavians To Visit John Hart Dam

CAMPBELL RIVER — A Yugoslavian scientific team will visit the John Hart Power Station here between May 11 and 15.

The team will also visit the Harmac pulp mill of MacMillan Bloedel Ltd., near Nanaimo, and the Elk Falls mill of Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd. near Campbell River.

It will be headed by Dr. Dolfe Vogelnik, president of the Federal Council for the Co-ordination of Scientifc Activities.

The Sp it Has Cooked Up Many a Battle Scheme

By PETE LOUDON

For more than 50 years Canadian servicemen have trained on the spit, half the force invading from the sea, half the force defending the log strewn beaches. It was good to see the young warriors returned.

This time it was reserve forces of Canadian Scottish from Victoria, Seaforths from Vancouver and the "Westies" — Royal Westminster Regiment of New Westminster.

Three ships of Pacific Maritime Command, the minesweeper Cowichan and gate vessels Porte de la Reine and Porte Quebec, each carrying sailor reservists from Victoria and Vancouver, were in on the exercise too.

The weapons, the helmets, the equipment and the men were new. But otherwise the drill could have been observance of a ritual. Men trained here before shipping overseas in the First World War. The butts they built for marksmanship still are standing.

In the Second World War another generation of sailors learned seamanship and boat drill here. Late in that war Canada began training men here for the assault of Pacific beaches.

Then known as HMCS Givenchy III, the spit was home to a flotilla of landing barges. Crews from Pacific-bound ships and regiments slated for the invasion of Japanese-held islands came here to run the assault course and make "wet landings."

Last week the reservists trained with blank ammo but in 1945 hot lead spewed out from the beaches and the invaders learned the hard way to keep their heads down.

Most of the sailors who held the spit were veterans of the North African and Sicily landings and this was a heaven of golden broom they were not tempted to surrender to a "bunch of foot-sloggers."

They were permitted a quota of training casualties and seldom fell below it. They even played rough. The VJ (Victory in Japan) celebrations there were considered a success only after two celebrants went to hospital for plaster casts.

Many lived in billets in Comox, hiking around the spit on French leave on duty nights. But most of the commerce with the town was by scheduled landing barges — barges which were soaked with gasoline and burned — with official sanction and unofficial jubilation when the war ended.

Many a sailor marking time for demobilization there found relaxation in cutting beachwood for transport on a navy truck to the shore-side homes of lucky ratings who brought their familes to Comox. Others whiled away those last long days in service with chemical experiment which on one occasion yielded the greatest batch of potato champagne ever created.

★

Several ratings grew to love the base so much they settled in Comox and nearby Courtenay and live there yet. Courtenay mayor George Hobson was one of them.

HMCS Givenchy III in peacetime became HMCS Quadra, a training base for B.C. sea cadets and for most months of the year it was just a quiet monument to days of past adventure, visited only by curious salmon fishermen.

But last week there were 400 armed men there again, blazing guns and land mines tossing up geysers of sand and smoke and a new generation of young men in khaki and blue splashing through the shallows of Comox Bay.

TOP BOOK DESIGNER

New Graphic Arts Head 'Vital . . . Controversial'

By KATHRINE THOMAS

A top designer for Knopf books and Random Publishing House has been appointed to head the graphics section of the School of Fine Arts at the University of Victoria.

Peter Kahn takes up his appointment as professor in July after 11 years of teaching graphics, typography, art history and comparative literature at Cornell University.

Mr. Kahn is described by his former student John Freeman, curator of Maltwood Museum, as "a very vital person who has a great interest in the community."

"He is coming to Uvic," Mr. Freeman said, "because it has one of the most exciting programs in fine arts to be found in North America."

The opening of a graphics section will give the fine arts student a chance to develop a useful skill that can bring him employment in the community.

Mr. Freeman, a former graduate student at Cornell, speculated that Mr. Kahn may also direct work in photography and film making for the department.

Mr. Kahn was born in Leipzig and grew up in Stuttgart where his father was first conductor of the Ballet Russe and later of the Stuttgart Symphony.

He came to Canada in 1937 to study at the Pratt Institute, served in the U.S. Army during the war acting as court interpreter during the pretrial hearings at Nuremberg, and taught for two years as an instructor at Louisiana State University.

From there he went to Virginia where he spent the next four years as chairman of the art department at Hampton Institute, a leading college for Negroes.

He resigned finally because he felt that Negro education and segregated education were contradictory.

He was a Ford professor in the Virgin Islands summer program in 1956 and in 1957 went to Cornell.

Mr. Kahn's total involvement in the community at Ithaca has created both admirers and detractors.

He has agitated for such things as a radio station better than the commercial one owned and operated in Ithaca by Cornell and the retention of buildings of historical and/or architectural interest on campus.

KAHN
... agitates for reform

The article also describes Mr. Kahn as one of the "few faculty members who articulates political dissent" but quotes him as saying:

"I would regard myself as an artist as apolitical."

"Asked now where he would place himself in the political spectrum he replies '... Perhaps I could be described as a 'European left-winger'? ... I am not in sympathy with the New Left. The movement doesn't seem to offer much but noise about 'alienation,' 'participatory democracy,' etc. I can't see that it is doing anything to implement its concern."

At any rate Mr. Kahn is a popular figure with his students, to whom he gives generously of his time. "He has already offered to hand letter the scrolls for graduating students at Uvic," said Mr. Freeman.

A talented professional artist Mr. Kahn has also exhibited widely in the United States and Europe. His work is in several permanent collections and he has won awards in the fields of painting, graphics, book design and photography.

He has written for numerous professional journals and while at Hampton Institute was financed by the Carnegie Corporation to found and edit Civitas which concerned itself with the relationship between art and society.

Because of his belief that a teacher should be concerned with the whole spectrum of university life, Mr. Kahn has also served on numerous committees including the Faculty Council at Cornell.

Mr. Freeman predicts Mr. Kahn will "start a whole new school of landscape painting here because he is so turned on by the Victoria landscape.

"In his own work he is greatly concerned with depicting landscape from a representational point of view but he treats it with the excitement of abstract expressionism."

It seems that both the University and Victoria can look forward to being aroused and enlivened by the controversial Mr. Kahn.

As the Cornell Alumni concludes:

"In an intellectual community, there are those to whom breadth of scope, acknowledged variety of interests, are almost routinely suspect in an academic, the assumption being that breadth and depth are mutually exclusive ... Among these are the potential detractors of Peter Kahm Kahn.

"And there are those — by far in the majority — who feel that a person like this one is a vital force in the university; who see mirrored in Peter Kahn's breadth of scope the sort of free-wheeling intellect and restless imagination that typify the aspirations of an institution of learning."

Newly appointed secretary Mrs. W. D. Tang, 939 Pemberton, will preside over a meeting of the Royal Commonwealth Society this evening at 8 at the Empress Hotel.

Speakers include Prof. E. S. Efrat of Uvic's political science department who will show slides on South Africa and member W. A. Forbes who will discuss his recent trip to Australia and New Zealand.

DIVORCE LAW IN EFFECT ON JULY 2

OTTAWA (CP)— Legislation widening the grounds for divorce in Canada will come into force July 2, the justice department announced Tuesday.

Under the bill — given royal assent Feb. 2 after Senate and Commons passage — sodomy, bestiality, rape, homosexuality, bigamy, physical and mental cruelty, and marriage breakdown are added to adultery, now virtually the only ground.

Saanich To Share Meet Costs

Saanich Mayor Hugh Curtis today corrected a Victoria alderman's suggestion that Saanich was not contributing to a 1969 suggestion that Saanich was not contributing to a 1969 transportation conference.

Saanich has budgeted $1,570 for the Canadian Urban Transportation Conference, said the mayor.

He said the contribution was never in doubt and the city budget discussions "were erroneous and innocently unfair to Saanich."

The contribution was made in accordance with an inter-municipal formula for sharing such expenses.

Victoria Alderman Ian Stewart had complained that the conference would have district importance and the city had earmarked $2,000 to assist it, but that Saanich had rejected the idea.

City Library To Donate Books To Prince Rupert

Greater Victoria Public Library has come to the rescue of the Prince Rupert library destroyed in a recent fire.

Board chairman Alan Newberry said Tuesday the Victoria library was donating books to help its northern counterpart get back in operation.

The Saanich alderman said the books will be in volumes that are duplicates.

Group Urges Historic Site Protection

A resolution asking for stricter controls for the protection of archaeological and historic sites has been sent to Premier Bennett by the Native Sons of British Columbia.

Garnet Young, grand historian, said copies have also been sent to all cabinet members and MLAs, including organizations and individuals interested in the preservation of B.C.'s history.

The resolution notes that many people residing outside the province come to B.C. every year to remove artifacts from historic sites. Old totem poles have been taken from abandoned Indian reserves.

The Native Sons want to make it an offence to remove any artifact or totem pole from its original site without a permit.

APPOINT WARDENS

The resolution also asked that volunteer wardens be appointed by the government to inform the archaeological board of newly-discovered sites so that they can be protected immediately.

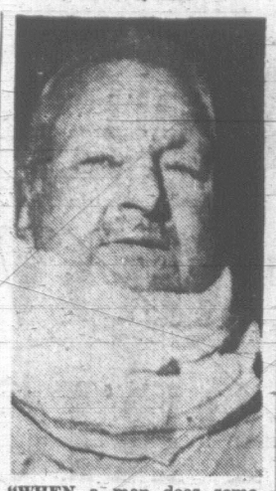
The majority of wardens could come from highways, forestry, survey and hydro crews.

Laurie Westendale, grand secretary, said other countries, notably Britain, Greece and Mexico ensure the preservation of artifacts by a system of permits.

"Many outstanding people from other countries admire the historic objects to be found in this province, but are surprised at the apparent lack of interest in B.C. for preserving them" he said.

He said the excavation of the old Chinese town at Cumberland, near Courtenay is an example.

"This is one of the oldest mining towns in the province," he said. "The property has now been leased for commercial exploitation."



"WHEN a man does something like jump into a lion's cage, it's time to stop drinking." This was the decision today of Amos Watson, 59, who has been arrested 117 times for drunkenness, and who, on Saturday, fell into the lion grotto at the San Francisco zoo. He suffered two broken legs and his neck was chewed before a keeper killed the lion.

Battle Of Atlantic Services

Battle of the Atlantic Sunday will be commemorated with a special ecumenical religious service at CFB Esquimalt Sunday.

Serving and former members of the navy, merchant marine, and sea cadets across Canada recognize the day in honor of those who served and died at sea during the Second World War.

The local service will be held in the covered drill shed at the naval base at 11:15 a.m. Rear-Admiral John A. Charles will attend the service, as commander of maritime forces, Pacific.

Naval personnel will be encouraged to take neighbors and friends, and the service is open to the general public, a forces spokesman said today.

The 48-piece Naden band will supply music. Offerings will be divided between the building fund for the new handicapped children's clinic and the foster parents plan.

Battle of the Atlantic Sunday was named for the wartime effort of the Canadian navy to keep supply lines in the Atlantic open.

Czech Suicides

PRAGUE (Reuters) — The head of the investigation department of Prague's police force, Lt.-Col. Josef Pocepicky, has committed suicide, the Czechoslovakian news agency Ceteka reported Monday.

Pocepicky's suicide is the latest in a series of recent violent deaths of high-ranking Czechoslovak officials.

Czechs Purging Old-Line Officials

Wire-Tapping, Censorship Ended In New 'Democratization Process'

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovakia's interior minister promised Tuesday that his department and the police will be purged of old-line Stalinists. He also announced that wire-tapping equipment now is outlawed.

"Three or four deputy ministers together with other top officials will be replaced," Interior Minister Josef Pavel told the Czech news agency CTPK. He added that personnel changes would go "down to the ground."

Pavel pledged a careful investigation of all officials who took part in the Stalinist purges of the 1950s and said all "defaulters will have to answer to the law or will be dismissed from the police force."

"Under the conditions of the democratization process" of the new liberal regime, Pavel told reporters, it is forbidden and punishable to use wire-tapping equipment to monitor citizens' activities.

"Censorship no longer exists in Czechoslovakia," he said, with the exception of guarding state secrets.

The shake-up in the police department came to light April 12, when Pavel disclosed that he was separating the secret police from the regular civilian police services. Pavel also said he was trying to remove from the force "people who violated the law."

MINISTRY RESPONSIBLE

He said the interior ministry had been controlled "by one person of the Communist party's central committee" but "this practice is a thing of the past." The ministry is now "subordinated to the government and directly responsible" to Premier Oldrich Cernik.

Referring to the rash of suicides among former officials, Pavel said "a very sensitive approach must be taken in investigating individual cases."

He cited the suicide of Dr. Josef Sommer, who was a doctor from Prague's Ruzyne jail during the purges in the 1950s. The 58-year-old doctor hanged himself last Friday.

Pavel, an occupant of Ruzyne jail in the '50s, said: "I, too, was under his 'care' as a prisoner and do not have a very good reminiscence of Dr. Sommer. But I believe in this case a more humane approach should have been taken and the extreme would not have occurred."

Pavel added that "the security apparatus had nothing to do with Dr. Sommer's death."

Pakistan Plane Crash Kills All 22 Aboard

RAWALPINDI (AP)—Twenty-two persons were killed when a Pakistan Air Force transport plane crashed Tuesday morning, it was officially announced today. It was carrying supplies and passengers to northern areas of west Pakistan around Gilgit, 200 miles north of here. There were no survivors and the plane was completely destroyed, the defence ministry announcement said.

Diabetic Patients To Face Temptations

While attending for blood tests and lectures, they are permitted to order their own lunch in the hospital cafeteria.

And that's when the dietitians determine whether the patient carefully observes his calorie intake or cheats a bit in his eating habits. Studies elsewhere have shown many diabetics absorb up to 1,200 calories more than they should daily.

Head of Jubilee's dietary department, Mary O'Brien told the Monday night meeting of Canadian Diabetic Association that officials at the clinic are anxious to know that patients understand the need for balanced diet, exercise and insulin.

They must be in balance if the patient is to remain out of hospital.

TAKING TESTS

Staff at the day centre also observe the patient's methods in taking insulin and offer advice and are able to make regular tests of blood sugar levels, said Miss O'Brien.

The centre is operated each Wednesday by dietitians, doctors and nurses and volunteers from the diabetic association. Patients are referred by their doctors.

WHEN IT ISN'T FREE

Alderman Explains Ambulance Billing

Victoria's free ambulance service isn't.

Unless you collapse or are injured in a public place—and even then the victim is billed at the full rate unless the emergency telephone call is channelled through the police department first.

The explanation of how the "free emergency service" works was given by Ald. Percy Frampton Monday night as city council considered this year's ambulance costs of $32,320.

"I am interested in how this thing works," said Ald. Ian Stewart. "The other day I was present when a man collapsed in a cafe. I told the waitress to telephone the ambulance while I tried to look after the man. Would he be billed for that?"

"It depends on whom the waitress phoned," Ald. Frampton answered. "If she telephoned the police department and they relayed the call to the ambulance he wouldn't pay. But if she telephoned the ambulance direct he would be billed."

Ald. Frampton added that only by making the first call to the police could there be any control on genuine emergency calls.

But Mayor Hugh Stephen noted that even if calls were placed through the police department there was still a chance that the victim would be billed.

"The police handle the call, but there is still a check to ascertain if the emergency was genuine. If it was there is no charge, but if, as in quite a few cases, it was not an emergency, there is a charge."

Arthur Mayse

Our front hall closet is so dark and deep that I have never fully explored it. But my wife, a couple of evenings ago, took a flashlight and stepped boldly into it.

Up to a point, I was able to trace her progress. A clatter meant that our bag of mismatched golf clubs had toppled. The bang and melancholy twang meant she had dislodged Ron's violin, last tormented when he was struggling with Grade VI.

I lost her at that point, but presently she emerged with a decent-looking coat that she hadn't worn for a long time. She was spreading it on a kitchen counter when Sue came home. They both studied the coat reflectively. Then Sue touched one of its shoulders and lifted a limp sleeve, and for some baffling reason, they exchanged smiles.

"You know," I said, "That coat always looked good on you. Kind of boxy, with nice wide shoulders."

They transferred their attention to me. My daughter shook her head. My wife said, her tone indulgent, "I'm afraid boxy coats with nice wide padded shoulders aren't exactly in style right now."

Put down — though kindly — I returned to buttering myself a snack while the two discussed possible uses for what the tyranny of style had reduced to a mere piece of cloth.

Luckily for us men, the male mystique places us under no such compulsion. We do a certain amount of preening and fussing when young, but by the time we have paid our first property taxes as full-fledged householders, we can take style or leave it alone until it changes in our favor.

Most of us follow the latter course. We wear what we have, replace only when our wives insist, and leave the black leather hats to swinging bachelors.

What if a jacket does happen to have wide, padded shoulders? The next fellow we meet in our age group will like as not be wearing its twin. Further, he may continue to do so until fashions for the mature man have completed their tight little circle, and he's in style again.

Already, the wide, patterned tie is making a tentative comeback down south. Another year or two and who knows but what I'll be breaking out a well-preserved number wide as your hand, with palm trees painted all over it.

And not for us those tides of change that sweep women into such monstrosities as needle-nosed shoes, a style which the arbiters of female fashion have mercifully rendered obsolete.

These brogues that ease my feet so comfortably differ by no more than an eyelet from the pair I wore out five years ago.

When men do make concessions to the style of the moment, their reasons tend to be practical. For instance, the turtleneck, worn fishing on a mean day, helps keep the weather outside where it belongs.

Mostly, though, we are content to hang on to what we have. With this in mind, I have just completed my own flashlight inventory of that same hall closet.

It was a considerable scramble, what with the golf clubs, the violin, and other obstacles, but it turned up a few items that may come in handy one day.

Here's a suit welded of boiler-plate sharkskin for Eastern winters by a Scottish father and son team in Toronto. By now, I expect the son has inherited the business.

But except for a slight shine, that suit with its then-mandatory vest is darn near as sound as the day its broad, bat-wing lapels were cut.

"There ye are, lad," said the elder partner, "and ye have my worrrd it'll still be guid the day they lay ye away in it!"

But long before that day, the chances are that men's styles will have completed their timid shuffle from A to B and back again. With any kind of luck, I'll get the rest of the wear out of that suit while still comfortably on this side of the hereafter!

ONLY NORTH AMERICAN RC INVITED

Catholic Bishop Going to Anglicans' Lambeth Conference

CHEERS 'NEW RELATIONSHIP'

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Times Religious Editor

Union of the Anglican and Roman Catholic churches is possible, Bishop Remi De Roo of Victoria said today.

"But it is unlikely to happen for some time. At the moment the best we can hope for is an understanding — and we are already agreed that all Christians throughout the world should get together."

Bishop De Roo is the only Roman Catholic bishop in North America to be invited to the Anglican church's Lambeth Conference in London, England, from July 25 to Aug. 25.

"It is a very great honor and I'm really looking forward to it," the 44-year-old bisnop said. "It is the result of an entirely new relationship between the Anglican and Roman Catholic churches.

Bishop De Roo will be one of only three Roman Catholic bishops in the world attending the Lambeth Conference, which is held once every 10 years.

The announcement was made jointly by Anglican Archbishop Harold Sexton of British Columbia and Bishop De Roo at the bishop's residence adjoining St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Cathedral.

Archbishop Harold Sexton will represent British Columbia at the conference and will be the senior member of all the archbishops and bishops attending.

Now in his 80th year, he has been bishop of the diocese for 33 years — a record in B.C. — and archbishop of the province for 16 years.

"It is the first time in history that Roman Catholic bishops have been invited to attend the Lambeth Conference," the archbishop said.

"It is reciprocal in that Anglicans were invited to attend the Vatican Councils in Rome. We are very happy that Bishop De Roo is able to attend because we all regard him as a practical, go-ahead person.

Archbishop Sexton said the invitations to Bishop De Roo and two other Roman Catholic bishops were extended after meetings between the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Michael Ramsay, and Pope Paul in Rome.

Also invited was Bishop Christopher Butler of the Roman church, whose brother, Canon Hilary Butler, is canon lecturer to the Anglican diocese of British Columbia.

The three Roman Catholic bishops will be among 500 Anglican delegates attending the Lambeth Conference. There will also be 30 non-Anglican bishops, including Lutheran and Greek Orthodox.

Bishop Ralph Dean of the Cariboo, now serving in London as executive officer of the Anglican communion, will be episcopal secretary of the conference.

"I hope and pray we shall be able to give some leadership in a world that is seriously in need of it," Archbishop Sexton said. "We shall be mainly concerned with renewal of the church in faith, in ministry and in unity.

"It is most important we should explain the Christian Faith to a non-believing world. In other words, we must make the church matter more."

Bishop De Roo said the conference comes at a time when people are questioning the differences separating Christian churches and the basic truths of Christianity.

The "God is Dead" controversy will be fully reviewed and delegates will also discuss renewal of the Christian church in many fields.

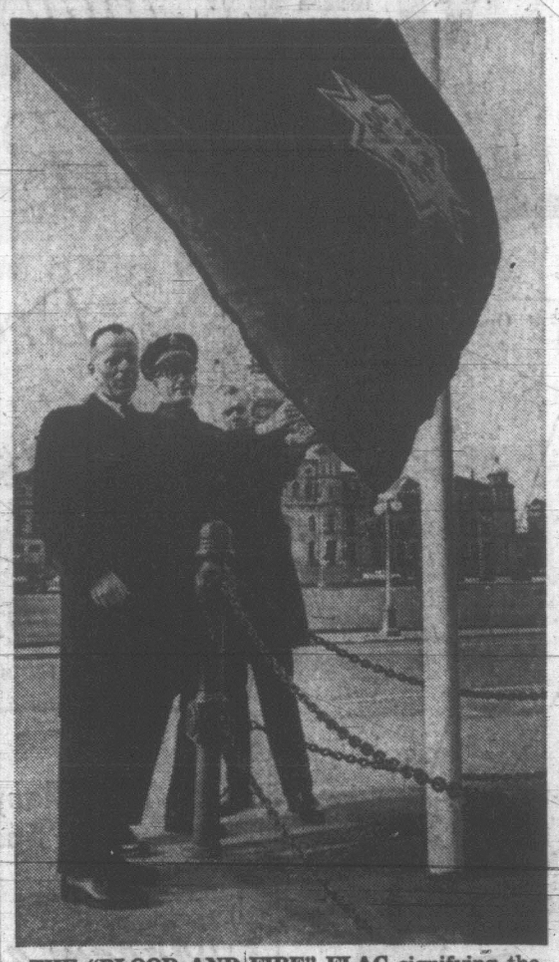
Because of an expected attendance of 1,000 bishops and clergy, the conference will be held—not as in former years at Lambeth Palace—but in Church House, Westminster, adjoining Westminster Abbey.

"It will be an episcopal invasion of London," the archbishop said.

He added that a meeting of B.C. bishops will be held in Vancouver May 17 to choose his successor as Archbishop of British Columbia.

But he will continue as Bishop of the diocese (Vancouver Island and the Gulf Islands) until the end of the year.

"This will be the third Lambeth conference I have attended," he said, "and that is a distinction shared by only six other bishops.



THE "BLOOD AND FIRE" FLAG signifying the start of the Salvation Army's Red Shield Appeal for funds was raised on the Causeway this morning. 'Blood, Fire' Flag Waving for Help In Sally Ann Drive

The Salvation Army's month-long Red Shield Appeal got under way this morning with a flag-raising ceremony on the Causeway.

Mayor Hugh Stephen, the honorary chairman, and appeal general chairman Wallace MacKay helped Salvation Army Captain Hugh Tilley hoist the red and blue "blood and fire" flag aloft.

The fund-raising campaign, which will be conducted by door-to-door and residential canvass, has a goal of $70,000, an increase of $6,500 above last year's goal.

Capt. Tilley said the appeal has already received more than $11,000 in individual pledges.

Appeal funds go to support Army social service operations in the community. These include the Sunset Lodge for aged ladies, the Mary Moore Home and Hospital for non-rehabilitative chronic care, and the Matson Lodge.

The Army's budget for 1967 was $551,598.

WORK POINT SOLDIER KILLED IN INTERIOR

He had no next-of-kin in this area and was thought to have lived in Regina prior to enlistment.

Maier, 22, and a passenger, Lloyd Emile Hofner, 26, of New Westminster, both died in a crash involving a truck on the Trans-Canada Highway 10 miles west of the city.

The driver of the truck escaped injury.

Field Day Here Saturday For Island First Aid Teams

The 28th annual St. John Ambulance Victoria Field Day first aid competitions will be held Saturday in the Central Junior High School.

The competitions will take place at 10 a.m. for juniors and 1:30 p.m. for seniors.

There will be three events each for boys, girls, men and women.

Industrial firms are well represented in the senior men's division with teams from Crown Zellerbach, MacMillan Bloedel, B.C. Telephone, as well as the Queen's Own Rifles and the Naval Fire Service.

Highlight of the afternoon's events is the competition among all men's teams south of Ladysmith for the right to represent lower Vancouver Island in the provincial playdowns.

Two Women Hurt In Street Mishap

Two elderly women were struck down by a car Tuesday night as they walked together across Broughton St.

Mrs. Margaret McBride, 850 Cook St., and Mrs. Margaret McIntyre, of Vancouver, were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital where they were treated for cuts and released.

The accident occurred just after 9 p.m. Police said the car involved was driven north on Quadra by Harold Clark, 2723 Avebury.

New Canadians To Take Oath

Twenty-five Victoria residents will be sworn in as Canadian citizens at a ceremony in Victoria Law Courts next Wednesday at 2 p.m.

Judge Eric Chown, president of the Citizenship Court, will preside and an address of welcome will be given by Ald. Cecil Parrott.

Japanese Study $150 Million In B.C. Mills

Three more joint-venture pulp and paper mills worth at least $150 million are being investigated by Japanese interests, Resources Minister Ray Williston said today.

He said if they go ahead it would give the Japanese the third largest stake in the B.C. forestry industry, behind only Canadian and U.S. involvement.

The three new possible plants would be added to a $40 million 400-ton-daily plant which will open in East Kootenays in November and another $40-50 million plant in the Rocky Mountain Trench which is expected to begin construction this year.

Mr. Williston made the disclosures on returning from a two-week business trip to Japan.

He said the three Japanese pulp companies now investigating feasibility of building plants in this province are Oji, Daishowa and Sanyo-Nissho but declined to disclose other details.

'PHENOMENAL'

"It's phenomenal, the interest Japan has in B.C., and not in coming to take logs out of here but fabricating," he said.

He said it was vital that B.C. establish a market for its superior kraft pulp in Japan, the largest and fastest-growing paper consumer in Asia because that country is "shopping the world for wood" and planning its investment and import policies now for the next generation.

He said if the three new firms actually do go ahead with projects here, it would bring the combined Japanese involvement in the B.C. woods industry onto a par with the present Canadian trade trend of having Japan as the second-largest trading partner after the United States.

Honshu Pulp Company now is building a plant at Skookumchuck and will begin operation this fall while Jujo is the other company involved at Mackenzie, 125 miles north of Prince George, which is expected to complete its building plans this month.

Two Days To Go For Registration In Big Parade

The parade will originate at the Mayfair shopping centre and proceed straight down Douglas to Belleville.

At present there are 23 American bands entered, as well as about 60 local floats. The parade theme is "100 years of the Capital—1868-1968."

OVERTONES OF PROSTITUTION

Parents Get Warning On Traffic in Girls

Travelling Aboard Coast Freighters

By PETE LOUDON

A shipboard traffic in girls involving Port Alberni, Vancouver and occasionally Victoria, today brought a warning to parents from RCMP and city police forces.

The traffic, involving juveniles as young as 14 and often Indian girls from Up-Island reserves, thrives aboard several deep-sea freighters despite police surveillance.

It is a contuning traffic—some say it's as old as ships and the sea. But it was given new emphasis in Port Alberni last week when a search for one missing Vancouver girl, turned up four others on the same lumber carrier.

Police say the girls, who often travel between coastal points, many times are listed by parents as missing persons. They say the traffic has overtones of prostitution on an apparently unorganized basis, many of the girls being willing participants.

UNAWARE

But there also is reason to believe some of the girls involved have been innocently brought aboard and supplied with liquor until they were unaware the ship had sailed.

The recent case in Port Alberni was brought to light when a distraught Vancouver mother reported her 15-year-old daughter missing, RCMP reported.

She had been keeping company with a Norwegian sailor in Vancouver. Her mother contacted the police and asked for a search of the ship at its next port of call—Port Alberni, April 22.

The girl was apprehended. The girl said she and four others had been aboard since the ship left Vancouver. She said she had gone aboard before sailing to say goodbye to her friend, had accepted drinks and had not noticed when the ship sailed.

WITH CAPTAIN

She said she and the others had the run of the ship and had even eaten in the captain's presence.

The four other girls were not apprehended. (If they were 18, police said, there are no grounds for arresting them unless prostitution charges can be proven.)

But the following day another search of the ship turned up a 15-year-old who was in care of Port Alberni welfare authorities, police said.

Since the ship departed for the Philippines it was reported in Port Alberni that an 18-year-old girl was aboard when it sailed.

An RCMP officer said that unless a girl is a juvenile the matter must rest with the parents. He warned that parents should make certain teen-aged girls do not frequent waterfront areas un-escorted.

A check with Vancouver city police superintendent T. F. Stokes brought a similar warning. He said there is no doubt that juvenile girls are involved in the traffic.

"They get aboard despite our patrols and the crewmen hide them. We've even gone into the bay and pulled girls off. They say they have gone aboard as guests."

He said some captains of ships turn a blind eye to the situation, some of the "saltier" ones believing their men have earned such "recreation" after long cruises. And he thought that few of the girls are innocent, many of them being there for the money they can earn.

A Vancouver police report accompanied a young Indian girl recently when she was returned to her home in Port Alberni after being reported missing two months earlier. It outlined her involvement with a large number of seamen in Vancouver harbor after she had been taken there on a freighter from her hometown.

FOUND BY CAPTAIN

Inspector Bill Andrews of Victoria police said as recently as two months ago two Indian girls were taken from a freighter here after it left harbor, when they had been located by the captain.

They had been aboard since the ship cleared Port Alberni and throughout a voyage to New Westminster. He said an RCMP squad concerned with smuggling goes aboard ships here and at up-Island points. But girls often evade searches.

Inspector Andrews said some captains are strict about keeping visitors off their ships, others are lax. Some months ago a group of Victoria girls were visiting ships locally for illicit purposes, but this has now been halted at least temporarily. Full control is up to the parents he maintains.

A LITTLE DAB will do him, perhaps a few more dabs, and local sculptress Mrs. Peggy Walton Packard will have added the famous half smile, trademark of Canada's new prime minister, Pierre Elliott Trudeau. Mrs. Packard demonstrated her skills at Hobby Show at Victoria Curling Rink. Clay model on pipe frame represented three to four hours work while chatting with passersby who registered immediate recognition. "They had pleasant things to say, and if I were forecasting the election I'd say his chances are excellent." Finished bust may be offered for sale.

$500,000 PROJECT

Old Indian Village To Live Once Again

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Victoria experts in Indian lore and crafts will assist this summer in building a replica of an ancient Indian village at the junction of the Skeena and Buckley Rivers, near Hazelton.

It will cost $500,000.

The village, to be known as 'Ksan, is the largest historic project undertaken in the province since the development of the old mining town of Barkerville and the reconstruction of Fort Steele in the interior.

The project is jointly sponsored by Agricultural and Rural Development Act and the provincial government.

Construction is expected to start in June.

Joseph Awmack, rural development officer for ARDA in Victoria, said today the village will become one of the province's major attractions.

CAMPING GROUND

"It's a big and unique project" he said, "which also includes a large camping ground for visitors."

'Ksan will be managed entirely by Skeena River Indians who will also operate a craft shop on the site.

Craftsmen will work on the spot and the articles produced will be sold.

The complex will also include a museum and a replica of a pre-historic Indian dwelling, plus a house of feast where it is hoped the Indians from time to time will show their skill in "ancient magic."

CURATOR NAMED

Mrs. Mary McKenzie, a hereditary chief of the Kixpiox band, has been appointed curator of the museum village.

George Moore, B.C. museum adviser, said the signing over of the village to the Indian people of the district will be marked on June 29 with dancing and a feast.

The ceremony will be attended by Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes.

YOU CAN CATCH COHO AND A BONUS

Don't Let the Dollar Get Away

Any tag returned to an officer of the Department of Fisheries or sent to regional headquarters, 1155 Robson St., Vancouver, is worth $1.

Purpose is to learn the migratory behaviors, abundance and feeding habits for benefit of commercial and sports fishermen.

The chartered boat K Charles is being used in tagging operations in Sooke and Pedder Bay for about two months. Chartered trollers Valiant I and Tidewater III will carry out trolling experiments in Becher Bay, Sombrio Point, Glacier Point and Port San Juan areas until July 15.

At the same time, says the department, planes will study the distribution of commercial and sports fishing boats in the region.

Ask The Times

Q. Is there anywhere in Canada where a medical is necessary before a marriage certificate is issued, and what are the waiting periods in the provinces? A.C.C.

A. Saskatchewan is the only province that requires a full pre-marital medical, including a blood test. Alberta, Manitoba and Prince Edward Island require a blood test; the other provinces do not require any examination whatsoever. Waiting periods after issuing of a marriage licence vary: Alberta—eight days; B.C.—three days; Manitoba—24 hours; New Brunswick — five; Newfoundland — no licence required; Nova Scotia—five; Ontario — three; P.E.I. — seven; Quebec—none; Sask.—five.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

PLANNING FASHION SHOW AND LUNCHEON

The Metropolitan United Church Women will hold their annual Coral Bell Luncheon on Wednesday, May 8, from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., in Pendray Hall. Wearing three of the hats which will be seen at the fashion show, to be held at the luncheon, are, left to right, Mrs. W. Edmunds and Cathy Edmunds, and Mrs. W. H. Spearman. Fashions will be from Helen's Boutique. Mrs. A. C. Erickson is general convener of the luncheon. There will also be a home-cooking stall.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Relative Not Always Best Friend

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I know you will find this hard to believe, but every word of it is true:

There is an elderly gentleman (in his eighties) living in a small single room in a local hotel. This man has married children and grandchildren in town who hardly look at him.

He can't dress himself, or bathe very well, and his eyesight is failing, so the maids help him. (The maids take better care of him than his own family.)

Several months ago, a maid found him on the bathroom floor. He had fallen the night before and couldn't get up, so he just laid there, cold and shivering all night.

He eats only once a day on a tray sent to his room, and that's usually oatmeal and coffee. On Sundays the kitchen is closed, so he doesn't eat from Saturday until Monday morning.

How can people be so heartless? Today is Sunday, and believe me, Abby, my appetite is gone just thinking about that poor, old, neglected man.

"A FRIEND"

DEAR FRIEND: If you really want to help, why don't YOU look in on the old gentleman? (You don't have to be a relative to extend a kindness.) Writing to me without a clue of who YOU are, who HE is, or even the city in which he lives, is futile. And your loss of appetite won't help him much, either.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 15-year-old girl who has just started to date. I am going to ask you a question I have asked many others but I have never been able to get anyone to give me a straight answer.

When a girl really likes a fellow and they are alone together, naturally they are going to make out some, but how far should a girl go?

WANTS TO KNOW

DEAR WANTS: The limits of self-respect will provide the answer. A boy who has genuine affection for a girl will never do anything that will degrade her, or make her feel ashamed. Courtship is preparation for marriage; ask any boy how far he would like the girl he marries to go on a date. And if he's honest, you'll have an honest answer.

DEAR ABBY: You recently printed a letter from someone who said if an adopted child turns out bad, it could be because of "bad blood." Well my blood ("bad" or otherwise) boiled.

I was adopted when I was an infant. I don't know exactly how old I was when I learned about it but it was early enough for me to say, "Yes, I know," when a cousin whispered what he thought was a big secret.

Much later I became curious about my natural parents. After satisfying that normal curiosity, I promptly put it aside and seldom think about it until some ignoramus makes a statement about "bad blood." Then I blow up.

Of course, heredity is a factor, but the strongest force in shaping a child's character is environment, and an adopted child will be more like the couple who adopted him than anyone else.

However, here is one fact that seems to be overlooked. The adopted child KNOWS that he was wanted, and that he's not in the family because she forgot to take "the pill," or they got drunk one night. For this reason, the adopted child should be especially secure in the knowledge that he is loved by adoptive parents.

If you print this, please use my right name. I'm d - - - proud of it.

C. WAYNE WALTERS

DEAR ABBY: While driving through a small city in upstate New York I became ill and a doctor hospitalized me for 15 days. I was in this semi-private room, and had a "roommate."

My first "roomie" was a 10-year-old kid who watched TV around the clock. I was trapped in an oxygen tent and almost lost my mind.

My next "roomie" was brought into my room at 3 a.m. He'd had a snootful and missed a curve at 70 miles per hour. His wife tore in, hysterical, and proceeded to chew him out. She called him some interesting names, immediately repented, then stood outside the door and cried for two hours while her mother gave her the old "I-told-you-so" routine.

That afternoon about 500 relatives came to visit him. At least a dozen of them pulled out cigarettes and were just about to light up when they were calmly told by my roommate that the "guy in the other bed" was in an oxygen tent! I kept expecting to be blown to bits any minute. After they left, his wife sat on his bed and cried for another two hours.

By this time I was begging the nurses to put me in the morgue so I could get some rest.

My next roomie was a man whose wife adored him. She was there 16 hours a day, seven days a week and talked all the time. Somehow I got well enough to got home.

Abby, please print this. Maybe someone will remember it if (God forbid!) he ever has to share a room in a hospital.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

It's Later Than You Think

As most of my readers know, I am now bringing you my short SPRING MAKEOVER. Last week I gave you five simple exercises for spot reducing and for firming up flabby areas. I am now publishing my Nine Day Diet, the second portion of this program. This gives you a loss of from 5 to 10 pounds in nine days.

Lowman

It you will study the menus for tomorrow you will see that you do not have to plan two sets of meals when you are following the Nine Day Diet. A few easy additions can zoom the calorie count up for the rest of your family.

For instance for breakfast, the family can add cereal, have two pieces of buttered toast with jelly, and cream and sugar in their coffee.

At mid morning they can have whole milk rather than skim milk. For luncheon make it two eggs, scrambled or fried, a couple of buttered rolls, butter or Hollandaise sauce on their broccoli, and whole milk instead of skim milk.

At dinner the rest of the family can have a large portion of fish, with caper sauce if desired, a larger serving of green peas, roquefort dressing on the salad, and cookies with the fruit cup.

This makes a tremendous difference in the calorie count anc means very little extra work for you.

MENUS

Breakfast
One-half grapefruit
One thin dry piece of whole wheat toast
Black coffee

Mid Morning
Glass of skimmed milk or buttermilk

Luncheon
One poached egg
One thin dry piece of whole wheat toast
One-half cup broccoli
One glass skimmed milk

Dinner
Two crisp raw carrots
Baked fish (medium portion)
One-half cup green peas
Shredded lettuce salad, lemon dressing
Fresh fruit cup

If you have missed any of the menus this week or would like to have the complete Nine Day Diet in booklet form, for a loss of from 5 to 10 pounds in nine days, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Local Catholic Women's League Has Annual Dinner and Election

A busy year of activity was shown in the report given by Mrs. M. Jorre de St. Jorre when the Oak Bay Catholic Women's League held its annual dinner and election of officers at the Uplands Golf Club.

The report stated that members had helped in the serving of lunches at the Silver Threads Centre and with the book-mobile at the Veterans' Hospital. They had also assisted with the store-cart at St. Joseph's Hospital. Volunteers had also helped at the Canadian National Institute of the Blind, baby clinics, as well as canvassing for the Mothers' March campaign.

It was also stated that plans were being made for the provision of meal delivery for senior citizens in the Oak Bay area.

Treasurer Mrs. Henry Spohn said that hampers had been given to needy families at Christmas, and donations made to both the fund for overseas underprivileged and the CWL scholarship fund. The debt for St. Patrick's Church's furnace had been removed. A television set had been bought for St. Patrick's School, as well as prizes for commencement exercises. Donations had also been made to Girl Guides and Boy Scouts.

The group had paid for a child's two-week stay at a Shawnigan Lake camp and had also assisted St. Vincent de Paul. Goodwill Enterprises and the Salvation Army. Cartons of clothing had been sent to Hong Kong.

Mrs. James O'Connor was elected president in the election chaired by Mrs. A. J. Romano.

Other officers are: Mrs. Edward Cardle, first vice-president; Mrs. B. Turnbull, second; Mrs. Howard Nuttal, third; Mrs. J. Duncan, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Spohn, treasurer, and Mrs. John Weiker, recording secretary.

The councillors are Mrs. Brian Green, Mrs. J. Politano, Mrs. Embert Van Tilberg, Mrs. H. B. Fox, Mrs. Bert McNeil and Mrs. A. Ruskowski.

Mrs. J. A. McLellan arranged the candlelight ceremony in which the officers were installed.

Retiring president Mrs. John MacAvoy was thanked by council director, Fr. A. Leonard, and presented with gifts and a past president's pin.

Fr. John Zuyderwijk was the guest speaker. He was introduced by Mrs. C. A. Macgillivray and thanked by Mrs. Vernon Green.

The dinner, attended by 96 members and friends, and ticket sales were handled by Mrs. Green and Mrs. Fox. Mrs. Peter O'Dynski arranged and conducted a sing-song.

Wrenettes to Hold Tea on Saturday

Members of the Patricia Dufour Navy League Wrenette Corps will hold an afternoon tea and sale of home cooking, aprons and novelties this coming Saturday. The event will be held in the Bay's Douglas Room, from 2 to 4:30 p.m. and will be officially opened by Mrs. J. A. Charles, wife of the maritime commander (Pacific).

The affair is being convened by Able Wrenettes Lorraine Vesey, Helen Stewart and Wendy Halls.

The teen-age wrenettes have planned the tea in order to raise funds for new uniforms.

Mrs. B. Scroggs will be in charge of a sewing stall; Mrs. N. Jones, home baking; Mrs. L. Watson, candy; Mrs. D. Robbins, white elephant and rummage, and Mrs. M. King, plants.

Popcorn and soft drinks will be sold at a stall convened by Mrs. L. Ben. The Lake Hill Little League club will run a cake walk and various games.

Bakers Come Under Fire

TORONTO (CP) — Consumers are "sick and tired" of hearing bakers blame rising labor costs for the high price of a loaf of bread, says Eric Luxton of Ottawa, editor of the Canadian Consumer.

Mr. Luxton told the annual conference of the Bakery Council of Canada this week that Argentines eat lots of beef and it's "cheap," and in Brazil the coffee comes at a "low rate."

"Why in a country that is one of the biggest grain producers in the world do we pay such a consistently high price for the staff of life?"

About 200 bakers attending the session had no chance to answer his questions because the meeting ran late.

"Just who determines that the consumer wants a bland, nearly flavorless, loaf of soft bread that toasts easily?" Mr. Luxon asked.

"Does the consumer really want such a product? Can't we have an easy-toasting and flavorful product at the same time?"

Pep Up Your Coiffure In Very Few Minutes

By PENNY SAVER

Spring caught Jayne with a walloping cold and a half. For the past week or more she has been wheezing and snuffling as the virus became more and more deeply entrenched in her chest and throat. Daylight saving seemed to throw it off track, however, and Jayne has been winning the battle since Sunday. "I feel much better, Penny," she told me when I phoned the other day, "but I felt so grubby! I have taken a good, steamy bath or two but I just don't dare to wash my hair. Is there such a thing as a really good dry shampoo?" Since Jayne is one of my favorite nieces, I decided to lend her my latest find.

Secret Lies in Terry Towelling Strip

This is a new dry shampoo packed in an aerosol can for easier application. As it is sprayed on the hair it turns into a white powder that soaks up the dirt and excess oil — even hair-spray buildup falls prey to the greedy little flakes. A whole shampoo takes only 10 minutes. Each can has a washable terry towel strip tucked inside the cap which fits across your comb. The strip picks up the powder with its burden of dirt far more efficiently than a brush or comb alone. A seven-ounce can of shampoo is $1.98. Because there is no wetting, a short, natural hairstyle like Jayne's needs no resetting after this treatment. This dry shampoo is the perfect answer for last-minute dates or busy travel schedules.

"Does your deodorant keep you dry?" Oh how I hate some television commercials! I must admit though, I am glad to see many of those handy new products come into Victoria. A new aerosol deodorant which contains an antiperspirant is now available here. A six-ounce can is $1.50. "Why did it take them so long?" I asked the salesman. "After all, antiperspirants have been on the market for years." He explained that the chemical that "keeps you dry" has a bad habit of eating through metal. The company had to work for years to find a can liner that wouldn't fade-fade away. But remember to shake this deodorant thoroughly before spraying. It's not quite like the others, you know.

Now that the weather is warm the temptation to leave the doors and windows open is stronger than ever. I find, though, that the draft slams my inner doors shut, completely defeating the cooling breeze. I was walking through a store one day with the slam of a door still ringing in my ears when I found a perfect and attractive answer. It is a wooden door wedge. This fancy wedge is finished with the bark still on and all the grain showing. It has a red handle to make it easy to pull out, and a little verse painted on it makes it a cute novelty gift. This door wedge is $1.19.

If you would like to know where these items may be found, please call me at 382-3131.

"I'd appreciate it if you'd be a little more economizing so I'll be able to hold you up as a good example to my next wife."

CLUBWOMEN'S NEWS

Elect Officers — Miss Virginia Hanley was elected president at a recent meeting of the Catholic Women's League of St. Andrews Cathedral. Also elected were Mrs. W. Rogers, fist vice-president; Mrs. K. Liniski, second vice-president; Mrs. E. Desilet, third vice-president; Mrs. P. Hartnell, recording secretary; Mrs. E. Duncan, corresponding secretary; Mrs. G. Horgan, treasurer. Mrs. D. Rivers, Miss J. Tinevy and Mrs. B. Fletcher are councillors. Past president is Mrs. H. H. James and CWL director is Msgr. M. O'Connell. Reports showed the league spent an active year with members on Pastoral and Cathedral councils. They took part in interfaith activities, financed scholarship funds, promoted good reading, worked with youth of all faiths, visited the sick, and assisted with many projects in all fields of endeavor.

Variety Show — A group of musicians entertained patients, members and friends of the Victoria and Vancouver Island Multiple Sclerosis Society at a recent social meeting. Taking part in the program were Walter Rothe, pianist, who arranged the entertainment; R. Dunn, vocalist, and W. Glover, G. Hoare, H. Luder, E. Phillips and Dr. Henry Thompson. Their instruments included violin, saxophone, concertina, harmonica, accordion and classical guitar. A community sing-song was a feature attraction. Refreshments were provided and served by members of the MS Golden Key Auxiliary. Volunteer drivers and the society's Cosmo bus provided transportation.

YOUNG SON EMERGES FROM THE 'FOG'

Cornea Transplant Patients Meet

TORONTO (CP) — Two women who met after receiving new corneas in eye operations more than a year ago have helped to form an organization for others having cornea transplants.

They met in hospital after nurses told them they had had the same operation.

Eight weeks ago, they entered hospital for transplants to their left eyes. They arranged with their doctors to have the same donor for their second transplant.

Mrs. Allan, a policeman's wife, said she saw her 2½-year-old son properly for the first time last year, but he looks even prettier when she can see him with both eyes.

"I don't think I would like to know . . ." said Mrs. Morrow.

"It's enough to me to know that good people brought me out of the fog."

Although her sight was failing after the age of 13 when she contracted a disease known as keratoconus, Mrs. Allan said most of her friends did not realize she had difficulty seeing. Keratoconus is a condition which changes the size of the eye and thins out the cornea and Mrs. Allan started wearing glasses after its onset.

She said she could recognize certain movements and could pick out her husband by his walk at a long distance.

"If would embarrass me at times when I couldn't recognize someone until they were up close," she added.

A New You

by Emily Wilkens

DEAR EMILY WILKENS:

SINK THAT INK

I use a ballpoint pen to take dictation and frequently get ink stains on my nails as well as my fingers. The only way I've been able to remove them is to take off the polish. I haven't the time or patience for this. Can you suggest an alternate method?—G.M.

If the stains are small, use the very corner of a pumice stone or emery board to gently rub them off. Then fill in the "gap" with polish, let dry slightly and go over all with a fresh coat of colorless sealer to blend the "mend."

You might check the kind of pen you're using, too. It's been my experience that the plunger types are less likely to stain than the "steno" pens which seem to literally pour out that nasty indelible ink.

FISH (NET) STORY

My feet have been feeling very sore and rough to the touch. Could this be caused by the textured hose I've been wearing recently?—C.G.

It definitely could. Some nets, particularly the less expensive types, are made with nylon almost strong enough to catch a fish!

When you're shopping for stockings, run your finger across the "pattern" to be sure it feels soft and cottony. If it seems cutting to your fingers it will certainly feel even worse to your feet.

Size, too, might be a factor. You may be buying your hose too small and the resulting "tension" could be causing your problem.

ON THE SPOT

I'm intrigued with your mention about applying perfume to pulse spots. I always thought one should simply put a dab of perfume behind the ears. Can you explain this further?—D.L.

It is suggested that you apply perfume to pulse spots because body heat helps "circulate" the fragrance. These spots include the inner wrist, the crook of your arm, the back of the knees and the lower spine, as well as behind the ears.

If your skin is at all sensitive, beware of letting perfume run down the sides of your neck lest the alcohol affect the pigmentation.

DR. FRENCH

Silken Dream Recalled

By ELIZABETH FORBES

An inquiring voice on the telephone the other morning wished to know if I could remember the name of a man who, over 20 years ago, had a silkworm incubator system going among Victoria's school children. He also had a dream that silkworm farms could be started and maintained here.

Forbes

It took a few moments but finally I saw in memory a big heavy set Englishman, dark-skinned and brown eyed, who wore rough tweed suits and matching caps and who walked with a rolling limp. His name was Dr. Cecil French.

★ ★ ★

With memory jogged it wasn't hard to go back to a building on the southwest corner of Gordon and Courtney Streets where Dr. French made and sold a famous line of dog remedies with a double F (French) in his name on the labels. It was there that I once interviewed him amongst his silkworms.

A retired veterinary surgeon by profession, his hobby had been silkworm raising from the time he was a small boy in England. And, believe it or not, he succeeded in giving a practical demonstration that it could be done on a small scale at least, in Victoria and on Vancouver Island.

★ ★ ★

In the early 40's when the world silk market crashed, he imported several thousand silkworm eggs from England and from Washington, D.C. Then he established a silkworm farm in his own spotlessly clean laboratory.

It wasn't large enough. So he hit on the idea of interesting Victoria school children in the venture.

This meant interviewing the school board, trustees and teachers, over and over again. Finally he was allowed to go into the classrooms and talk to the children. That did it. The young people were enthusiastic and a number of public schools took silkworms to see how the idea would work.

Results were good. Interest held and in a couple of seasons school children were raising enough raw silk to make bookmarks which were sold to tourists in summer for 15 cents each, through a club founded and directed by Cecil French.

Dr. French believed that every farmer's daughter, a good many city housewives and even business women could run a few silkworms as a sideline.

All that was needed to start the business was a cardboard box in the living room to use as an incubator.

He'd supply the eggs in early spring. They would be kept fairly dormant until food was available about mid-May. Then they would be hatched out at ordinary room temperature.

When the silkworms had eaten their fill (in about five or six weeks) they would spin the cocoons that gave the silk. On the other hand, if left to develop, the chrysalis would hatch a moth that laid about 350 eggs.

The whole cycle from egg hatch until the moth died was only two months. Then the new eggs could be kept dormant again until the next spring.

As an amateur serriculturist he had raised silkworms on lettuce and dandelion leaves, he said. But he wouldn't vouch for the silk produced.

Young mulberry leaves were the natural diet. And because our pioneer families had a hankering for mulberry wine, there were some fine old black mulberry trees in the city to supply food for Victoria's first home grown silk.

Cecil French believed that the white Russian mulberry, growing then in Manitoba, produced a finer quality silk. So he sent for a number of small trees. He started others from seeds and even from clippings.

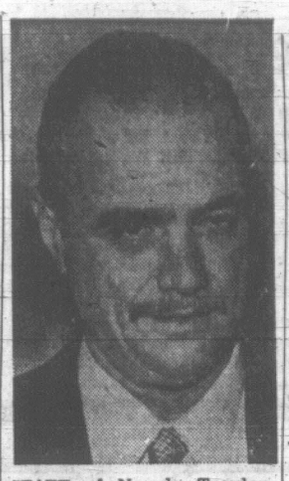
Going back in memory to the day I interviewed him in his laboratory, I remember Dr. French was busy reeling silk from cocoons, with the help of several women assistants.

At that time his dream envisioned a living room industry with central depots to spin the raw silk and other depots to weave it into fine materials. No one could tire of such a hobby, he believed, or even of a part-time industry that took up so little time.

Eventually they did tire. Enthusiasm faded. Today, Dr. French is gone and modern techniques and development of many lovely synthetic materials have made his dream a vision of the past.



STATE of Nevada Tuesday approved the sale of two more casinos to billionaire Howard Hughes, making him the biggest gambling operator in the state. He owns six clubs. The ruling allows Hughes to buy the Stardust and Silver Slipper casinos.

Trophy Won For Soaking Up South Sunshine

Walter Tennant, 88, has won just about the nicest kind of trophy there is.

To win it the Victoria resident had to leave the city when the rains came in the fall and spend the winter soaking up sun near Palm Springs, Calif.

Now he's back in town with a trophy from the Indio Chamber of Commerce attesting to the fact he was the oldest of 500 Canadians residing in the California desert city which is near Victoria's sister city, Palm Springs.

Mr. Tennant, now residing with his wife at 971 Wollaston, says it didn't rain a drop all winter and his 1956 model car purred like a kitten all the way down and back.

While there he heard quite a bit about the sister-city arrangement between Palm Springs and Victoria, indicating that the summer charms of southern Vancouver Island are being broadcast under the joint publicity venture.

Crash Kills 19

VARANASI, India (Reuters)—Nineteen members of a wedding party were killed when a truck in which they were travelling hit a tree and plunged into deep mud, it was reported Tuesday night. Twenty-five other members of the party were injured.

Groppi's Marchers Hail Milwaukee Housing Win

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Milwaukee's racial demonstrators, who endured stones, slurs and the rigors of Wisconsin's winter during 200 nights of marches, have reached their goal. City Hall has granted a strong open-housing ordinance.

"We feel it is a significant victory," said Rev. James E. Groppi. The white Roman Catholic priest helped lead marches by the Milwaukee Youth Council of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Father Groppi was in the city's common council chambers with his young followers Tuesday when the council voted 15 to 4 in favor of a code outlawing discrimination in the sale or rental of all but two categories of Milwaukee housing.

Exempted under the measure, which was stronger than that recommended by Mayor Henry Maier, are single-family houses and owner-occupied duplexes.

The exemptions apply primarily to private sales transactions, not those through brokers.

CARELESS DRIVERS

Fined in central court Tuesday for careless driving were:

Harry Bos, 608 Cornwall, involved in accident on Cook near Pembroke March 25, $40; Rodger Fritzler, 2644 Belmont, accident at Douglas and View March 26, $50; William Groat, 989 Redfern, accident at Pandora and Camosun March 26, $40; Robert Randall, 2800 Scott, accident at Bay and Fernwood March 23, $50; Larry Smith, 1052 Verdier, accident at Esquimalt and Dominion March 27, $40; Ronald Vasilash, 1383 Slater, accident at Cook and Hillside March 25, $50.

Sooner or later, that day comes, the day when a woman feels she's changing. It's not a good feeling either. And she could use a good old-fashioned medicine then.

Could be you feel a little edgy, or maybe cross. You might even have what we call hot flashes and feel sad and slightly off-balance.

Whatever you feel, we have something for the day you need a little comforting. Lydia E. Pinkham Tablets. They're made with gentle ingredients that work to give you a better sense of well-being. A sense of well-being you might lose when you start changing.

CANADA'S ELDERLY

Loneliness, Money Lack Two Biggest Problems

By JEAN SHARP
CP Women's Editor

For someone who is elderly, even a temporary illness brings with it the possibility of tragedy.

If he can't pay his rent while he is in hospital, he might lose his room or apartment. He might lose it anyway, if the landlord decided to be rid of a potentially bothersome tenant.

When he leaves the hospital he may find no temporary convalescent accommodation available, no temporary home help available, no one to help him look for assistance.

Stay Independent

A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press found concern exists about gaps such as these in the services and facilities now available for older people. Officials say the stir of interest in the welfare of the elderly in recent years has resulted in some improvement in housing, and attention is turning to other lacks.

Welfare authorities are thinking increasingly in terms of helping people stay independent, living in the community, rather than in institutions. But the idea on a widespread basis is far from feasible as yet.

There is little co-ordination among private or public agencies. There are virtually no central sources of information for individuals trying to find out about a community's services. Help to overcome temporary disability is scarce.

Official recognition of the dilemma was in the report of the Senate committee on aging, tabled in February, 1966. It recommended that governments at all levels establish bodies to co-ordinate efforts. It also recommended establishment of a fact-finding committee.

Minimum Income

The report urged a minimum income for people over 65, as well. Money is obviously part of the problem. The report estimated about half of the men and 85 per cent of Canadian women over 65 have incomes of less than $1,500 a year.

The Canadian Welfare Council has set up a division on aging to draw attention to and find ways to meet the needs of the elderly. They expect to do a survey of information and referral services.

Many Live Alone

There is one such service, in Ottawa. It is the information and service bureau of the city health department. Its director, Marjorie Bradford, says it was started as a pilot project 10 years ago, and was so immediately useful it has been kept going.

It was originally intended to try to solve housing and hospital problems, but must usually work on others as well.

Miss Bradford says the pattern of living for elderly people who come to the bureau has been the same for 10 years. It illustrates how many are alone in this day of scattered families and small houses.

The largest single number lived in rooming houses—222 out of 853 in one year's group. With those who lived alone in apartments, they made up 40 per cent of the bureau's clients. Only 15 per cent lived in family homes, their own or others'.

Services Scarce

The services that now exist to help keep people independent are scarce, and often based on volunteer workers and funds.

An exception, the Victorian Order of Nurses, operates in every province but Prince Edward Island. The Canadian Welfare Council report says the VON needs more money to extend its work.

It reports few homemaker services operating in Canada, and suggests they should be extended and more started.

Volunteers operate "meals on wheels" in many centres, often in co-operation with a hospital or the Red Cross. Some groups run a friendly visitors' service for elderly people. They organize telephone chains to make sure someone elderly and alone gets and makes at least one phone call a day.

Form Own Groups

The National Council of Jewish Women has had a project that included subsidizing research, the operation of centres and programs to encourage older people to do volunteer work.

Some retired people have organized their own groups, and they are growing. A National Pensioners and Senior Citizens Federation is taking shape from regional organizations.

J. S. Rose of Toronto, corresponding secretary of the United Senior Citizens of Ontario, formed 10 years ago, says it has been affiliated with western groups for about four years and similar groups are getting a foothold in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

Apart from being friendship clubs on a local basis, they try to work as a lobby in a regional or provincial grouping.

Two Victorians Re-Elected

Two Victorians, Colonel R. O. Bull and Beverly E. Jeffery, have been re-elected to the Boy's Club of Canada board of directors.

Robert T. Hager of Vancouver, re-elected national president, said at a recent Toronto meeting the number of Boys' Clubs had more than trebled during their 21-year period of growth, and there were seven times more communities being served by the clubs.

In an auditor's report, treasurer Reter M. McEntyre of Montreal indicated progress to date in a national campaign to raise a $100,000 endowment fund to close the gap between money received in the form of grants and other public support and current operational costs.

Pupil Refuses Detention, Police Escort Him Away

TORONTO (CP) — Two police officers Tuesday escorted a high school student off school property because he refused to serve a detention for arriving at school 15 minutes late.

Michael Stanleigh, 18, of Bathurst Heights secondary school, said in an interview he was suspended for three days after he refused to serve a detention for being late in mid-April.

He said it was his first late-arrival offence of the school year and that his piano practice and studies would be affected by a detention.

After being suspended he continued going to classes last week, ignoring teachers' requests that he leave.

Monday he was called into the office of Principal J. Wilkie Davey, and again refused to comply with the three-day suspension.

"Mr. Davey then opened the door and there were four policemen—one of them a detective," he said.

Stanleigh said he was then escorted off the school grounds by two officers and warned he would be arrested if he set foot on the grounds before Friday noon.

Mr. Davey later said: "He was suspended for refusing to accept school authority.

Tender Call Soon On Activity Centre

Tenders for a $142,000 Senior Citizens' Activity Centre in Saanich are likely to be called before the end of the month, Mayor Hugh Curtis announced Tuesday.

The mayor said it is hoped that construction will start shortly after that.

The building, which has been approved at the planning stage by provincial Public Works department architects, is expected to cost $115,000. The remainder of the total estimated cost is made up of $5,000 for furnishings, $11,000 for landscaping and walkways, and $11,000 for kitchen equipment.

Tendering for the kitchen equipment will be considered separately by Saanich council.

Ald. Edith Gunning, heading the municipal committee responsible for the centre, predicted completion by mid-October on the site at Tillicum and Hampton.

Provincial government approval of the plans clears the way for financial support from Ottawa to the extent of about one-third of the total cost, Mayor Curtis said.

Yugoslavs Protest Bombing Sentences

BELGRADE (CP-AP) — Politika, a Yugoslav government newspaper, says a trial in Toronto of political emigres connected with bombing attacks on Yugoslav diplomatic missions in Canada was a "judicial farce."

The daily newspaper says in an editorial that Canadian police identified seven Yugoslav emigres as being involved in attacks in January, 1967, on missions in Canada.

The men went on trial in Toronto at the end of March. The sentences did "not even symbolically represent retaliation for the mischiefs committed by attacks on Yugoslav consulates general."

The newspaper says two men were acquitted and five fined $15 each or five days.

"The unexpected mild sentences provoke justified bitterness and protests of our public opinion which sees in them direct connection between provokers of disorder and those whose duty is to take care of respect of laws and securing of undisturbed work of diplomatic representatives," the paper says.

"The trial and the very mild sentences can only even more stimulate and encourage various emigree groupations on new and even bolder undertakings. This does not benefit anybody, but, to the contrary, it harms the otherwise good and friendly relations between our two countries."

PROMOTED TO COMMISSIONED RANKS

Ball Marks End of Tough Course

By ERIC MAURICE

Bilingualism in the Canadian armed forces means a speaking knowledge of English and Russian!

At least that's what it means to Robert Brockley of Windsor, Ont., who received his commission along with 50 other Chiefs and Petty Officers in a ceremony at the Canadian Forces Base Esquimalt last month.

Brockley and his compatriots in the General List (Branch) Officer Qualifying Course No. 10 started last September in the program to rise "from the lower deck" of non-commissioned officers into commissioned ranks.

Tonight the newly commissioned officers celebrate the end of their gruelling 34-week course with a graduation ball at the Naden Officers' Mess which will be attended by Lieutenant-Governor George R. Pearkes.

Commissioned Officer Brockley got his training in the Soviet language in Ottawa between 1961 and 1963. For the next two years he served in Moscow as secretary to the naval attache in the Canadian Embassy.

Since returning to Canada in 1965, Brockley and his wife have practised their Russian to keep up their speaking ability.

He will be recommended for duties to make use of his linguistic talents when he leaves Esquimalt for another posting at the end of the week.

The officer training program stresses training in intellectual and leadership abilities as well as general officer development.

The officer development aspect of the training program has received increasing stress in recent years largely through the efforts of Cmdr. Douglas J. Williams, officer-in-charge of the academic division of the Fleet School.

Cmdr. Williams explained that a complete development program is required to make non-commissioned officers effective and socially secure when they move to the new status of commissioned officers.

The thoroughness of the training in the Officer Qualifying Course reflects the trend in society toward more education, he said.

"Men today demand enlightment."

Cmdr. Williams said that a subordinate function of the program is to train the men in social responsibilities.

The graduates organized the annual Christmas party at Esquimalt for underprivileged children in the Greater Victoria area, they received a Red Feather appeal award for "fair share" contributions, and they were actively involved in the Admiral's Special Ideas Committee for handicapped children.

RANGER HOME NOT CHEAP

House buiding costs come high even in the tall timber country.

The provincial cabinet issued an order Tuesday allowing the Forest Service to build houses for rangers at Port McNeil, on Vancouver Island, and Valemount, in the McBride district.

And it set the cost of each within the limits of $20,000 to $23,000."

Sanitary Inspector Quits Over Posting of Gorge

A Greater Victoria sanitary inspector who disagreed with area doctors on the threat of Gorge pollution, has quit his job

Lloyd Smith, who owns a home on the banks of Portage Inlet has consistently opposed a Metro Health Board policy calling for posting No Swimming signs on Gorge-Portage Inlet beaches.

He said the reasons for his resignation, as of May 30, could be explained by Victoria city manager Dennis Young, but he indicated the sign-posting policy was the cause of his action.

The policy "was more than I could stomach," he said.

Mr. Smith earlier accused senior medical health officer Dr. J. L. Whitbread of discriminating against the Gorge.

Mr. Smith says other Victoria beaches are more seriously polluted. And he argues against the suggestion by doctors that Gorge pollution is linked with infectious hepatitis which has been prevalent in recent years in vicinity of the Gorge.

Victoria Medical Society last week issued a statement supporting Dr. Whitbread, but Mr. Smith says:

"I have read some of the papers on which their statements are based and they do not link epidemic disease with swimming—only the contamination of shellfish and drinking water.

In recent years Mr. Smith has campaigned for restoration of the Gorge as a district playground and its protection as an area beauty spot. He resigned last month as president of Portage Inlet and Gorge Waterway Society so the officers could make new attempts to negotiate with the health board.

Mr. Smith, who has been 24 years in the city health department said he hopes to travel to Australia and New Zealand to return to public health work.

TORONTO (CP)—J. R. H. Sutherland, 55, president and managing editor of the daily News at New Glasgow, N.S., was elected Tuesday by his fellow directors as president of the national news co-operative, The Canadian Press.

SPITFIRES, HURRICANES IN NOSTALGIC SALUTE

LINCOLN, England (CP) — A nostalgic flypast by British aircraft veterans of the Second World War marked the end of the RAF's famed fighter and bomber commands.

The commands, which led Britain's 1940 defence of the skies that saved the nation from Nazi conquest, into a new Strike Command.

Air Commodore David George Evans, 43-year-old native of Windsor, Ont., will be in charge of trials and tactics in Strike Command headquarters at High Wycombe, about 40 miles west of London.

His parents emigrated from Britain to Canada and he returned to Britain with them shortly before the war.

Pullman Shop Closes

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Pullman Co. service and repair shop closed Tuesday, signalling the end of the famous symbol of luxurious railway travel. About 15 men will remain at the shop to supervise phasing out of operations. A spokesman said the shop was closed because of declining business.

65 MOTORCYCLES

"CYCLE" Magazine road-tested the 350 Honda. . . . THIS is what they had to say:
—Probably the most technically advanced motorcycle built to date.
—The 350 engine (racing mills excepted,) is the most sophisticated power plant that has been produced to date.
—A lower end that a Chrysler Hemi would be proud of.
—The 350s are among the smoothest four stroke motorcycles we have tested.
—They've got plenty of punch and are easily capable of cruising speeds in the 80-85 m.p.h. range.
Come in and test ride the 350 Honda now at

Radio Blasts Romania's Top Leaders

MOSCOW (AP) — Moscow radio broadcast Tuesday a bitter attack on two of Romania's top Communist leaders. It perhaps signalled that the Soviet Union is finished with quietly watching Bucharest's defiant foreign policy and the beginnings of liberalization in Romania.

Without comment, the radio quoted a story in the Finnish leftist newspaper Paivan Sanomat that condemned Romania's premier, Ion Gheorghe Maurer, and foreign minister, Corneliu Manescu, for placing wreaths last month on the grave in Helsinki of an anti-Communist, anti-Soviet Finnish army commander.

The military hero was Marshal Kari Gustav Mannerheim, who led anti-Communist forces in Finland's 1918 civil war after Finland declared its independence from Russia. He also commanded Finnish troops agai. invading Soviet forces in the winter war of 1939-40.

Moscow radio, quoting the Finnish report, said:

"But if the Romanians gave a better consideration to the fact that during the Second World War Mannerheim was Hitler's ally, as was Romanian dictator Ion Antonescu who entered into alliance with Germany and opened the frontiers of his country to German troops in November, 1940, they would not have laid, perhaps, a wreath on Mannerheim's grave."

HYDROGRAPHIC SERVICE

Accordion-Like Chart Developer Moves to Coast

By ALAN WHITE

And with the change comes a new generation — the man stepping down after 15 years as chief of the Pacific survey area joined the service the year his successor was born.

Robert Bruce Young, 72, retires from the Canadian Hydrographic Service, a branch of the department of energy, mines and resources, after 39 active years.

The service is responsible for all surveys of Canadian navigational waters for charts — studies of depth, tides, shorelines, currents, etc. It works in close conjunction with oceanographers.

STARTED IN 1929

Mr. Young joined the service in 1929 after receiving his degree in civil engineering from the University of British Columbia.

"I've been in Victoria since then," he said in an interview Tuesday. "I was on survey ships for 24 years and have been 15 years in charge of the marine services branch here in Victoria — it wasn't always called 'regional hydrographer.'"

His first post was as assistant hydrographer on the survey ship Lillooet, replaced in 1933 by the William J. Stewart. He became senior assistant on the Stewart in 1938, all the time working on surveys of the west coast of Vancouver Island and the Queen Charlottes.

During the war years Mr. Young had charge of a houseboat survey vessel and worked on special surveys for the defence department.

TIDE MEASUREMENTS

During his career he helped set up electronic positioning systems and develop new methods and equipment for studying tidal and current movements.

He also brought the west coast chart scheme to completion and headed the pre- and post-explosion and pre- and post-demolition surveys when Ripple Rock was blasted from the Strait of Georgia in 1958.

Under his direction the service has expanded to five oceanographic, hydrographic and tidal survey ships in the western region.

And he supervised the preparation of plans for the new Pacific Institute of Oceanography.

Origianlly with the topographic (land) survey branch of the department, Mr. Boulton joined hydrographic 17 years ago.

He put in much of his active surveying time in eight seasons in the Arctic — and holds the dubious honor of being the first hydrographer to be shipwrecked in James Bay.

On that occasion — during the 196C season — he was on a chartered vessel exploring uncharted areas of the bay. The ship struck an unmarked shoal and the crew took to the launches.

That night they took refuge on an island with a group of polar bears ("they were chicken polar bears," Mr. Boulton stresses.)

IN CARIBBEAN

Undaunted, he went on two years later to conduct Canada's only Caribbean survey, an international venture.

His first trip to Victoria was in 1954 — he cruised into Esquimalt Harbor aboard the icebreaker Labrador after a trip through the Northwest Passage.

"I've been out here four or five times since, but never worked on the coast," Mr. Boulton said.

"But I've always thought if I moved anywhere I'd want to came to Victoria."

He is looking for a house now and plans to bring his wife and three children out from Ottawa as soon as the school year ends.

As chief of the central region, Mr. Boulton has worked primarily with inland surveys for the past few years.

The empahsis there is on small-boat work on waters of the St. Lawrence Seaway, the Great Lakes, and major central lakes frequented by pleasure craft.

There is at least one innovation from Ontario he hopes to bring with him — an accordion-folded chart, like a highway roadmap, for convenient use by small boat owners.

He doesn't expect difficulty in making the change from lakes to the Pacific — and there are still a lot of lakes in B.C. to survey.

HUMPHREY TRYING FOR NO. 1

He Has Old Fashioned Zest for Combat

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the era of the "cool" political candidate, Hubert Horatio Humphrey brings to election campaigns an old-fashioned zest for political combat.

Humphrey, No. 2 for four years as vice-president under Lyndon Johnson, will be trying for No. 1 from now on and people in dozens of halls, dining rooms and gymnasiums throughout the U. S. will see Humphrey in his element.

His oratory, accompanied by hands that pump and batter the air, features a macnine-gun delivery that Barry Goldwater, the Republican presidential candidate in the 1964 election, says he once clocked at "275 words a minute with gusts up to 340."

Says one Washington official who has watched Humphrey operate:

"Hubert is a scrapper. Most people, when they have to mix it up, do it as a job that has to be done. But Hubert enjoys getting into the pit and mixing it up. His juices flow."

TURNED AWAY

Senator Kennedy, who announced his intention to seek the Democratic presidential nomination last month, has campaigned against Humphrey before.

Kennedy was manager for his brother's campaign in the Wisconsin and West Virginia primary elections when John F. Kennedy knocked Humphrey out of the 1960 race for the party nomination.

West Virginia was a bruising campaign. Even Humphrey's lack of military service in the Second World War came up.

And when Bobby Kennedy arrived at the Humphrey's West Virginia headquarters after the primary to offer his regards to Humphrey, Mrs. Humphrey is said to have turned away.

MEMORY IS SHARP

His aides say Humphrey is not a vengeful politician. But he has a memory, and ambitions, and an awareness of how times have changed.

Humphrey seems to aim his pitch at the Lawrence Welk generation rather than the young swingers mustered under the banners of Kennedy and Senator Eugene J. McCarthy.

Humphrey has been endorsed by some of the biggest names of big labor, and apparently is the most favored of the three regular Democrats in the southern states.

RICH CONTACTS

He also has developed rich contacts by being Johnson's liaison man with U.S. mayors and has built up a stack of political blue chips by being the most active administration speaker in the party boondocks.

Despite his work for civil rights and welfare legislation, some of Humphrey's old liberal colleagues have attacked him for his support of the administration's Vietnam policy.

He has been pictured as a cheerleader for the war. The board of the Americans for Democratic Action, a liberal group which Humphrey helped organize, endorsed McCarthy's candidacy. The party in his home state of Minnesota divided so sharply that there was a possibility McCarthy forces could control the Minnesota delegation to the Democratic convention in Chicago. Humphrey, said a Minnesota associate, had lost touch with his home base.

VIETNAM BOMBING ESCALATED

WASHINGTON (WP) — The United States is flying more air attack missions against North Vietnam than it did before President Johnson on March 31 limited the area subject to bombing.

Defense department figures show 2,654 missions flown over North Vietnam in March by all U.S. military services. As of April 29, Pentagon statistics list 3,324 missions to North Vietnam during the month of April — an increase of 670 missions.

Thus there has been a major intensification of air attacks upon the more limited sector of North Vietnam open to bombing under the orders given by the president. Reports from South Vietnam have attributed the sharp increase in air strikes in the panhandle area of North Vietnam to improved weather conditions.

90 PER CENT EXEMPTED

Under the president's March 31 order, announced as a major "unilateral act of de-escalation" to try to induce peace talks, bombing was halted above the 20th parallel, removing from the target area what was described as 90 per cent of North Vietnam's population and 78 per cent of its territory.

The bombing cutoff line later was lowered, unofficially, to the 19th parallel. The military result, however, is that an unprecedented amount of bombing is now hitting between the 17th and 19th parallels in a panhandle zone where troop and supply lines funnel into South Vietnam.

In addition, although it is not officially acknowledged, U.S. planes are pounding the "Ho Chi Minh trails" in bordering Laos.

It is presumably for these reasons that there is relatively little current military pressure inside the administration to end the president's bombing limitation order, despite the month-long deadlock on choosing a site for preliminary diplomatic "contacts" between Washington and Hanoi.

DINNER PARTY

Juliana's Birthday Marked Here

The banquet table was decorated in the traditional Dutch manner with centrepieces of red and yellow tulips and the Canadian flag and Netherlands Lion Crest, emblems of the association.

IWA Rejects Clyne Call For Restraint on Wages

VANCOUVER (CP) — The International Woodworkers of America today rejected a call by the chairman of Macmillan Bloedel Ltd. for a halt to substantial wage increases in the British Columbia forest industry.

He said J. V. Clyne appears more worried about the pulp sector than other segments of the multi-million-dollar industry.

Both IWA and industry negotiators are to resume talks Thursday on a new contract in the big coast forest industry, which employs about 27,000 IWA members.

Syd Thompson, president of the Vancouver IWA local, accused Macmillan Bloedel with threatening to tie up the coast industry in a lengthy strike.

"Macmillan Bloedel and its chairman, J. V. Clyne, are a menace to the people of British Columbia," said Mr. Thompson in a statement. The "oversized, arrogant outfit" was threatening a strike if IWA members insisted on obtaining their fair share of the wealth that they produce.

Mr. Clyne said Tuesday that the IWA is asking for a 50-cent hourly increase on a $3.76 "average straight-time rate" plus fringe benefits when the present contract expires June 14. This, if also applied to pulp and paper workers, would cost Macmillan Bloedel more than $23,000,000 a year, he asserted.

The only conclusion, added Mr. Clyne, is that the company can not continue to absorb "these enormous increases" and that it is time to call a halt.

In reply, Mr. Thompson said Mr. Clyne's figures showed that IWA demands were far too modest. The company had gross earnings before tax last year of $105,000,000, and in the last three years had borrowed $200,000,000.

"We suspect that the interest being paid on these loans would be more than adequate to meet IWA requirements.

"It is high time that this nonsense was brought to an end and that a far greater share of the wealth being produced be handed over to those doing the actual work," he said.

"There is something drastically wrong when one man at the head of one company can threaten to tie up the entire coastal forest industry if employees and their union do not agree with his opinions. We are hopeful that the rest of the employers will take a much more realistic and saner approach and help avoid the disaster that Mr. Clyne is now threatening."

. . . HOSPITAL SCHEDULE

carried out relatively close together, would include the immediate provision of 16 acute care beds at a cost $640,000 plus 356 extended care beds costing $4,272,000 and 200 acute care beds, $8 million, and the gradual replacement of obsolete beds for a total cost of the first two phases of $43,632,000.

Phase three of the hospital program would be geared to taking care of population growth over the next 10 years and phase four the following 10 years.

All hospital authorities warn that with ever-changing construction costs it is impossible to accurately forecast per bed costs. It may range between $35,000 and $50,000 per bed for acute care and $8,000 to $14,000 per bed for extended care.

$40,000 PER BED

The figures used in the $58 million breakdown are based on an across the board $40,000 per bed cost for acute care and $12,000 a bed for extended care.

It is not expected that Dr. Agnew will make any specific recommendations on who should own and operate the new hospitals.

But it is known that Seventh Day Advent religious organization has already agreed to put up a good portion of the money if the new acute care hospital to replace out-dated Rest Haven, comes under their jurisdiction.

Dr. Agnew is expected to tell the board that he does not look with favor on the building of small poorly equipped satellite hospitals, although he may recommend such a move to relieve immediate pressures.

Dr. Agnew will make specific recommendations on:

- The number and type of active care treatment beds needed immediately and in the future.
- The number of long term beds needed, including psychiatric, rehabilitation, extended care and nursing home beds required.
- The adequacy or otherwise of existing hospitals with a possible recommendation that St. Joseph's conider abandoning its old wing as an acute care treatment centre.
- Specific programs for different hospitals varying from simple additions to expansion of functions and an integration of services.
- The relationship between Jubilee Hospital and the neighboring Veterans' Hospital and the soon to be completed Eric Martin Institute.
- The construction of a new hospital to the north of the city.
- The construction of an extended care unit.

Dr. Agnew will also report in detail on a planned health education program as it relates to doctors, nurses, technicians and other key personnel.

One section of his report deals entirely with welfare services, the various agencies and organizations providing services for handicapped children and adults.

Dr. Agnew will tell the board that the major objective of his report is to work out a pattern of development which will result in a comprehensive program that will cover the various levels or categories of care and lay the foundations for future growth in an orderly and effective manner.

He will also stress that he realizes that his recommendations cannot be carried out overnight and that some of them may not appeal to the parties involved.

Coin Melters Caught

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — U.S. Secret Service agents have arrested three Texans and seized $79,000 worth of pre-1965 dimes and quarters in the first major prosecution under a new law banning the melting of silver coins. The three suspects were taken into custody Monday at a little-used private airfield 15 miles west of Tucson, where they allegedly were melting coins in a smelter.

Derogatory Words About Girl Leads To Assault Charge

Const. Richard Lee said William Tennant, 2725 Strathmore, was kept one and a half days in hospital after he was assaulted by Gregory Henderson, 18, of 1146 Goldstream. The offence occurred Sunday.

Magistrate Ostler remanded the accused to May 18 for presentence report.

Stiff Penalties Face Oyster Moonlighters

A cabinet order Tuesday added a section to the Fisheries Act regulations which could result in fines of up to $1,000 for picking up too much of the succulent seafood off crown-owned foreshores.

The regulation says anyone picking or having more than 100 pounds of unshucked oysters or more then one gallon of shucked oysters "shall be deemed to have taken the oysters for commercial purposes."

And that means, a fisheries branch official explained, that if the person doesn't also have a $10 commerical oyster-picker's permit "that he will be liable, on summary conviction, to a fine of not less than $25 and not more than $1,000."

LOADED DOWN

He said most of these were around Gabriola Island and spotted heading for Steveston, a mainland fish-packing centre.

"Some of them had 100 sacks of oysters aboard and although they said they were for their personal use or for friends we are suspicious that they weren't being given away."

Aquarium Buys Whales

VANCOUVER (CP)— Murray Newman, director of the Vancouver aquarium, said Tuesday he has purchased two of the seven killer whales caught last Saturday by fishermen at Pender Harbor.

He said the aquarium moved a cow and a calf from the herd penned by nets into an enclosure with the male whale Cecil, captured in the area in February.

No New Members For Tennis Course

It may be draughty weather for tennis, but the Victoria Parks Board-sponsored adult tennis course began Tuesday night and will go on—rain or shine.

The classes, scheduled for 16 lessons over eight weeks, take place on Tuesdays and Fridays under the instruction of Gordon Hartley.

They are over subscribed and no new members will be admitted.

A parks board spokesman said "we have had numerous requests from people too late to join."

Although there has been "sufficient response" to warrant another class the board has no plans for it at present.

Turtlenecks Out

TORONTO (CP)—Secretaries in mini-skirts are acceptable in Toronto offices but men with beards or turtleneck sweaters are not. A survey of about 100 firms by the Toronto chapter of the Administrative Management Society showed 85 per cent allow female employees to wear short skirts and colored or fish-net stockings. Fifty-three per cent of the firms do not allow men to wear beards. Most firms permit moustaches, sport jackets and sideburns, but find long hair and turtleneck sweaters unacceptable.

Saigon Critic Jailed Despite Heart Illness

SAIGON (AP) — The runner-up in South Vietnam's presidential election, Truong Dinh Dzu, was arrested and removed from a Saigon hospital today for advocating a coalition government with the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front.

Dzu's family said he was arrested despite signed statements from three doctors—two of them from the national police—that he was suffering from heart trouble and should not be moved for several weeks.

He was released April 14 after seven weeks of "protective custody" and shortly after is reported to have told several reporters that the only possible settlement to the Vietnam war was a coalition government that included the National Liberation Front.

Mrs. Dzu said her husband had never advocated a coalition government with the Viet Cong, only with nationalist elements of the National Liberation Front.

She said police have refused so far to let her see her husband at police headquarters.

Dzu is the first person to be arrested for advocating a coalition government. However, the government is also holding the politically militant Buddhist monk Thich Tri Quang and five other monks under political detention.

HOME GARDEN

Nip off Old Flowers

By HILDA BEASTALL

The bright gold of daffodils has given way to rainbow hues of tulips.

For a couple of weeks these two spring flowering bulbs overlap, but finally the last of the daffs become withered and brown. These are the ones reached by only early morning sun, and they always remain in good condition for two to three weeks longer than those in full sun.

Hilda

While we enjoy the gaiety of tulip colors, we must remember to make the daffodil rounds to see that every old flower has been removed.

The object is to prevent ripening of seed which would only impoverish the bulbs for next spring's display.

If we feel the soil is not too good, and the bulbs have not yet been fed this year, a scattering of bulb (or potato) fertilizer around the plants will be beneficial. It must be washed down to the bulb roots with water.

Daffodil bulbs (these include the whole narcissus genus) may be left in the ground without lifting for two years or even three, but unless naturalized in grass or woodland, they will then demand separation and soil improvement.

The leaves becoming limp and yellowish is the sign that root action has ceased. This usually occurs by late May or early June. The bulbs are dug carefully to avoid damage by the shovel or fork, and allowed to dry off in an airy place out of direct sun.

When the old leaves separate readily from the bulbs, the latter are cleaned from dry soil and old roots and sorted into sizes.

After summer storage in a cool dark place, the largest are planted back in late September for flower display, while smaller ones are grown on in another part of the garden to reach top size by the following year.

YOUR HEALTH

Treating Spastic Bowel

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

A number of women write, frantically, for information about a spastic bowel. Their doctor tells them this is their trouble. They wonder what it is; is it dangerous? Will it cause cancer? Will it kill? Can it be cured? Does it require a very special diet? What on earth are they going to do?

Alvarez

I think any self-respecting nervous woman who is a bit tense will occasionally show some signs of spasm or narrowing of the left side of her colon (large bowel). This is so common that I don't pay any attention to it. At the Mayo Clinic the X-ray men never even make note of it. I imagine I must have a spastic (crampy or contracted) colon at times when overwork piles up on me. I would never think of dieting for it, but I do think of trying to do my work without undue tension, worry, strain, annoyance or anger.

Tense, shy women commonly get a particularly spastic bowel full of gas when they have to go out in the evening with a beau; often then at dinner they can't eat much, and they are miserable because the bowel is contracting painfully on the gas, and this causes distress and a great desire to move the bowels. I can usually avoid or cure this by giving the woman half a grain of codein just before she goes out. Often a highly nervous person will begin to fill up with gas in the lower bowel half an hour before her beau is to call for her. Actually, a tendency to get gas under nervous tension can still be bothering a certain type of person until he or she is 80.

Now a woman writes to say that she is scared to death because her doctor said she has "kinks in her colon." That was not kind of the man, because everyone has kinks in his or her colon. I have kinks in mine, and they never cause any trouble. A dozen women write to say that their doctors say they have "colitis." They looked this up in the library and read that chronic ulcerative colitis is a very serious disease that produced a chronic bloody diarrhea, and sometimes compels the person to have a big operation. Naturally they are terribly frightened.

From what these women tell me I am pretty sure all they have is "mucous colitis"—which is generally due to pure nervousness and rarely leads to anything serious. The colon is perfectly normal. It is sad that years ago, we doctors got into the bad habit of using the same word, "colitis," for a normal colon disturbed only by nervousness, and a badly ulcerated colon.

What is sad also is that in hundreds of cases when with aa little codeine I have given a very nervous girl or woman or man perfect relief, and an ability to go out to dinner comfortably with people—when she has asked her local doctor for another prescription, she has been curtly refused, with the statement that codeine is like morphine—terribly habituating, and he will never prescribe it. Actually, in my 63 years of practice, I have never seen a single person habituated to codeine.

Liquor Plebiscite For Bella Coola

A liquor-by-the-glass plebiscite was set for May 25 in Bella Coola by the provincial cabinet Tuesday. It appointed Mrs. Olga Levelton, of the mainland coast community, as returning officer.

ASK ANDY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a World Book Atlas.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Debbie Cayse, age 14, of Sarasota, Florida, for her question:

Dark powdery snuff acts on the sensitive nerves inside the nose to trigger a monstrous sneeze. A dandy of the past often carried a dainty little snuffbox in the pocket of his embroidered weskit. Now and then he poked a sniff of snuff up his nose, unfolded his elegant hanky and waited for the resounding hatch-hatch-hatchoo. Maybe it did and maybe it did not clear the sinus passages in his head. But it certainly proved that powdery snuff was a sneeze-maker. It is not, of course, the only sneezy powder in the world. Dust and pollen and a long list of other small foreign bodies floating in the air also tend to make people sneeze.

We all know that hay fever and its related allergies arrive with the pollen season of the plant world. Most of these airborne particles are too small for our eyes to see. But certain plants pour forth spores or pollen in thick clouds and merely the sight of them makes us want to sneeze. One of these is the puffball. This pasty pale plant is the giant of the fungus family. It grows on the ground like a round stone and may reach the size of a two-foot boulder. Most of the time it squats there unnoticed. But at certain seasons it acts like a spilled snuffbox.

Nature, of course, decrees that the puffball must hand on life to a new generation. When this time comes, it begins to create countless numbers of tiny dark spores within itself. As they ripen, the minuscule spores become dirty brown or olive green, murky yellow or purple. They are no bigger than grains of fine, dusty powder and we need to see a whole host of them to detect their color.

Spores Released

At last the puffball spores are ready to take their chances in the world. The parent launches them, puff after puff. The dusty spores are light enough to float and they fill the surrounding air with dark, powdery clouds. The sight is enough to make you want to sneeze. This is how the puffball got its nickname in bygone days. It seemed natural to call this teasy-sneezy creation of the plant world the devil's snuffbox. Another factor made the nickname seem even more sensible. A puffball tends to get stepped on or kicked by accident. If this happens when the spores are just ready for their freedom, a careless kick may cause them to explode in a dusty cloud. The smoky dust may tickle your nose and it has about 7,000 billion powdery spores all willing to try to provoke a sniffy-snuffy hatchoo.

The dusty spores are soon separated by the breezes and wafted afar. One lucky speck in a trillion will land at last in a shady nook where the moist soil is rich with decaying vegetation. It will grow an underground network of matted fibres called mycellum. This is the real puffball plant. The pasty puffball that sprouts above the ground is the plant's fruiting body. It grows when time comes to form and launch new spores. When this is done, the fruiting body withers and the plant continues its underground existence until the next snuffbox season rolls around.

What is foot-and-mouth disease

This dreaded disease is caused by one of the smallest virus germs known to science. It attacks the cleft-footed animals and can be transmitted from the stricken animals to human beings. In severe epidemics, foot-and-mouth disease may be fatal to 70 per cent of the infected animals. And those cleft-footed creatures include our cows and cattle, our sheep and pigs. Farmers and ranchers dread an outbreak of the fearful foot-and-mouth or hoof-and-mouth disease and when it occurs the strictest measures are taken to stop it from spreading. Herds of infected animals are killed and burned or buried in quicklime. Their living quarters are burned or treated with strong disinfectants. The men who handle the sad job wear germ-proofed rubber clothing.

A severe outbreak recently occurred in England and the U.S. has quarantined, and treated nine infected farm areas in the past century. An infected animal becomes sick after two days and the feverish disease progresses fast. It is highly infectious and symptoms soon appear in the whole herd. The joints of the suffering animals become stiff and blistering sores appear in their mouths and around their hoofs. At present, the only known treatment is to destroy all the suspected animals and place the epidemic area under strict quarantine.

JOHNSON ANNOUNCES CUT IN SPENDING

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Johnson administration today unveiled a new proposal for a combined spending cut and tax increase in an effort to break a long stalemate over economic legislation. The plan calls for a 10 per cent income tax surcharge coupled with a $4 billion cut in spending, a $10 billion reduction in new obligational authority and an $8 billion cut in carry over obligational authority.

$58M Hospital Schedule Drafted for Metro Region

Early Start On Two Major Units

By JIM HUME
Times City Hall Reporter

A $58 million hospital bill is facing taxpayers in Greater Victoria between now and 1987.

Dr. Harvey Agnew of Agnew, Peckham Associates, Toronto, was scheduled to tell the Regional Hospital District Board the costly news this afternoon.

His $40,000 report, held under tight wraps by Mayor Hugh Curtis, board chairman, until after the Times deadline, will be published in detail Thursday.

In the meantime the Times had learned that an early start on an extended care hospital, probably for the Colwood area in the vicinity of St. Mary's Priory, is one of the major recommendations contained in the report.

IN THREE PHASES

Total cost of a three phase hospital construction program to serve population needs in 1987 has been estimated at $58,472,000 on present-day construction costs.

While details of his report remain secret, Dr. Agnew is already on record as having stated that few cities in Canada have as low a chronic care bed availability as Greater Victoria.

He was expected to tell the regional group that extended care needs at present call for 566 beds of which only 286 beds are available. By 1976 extended care needs will total 706 beds, by 1987 some 854 beds will be required.

The building of an extended care hospital in the Colwood area would immediately relieve the acute care bed shortage, although the doctor was expected to stress that a new 150 to 200 bed acute hospital is also required.

As recently as January Dr. Agnew informed civic authorities that he favored the Elk Lake-Royal Oak area as the site for the new acute care hospital.

NEEDS 10 ACRES

He will tell the regional board that a minimum acreage for the site of the new hospital should be 10 acres with a target of 20 acres if possible to leave room for future expansion.

The report will also recommend that all hospitals in the area become regional in many basic functions.

He will suggest that the hospital's planning board commence studies with a view to bringing specific basic services under one roof.

The services he will give priority are a central clinical laboratory serving all hospital, radiology, laundry services, purchasing and medical records.

It is expected that Dr. Agnew will follow an already detailed pattern of construction. If he does he will recommend construction in three or more phases over the next 20 years.

Phases one and two, to be

AMONG the military hardware the Soviet Union displayed in today's parade through Red Square in Moscow was this anti-aircraft rocket, which is of the type supplied to North Vietnam for defence against United States bombers. Several other types of missiles were shown in annual May Day parade.

'NO TALKS WITH CONG'

Viet War Looms Big In May Day Rallies

By The Associated Press

The Vietnam war loomed large in May Day demonstrations around the world today. Communist speakers attacked the United States. South Vietnamese leaders attacked the Communists.

He called the struggle against the United States and its supporters in Vietnam a "sacred war" and denounced the American's as "invaders"

South Vietnam's President Nguyen Van Thieu told a labor rally in Da Nang that South Vietnam will never negotiate with the Viet Cong and will not cede "even one centimetre" of land to North Vietnam.

Around the world parades and rallies were held to celebrate labor's traditional day.

In Tokyo, 200,000 persons assembled to hear socialist and Communist speakers urge the overthrow of Premier Eisaku Sato's government. The Spanish government massed police and civil guards in Madrid and other industrial cities.

REVIEWS PARADE

Grechko also reviewed the annual Soviet military parade through Red Square and said in a short speech that U.S. "aggression" in Vietnam represents the most serious threat to peace today.

The military parade through the square lasted 45 minutes. No new miltary hardware was shown.

Thieu spoke in Da Nang before some 5,000 workers, civil servants and schoolchildren. He told them organized labor in South Vietnam must strive to present a unified front as this SAIGON (AP) — Fighting raged today for the third straight day in the northeast corner of South Vietnam, where U.S. and South Vietnamese troops reported killing 616 North Vietnamese in the last two days.

U.S. ACCEPTS

Indonesia Offers Ship For Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House quickly accepted today an Indonesian suggestion that preliminary peace talks with representatives of North Vietnam take place on an Indonesian naval vessel in the Gulf of Tonkin.

There was no indication whether the suggestion was also acceptable to North Vietnam.

Shortly after Indonesia's suggestion was announced in Jakarta, White House press secretary George Christian told reporters:

"A neutral ship on a neutral sea would be a good meeting place.'

He said Indonesia's proposal "is acceptable to the United States."

Christian made it clear the U.S. government—and presumably Hanoi—had been informed of the Indonesian plan in advance of the public announcement in Jakarta.

HAD PREVIOUS CONTACTS

"You can assume that there have also been other contacts on this," he said.

Christian said he was not certain whether a formal reply by the American government had been dispatched to Jakarta, but he left no doubt that an affirmative response was in the offing.

In announcing acceptability of Indonesia's idea, Christian said:

"As you know, both the United States and North Vietnam have ambassadors in Indonesia."

One of the stumbling blocks in finding a site for preliminary talks with North Vietnam has been a search for agreement on a location where both countries and their allies have diplomatic representation.

The announcement came as backstage efforts to set a meeting-place moved into their fifth week and the White House showed signs of growing impatience.

WIRE BRIEFS

$2 Million In Aid

OTTAWA (UPI) — Canada will provide $2 million to the African nation of Ghana to help reduce the country's foreign exchange deficit, external Affairs Minister Sharp disclosed today.

Supports Treaty

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Twenty countries, including Canada, submited a resolution today to have the United Nations General Assembly endorse a treaty proposed by the Soviet Union and the United States to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons.

Rats Scare Dockers

SYDNEY (UPI) — Sydney dock workers today refused to continue unloading an Australian army supply ship recently returned from Vietnam, saying rats on board may be carrying bubonic plague.

Tito Seeks Parley

LONDON (AP) — President Tito of Yugoslavia has sent messages to about 80 neutral and non-aligned countries proposing a conference to promote peace and economic progress.

Diplomats said the Yugoslav leader envisages the meeting for early 1969—after the annual session of the UN General Assembly beginning this September.

Surprise Appearance

When the red curtain went up and revealed Ho on the stage the spectators, obviously surprised to see him, burst into wild cheering and applause.

In the past, because of the United States raid danger, the celebrations were held at night. But today they took place in daylight, though at an early hour.

QUEBEC COURTSHIP ANNOYS OTTAWA

(Times News Services)

PARIS — Canadian ambassador Jules Leger today asked Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville for an urgent meeting, presumably to protest against France's growing treatment of Quebec as an independent country.

Diplomatic sources said Couve de Murville probably will receive Leger Thursday shortly before leaving with Premier Georges Pompidou for an official visit to Iran and Afghanistan.

Informants predicted France would not be swayed by Ottawa protests from its courtship of Canada's French-speaking province.

President Charles de Gaulle was described by political circles as being determined to speed up, rather than slow down, France's co-operation with Quebec.

An announcement, setting the date for a "summit" meeting between de Gaulle and Quebec Premier Daniel Johnson, is expected to be issued shortly. The meeting has been postponed twice so far this year.

It would inaugurate regular top-level meetings between France and her former colony, lost to England in 1763, but with which the Gaullist regime has set up relationships closer than with any other territory or country.

'COUNTRY'

An official communique Tuesday, after a brief session of the French-Quebec financial co-operation committees referred to the Canadian province as a "country."

Official French feelings about Canadian matters were re-emphasized when, while Leger sought an appointment with the foreign minister, Education Minister Alain Peyrefitte went to Orly Airfield to see off Jean-Guy Cardinal, the Quebec education minister. Usually, only members of independent governments are seen off by members of the French cabinet.

Trudeau told a press conference in Ottawa Tuesday that Mr. Leger had been sent back to France with instructions related to French acceptance of Quebec at a Paris education conference without Ottawa's approval.

Mr. Trudeau declined to say

SUMMIT OF NATIONS URGED ON VIETNAM

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, declaring United States policy in Vietnam has failed militarily and politically, today called for a reversal of the "Americanization" of the war. He said Saigon must assume greater responsibility for its destiny.

Rockefeller, in his first speech since announcing his candidacy Tuesday for the Republican presidential nomination, urged the United States to call a summit conference of governments "in the giant crescent from Japan throughout India to Iran" in search of methods to insure economic progress and political stability in the area.

WINS PRIMARY

Startling Upset By Rockefeller

BOSTON (UPI) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, who polled a flood of write-in votes only hours after announcing his candidacy, today was declared the winner of the Massachusetts presidential preference primary in a startling upset.

The New York governor staged a stunning victory Tuesday over Gov. John A. Volpe of Massachusetts, a favorite son candidate whose name was the only one on the GOP ballot. Former vice president Richard M. Nixon was third.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota easily won the Democratic race as expected over Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York. McCarthy's was the only name on the Democratic ballot.

Returns from 99 per cent of the state's 1,734 precincts gave Rockefeller 1,240 votes more than Volpe and 4,882 more than Nixon.

SERIOUS BLOW

The results dealt a staggering blow to Volpe who has been considered a possible vice-presidential contender.

TWO DIE IN FIRE UP ISLAND

Dead are Mr. and Mrs. James Herbert Webb of 725 Nicol St., Nanaimo.

A boarder in the house who was identified by RCMP as Allen Thompson escaped from his back room when roused by a passing truck driver who spotted the flames.

The fire was reported at 3:01 a.m., but it is believed that Mr. Webb, 66, and his wife, 57, had suffocated several hours earlier.

'TIME TO WORK TOGETHER'

Switch to Tories Likely By Cariboo Socred MP

OTTAWA (CP) — Bert Leboe, Social Credit MP for Cariboo in the last Parliament, said today he is considering running as a Conservative.

In fact, this may be the course followed by all four Social Credit MPs from the last Parliament, he said in an interview.

In his case, he said, the final decision will be up to his constituency organization.

Meanwhile, in a statement issued here, Conservative Leader Stanfield said:

"I am pleased to learn that some Social Credit members of the last Parliament will consider seeking nomination as Progressive Conservative candidates in the federal election of June 25.

"Of course, the actual choice of a candidate is a matter of local concern, to be decided by persons residing within any constituency involved.

"It seems to me, and to my colleagues, that this is a time for Canadians who agree on basic matters of principle and policy to work together. We would welcome and encourage the active association and full contribution of every Canadian who shares our general approach to national policy."

Mr. Leboe said he is completely in the hands of his organization, which meets Saturday in

'Various Alternatives'

Alexander Patterson, Social Credit member for Fraser Valley in the last Parliament, denied a similar report that he would change parties for the next election.

"I have given the matter careful consideration and though various alternatives may be open as far as co-operation is concerned, I have not made any decision whatever as far as changing my course as Social Credit."

Replying to a question in a telephone interview from his home in Abbotsford, he added: "Yes, it is my intention to stay Social Credit in the next election."

Our front hall closet is so dark and deep that I have never fully explored it. But my wife, a couple of evenings ago, took a flashlight and stepped boldly into it.

Up to a point, I was able to trace her progress. A clatter meant that our bag of mismatched golf clubs had toppled. The bang and melancholy twang meant she had dislodged Ron's violin, last tormented when he was struggling with Grade VI.

I lost her at that point, but presently she emerged with a decent-looking coat that she hadn't worn for a long time. She was spreading it on a kitchen counter when Sue came home. They both studied the coat reflectively. Then Sue touched one of its shoulders and lifted a limp sleeve, and for some baffling reason, they exchanged smiles.

"You know," I said, "That coat always looked good on you. Kind of boxy, with nice wide shoulders."

They transferred their attention to me. My daughter shook her head. My wife said, her tone indulgent, "I'm afraid boxy coats with nice wide padded shoulders aren't exactly in style right now."

Put down — though kindly — I returned to buttering myself a snack while the two discussed possible uses for what the tyranny of style had reduced to a mere piece of cloth.

Luckily for us men, the male mystique places us under no such compulsion. We do a certain amount of preening and fussing when young, but by the time we have paid our first property taxes as full-fledged householders, we can take style or leave it alone until it changes in our favor.

Most of us follow the latter course. We wear what we have, replace only when our wives insist, and leave the black leather hats to swinging bachelors.

What if a jacket does happen to have wide, padded shoulders? The next fellow we meet in our age group will like as not be wearing its twin. Further, he may continue to do so until fashions for the mature man have completed their tight little circle, and he's in style again.

Already, the wide, patterned tie is making a tentative comeback down south. Another year or two and who knows but what I'll be breaking out a well-preserved number wide as your hand, with palm trees painted all over it.

And not for us those tides of change that sweep women into such monstrosities as needle-nosed shoes, a style which the arbiters of female fashion have mercifully rendered obsolete.

These brogues that case my feet so comfortably differ by no more than an eyelet from the pair I wore out five years ago.

When men do make concessions to the style of the moment, their reasons tend to be practical. For instance, the turtleneck, worn fishing on a mean day, helps keep the weather outside where it belongs.

Mostly, though, we are content to hang on to what we have. With this in mind, I have just completed my own flashlight inventory of that same hall closet.

It was a considerable scramble, what with the golf clubs, the violin, and other obstacles, but it turned up a few items that may come in handy one day.

Here's a suit welded of boiler-plate sharkskin for Eastern winters by a Scottish father and son team in Toronto. By now, I expect the son has inherited the business.

But except for a slight shine, that suit with its then-mandatory vest is darn near as sound as the day its broad, bat-wing lapels were cut.

"There ye are, lad," said the elder partner, "and ye have my worrrd it'll still be guid the day they lay ye away in it!"

But long before that day, the chances are that men's styles will have completed their timid shuffle from A to B and back again. With any kind of luck, I'll get the rest of the wear out of that suit while still comfortably on this side of the hereafter!

ONLY NORTH AMERICAN RC INVITED

Catholic Bishop Going to Anglicans' Lambeth Conference

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Times Religious Editor

Union of the Anglican and Roman Catholic churches is possible, Bishop Remi De Roo of Victoria said today.

"But it is unlikely to happen for some time. At the moment the best we can hope for is an understanding — and we are already agreed that all Christians throughout the world should get together."

Bishop De Roo is the only Roman Catholic bishop in North America to be invited to the Anglican church's Lambeth Conference in London, England, from July 25 to Aug. 25.

"It is a very great honor and I'm really looking forward to it," the 44-year-old bisnop said. "It is the result of an entirely new relationship between the Anglican and Roman Catholic churches.

Bishop De Roo will be one of only three Roman Catholic bishops in the world attending the Lambeth Conference, which is held once every 10 years.

The announcement was made jointly by Anglican Archbishop Harold Sexton of British Columbia and Bishop De Roo at the bishop's residence adjoining St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Cathedral.

Archbishop Harold Sexton will represent British Columbia at the conference and will be the senior member of all the archbishops and bishops attending.

Now in his 80th year, he has been bishop of the diocese for 33 years — a record in B.C. — and archbishop of the province for 16 years.

"It is the first time in history that Roman Catholic bishops have been invited to attend the Lambeth Conference," the archbishop said.

"It is reciprocal in that Anglicans were invited to attend the Vatican Councils in Rome. We are very happy that Bishop De Roo is able to attend because we all regard him as a practical, go-ahead person.

Archbishop Sexton said the invitations to Bishop De Roo and two other Roman Catholic bishops were extended after meetings between the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Michael Ramsay, and Pope Paul in Rome.

Also invited was Bishop Christopher Butler of the Roman church, whose brother, Canon Hilary Butler, is canon lecturer to the Anglican diocese of British Columbia.

The three Roman Catholic bishops will be among 500 Anglican delegates attending the Lambeth Conference. There will also be 30 non-Anglican bishops, including Lutheran and Greek Orthodox.

Bishop Ralph Dean of the Cariboo, now serving in London as executive officer of the Anglican communion, will be episcopal secretary of the conference.

"I hope and pray we shall be able to give some leadership in a world that is seriously in need of it," Archbishop Sexton said. "We shall be mainly concerned with renewal of the church in faith, in ministry and in unity.

"It is most important we should explain the Christian Faith to a non-believing world. In other words, we must make the church matter more."

Bishop De Roo said the conference comes at a time when people are questioning the differences separating Christian churches and the basic truths of Christianity.

The "God is Dead" controversy will be fully reviewed and delegates will also discuss renewal of the Christian church in many fields.

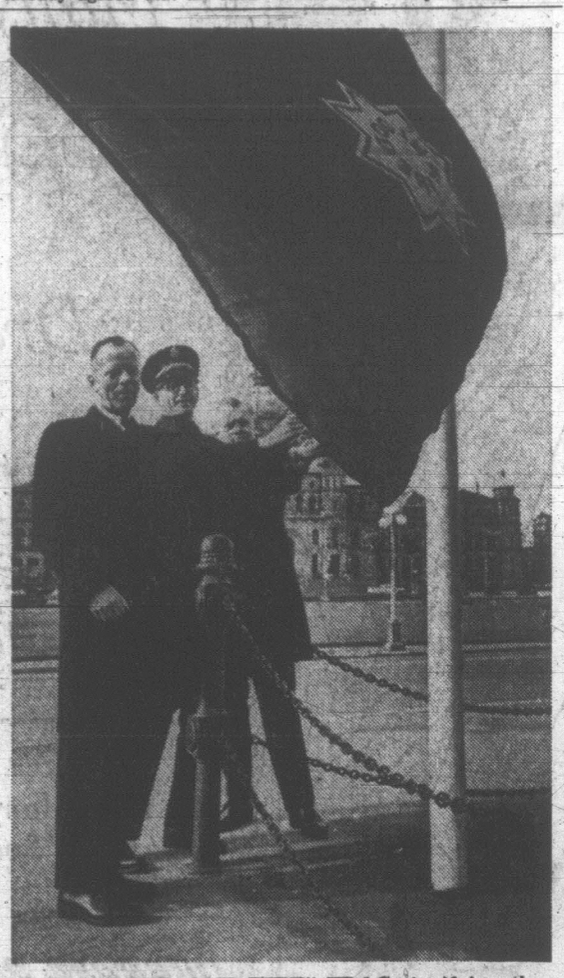
Because of an expected attendance of 1,000 bishops and clergy, the conference will be held—not as in former years at Lambeth Palace—but in Church House, Westminster, adjoining Westminster Abbey.

"It will be an episcopal invasion of London," the archbishop said.

He added that a meeting of B.C. bishops will be held in Vancouver May 17 to choose his successor as Archbishop of British Columbia.

But he will continue as Bishop of the diocese (Vancouver Island and the Gulf Islands) until the end of the year.

"This will be the third Lambeth conference I have attended," he said, "and that is a distinction shared by only six other bishops.



THE "BLOOD AND FIRE" FLAG signifying the start of the Salvation Army's Red Shield Appeal for funds was raised on the Causeway this morning. 'Blood, Fire' Flag Waving for Help In Sally Ann Drive

The Salvation Army's month-long Red Shield Appeal got under way this morning with a flag-raising ceremony on the Causeway.

Mayor Hugh Stephen, the honorary chairman, and appeal general chairman Wallace MacKay helped Salvation Army Captain Hugh Tilley hoist the red and blue "blood and fire" flag aloft.

The fund-raising campaign, which will be conducted by door-to-door and residential canvass, has a goal of $70,000, an increase of $6,500 above last year's goal.

Capt. Tilley said the appeal has already received more than $11,000 in individual pledges.

Appeal funds go to support Army social service operations in the community. These include the Sunset Lodge for aged ladies, the Mary Moore Home and Hospital for non-rehabilitative chronic care, and the Matson Lodge.

The Army's budget for 1967 was $551,598.

WORK POINT SOLDIER KILLED IN INTERIOR

He had no next-of-kin in this area and was thought to have lived in Regina prior to enlistment.

Maier, 22, and a passenger, Lloyd Emile Hofner, 26, of New Westminster, both died in a crash involving a truck on the Trans-Canada Highway 10 miles west of the city.

The driver of the truck escaped injury.

Field Day Here Saturday For Island First Aid Teams

The 28th annual St. John Ambulance Victoria Field Day first aid competitions will be held Saturday in the Central Junior High School.

The competitions will take place at 10 a.m. for juniors and 1:30 p.m. for seniors.

There will be three events each for boys, girls, men and women.

Industrial firms are well represented in the senior men's division with teams from Crown Zellerbach, MacMillan Bloedel, B.C. Telephone, as well as the Queen's Own Rifles and the Naval Fire Service.

Highlight of the afternoon's events is the competition among all men's teams south of Ladysmith for the right to represent lower Vancouver Island in the provincial playdowns.

Two Women Hurt In Street Mishap

Two elderly women were struck down by a car Tuesday night as they walked together across Broughton St.

Mrs. Margaret McBride, 850 Cook St., and Mrs. Margaret McIntyre, of Vancouver, were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital where they were treated for cuts and released.

The accident occurred just after 9 p.m. Police said the car involved was driven north on Quadra by Harold Clark, 2723 Avebury.

New Canadians To Take Oath

Twenty-five Victoria residents will be sworn in as Canadian citizens at a ceremony in Victoria Law Courts next Wednesday at 2 p.m.

Judge Eric Chown, president of the Citizenship Court, will preside and an address of welcome will be given by Ald. Cecil Parrott.

Japanese Study $150 Million In B.C. Mills

Three more joint-venture pulp and paper mills worth at least $150 million are being investigated by Japanese interests, Resources Minister Ray Williston said today.

He said if they go ahead it would give the Japanese the third largest stake in the B.C. forestry industry, behind only Canadian and U.S. involvement.

The three new possible plants would be added to a $40 million 400-ton-daily plant which will open in East Kootenays in November and another $40-50 million plant in the Rocky Mountain Trench which is expected to begin construction this year.

Mr. Williston made the disclosures on returning from a two-week business trip to Japan.

He said the three Japanese pulp companies now investigating feasibility of building plants in this province are Oji, Daishowa and Sanyo-Nissho but declined to disclose other details.

'PHENOMENAL'

"It's phenomenal, the interest Japan has in B.C., and not in coming to take logs out of here but fabricating," he said.

He said it was vital that B.C. establish a market for its superior kraft pulp in Japan, the largest and fastest-growing paper consumer in Asia because that country is "shopping the world for wood" and planning its investment and import policies now for the next generation.

He said if the three new firms actually do go ahead with projects here, it would bring the combined Japanese involvement in the B.C. woods industry onto a par with the present Canadian trade trend of having Japan as the second-largest trading partner after the United States.

Honshu Pulp Company now is building a plant at Skookumchuck and will begin operation this fall while Jujo is the other company involved at Mackenzie, 125 miles north of Prince George, which is expected to complete its building plans this month.

Two Days To Go For Registration In Big Parade

The parade will originate at the Mayfair shopping centre and proceed straight down Douglas to Belleville.

At present there are 23 American bands entered, as well as about 60 local floats. The parade theme is "100 years of the Capital—1868-1968."

OVERTONES OF PROSTITUTION

Parents Get Warning On Traffic in Girls

Travelling Aboard Coast Freighters

By PETE LOUDON

A shipboard traffic in girls involving Port Alberni, Vancouver and occasionally Victoria brought a warning to parents from RCMP and city police forces.

The traffic, involving juveniles as young as 14 and often Indian girls from Up-Island reserves, thrives aboard several deep-sea freighters despite police surveillance.

It is a contuning traffic—some say it's as old as ships and the sea. But it was given new emphasis in Port Alberni last week when a search for one missing Vancouver girl, turned up four others on the same lumber carrier.

Police say the girls, who often travel between coastal points, many times are listed by parents as missing persons. They say the traffic has overtones of prostitution on an apparently unorganized basis, many of the girls being willing participants.

UNAWARE

But there also is reason to believe some of the girls involved have been innocently brought aboard and supplied with liquor until they were unaware the ship had sailed.

The recent case in Port Alberni was brought to light when a distraught Vancouver mother reported her 15-year-old daughter missing, RCMP reported.

She had been keeping company with a Norwegian sailor in Vancouver. Her mother contacted the police and asked for a search of the ship at its next port of call—Port Alberni, April 22.

The girl was apprehended. The girl said she and four others had been aboard since the ship left Vancouver. She said she had gone aboard before sailing to say goodbye to her friend, had accepted drinks and had not noticed when the ship sailed.

WITH CAPTAIN

She said she and the others had the run of the ship and had even eaten in the captain's presence.

The four other girls were not apprehended. (If they were 18, police said, there are no grounds for arresting them unless prostitution charges can be proven.)

But the following day another search of the ship turned up a 15-year-old who was in care of Port Alberni welfare authorities, police said.

Since the ship departed for the Philippines it was reported in Port Alberni that an 18-year-old girl was aboard when it sailed.

An RCMP officer said that unless a girl is a juvenile the matter must rest with the parents. He warned that parents should make certain teen-aged girls do not frequent waterfront areas un-escorted.

A check with Vancouver city police superintendent T. F. Stokes brought a similar warning. He said there is no doubt that juvenile girls are involved in the traffic.

"They get aboard despite our patrols and the crewmen hide them. We've even gone into the bay and pulled girls off. They say they have gone aboard as guests."

He said some captains of ships turn a blind eye to the situation, some of the "saltier" ones believing their men have earned such "recreation" after long cruises. And he thought that few of the girls are innocent, many of them being there for the money they can earn.

A Vancouver police report accompanied a young Indian girl recently when she was returned to her home in Port Alberni after being reported missing two months earlier. It outlined her involvement with a large number of seamen in Vancouver harbor after she had been taken there on a freighter from her hometown.

FOUND BY CAPTAIN

Inspector Bill Andrews of Victoria police said as recently as two months ago two Indian girls were taken from a freighter here after it left harbor, when they had been located by the captain.

They had been aboard since the ship cleared Port Alberni and throughout a voyage to New Westmainster. He said an RCMP squad concerned with smuggling goes aboard ships here and at up-Island points. But girls often evade searches.

Inspector Andrews said some captains are strict about keeping visitors off their ships, others are lax. Some months ago a group of Victoria girls were visiting ships locally for illicit purposes, but this has now been halted at least temporarily. Full control is up to the parents he maintains.

A LITTLE DAB will do him, perhaps a few more dabs, and local sculptress Mrs. Peggy Walton Packard will have added the famous half smile, trademark of Canada's new prime minister, Pierre Elliott Trudeau. Mrs. Packard demonstrated her skills at Hobby Show at Victoria Curling Rink. Clay model on pipe frame represented three-to-four hours work while chatting with passersby who registered immediate recognition. "They had pleasant things to say, and if I were forecasting the election I'd say his chances are excellent." Finished bust may be offered for sale.

$500,000 PROJECT

Old Indian Village To Live Once Again

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Victoria experts in Indian lore and crafts will assist this summer in building a replica of an ancient Indian village at the junction of the Skeena and Buckley Rivers, near Hazelton.

It will cost $500,000.

The village, to be known as Ksan, is the largest historic project undertaken in the province since the development of the old mining town of Barkerville and the reconstruction of Fort Steele in the interior.

The project is jointly sponsored by Agricultural and Rural Development Act and the provincial government.

Construction is expected to start in June.

Joseph Awmack, rural development officer for ARDA in Victoria, said today the village will become one of the province's major attroctions.

CAMPING GROUND

"It's a big and unique project" he said, "which also includes a large camping ground for visitors."

'Ksan will be managed entirely by Skena River Indians who will also operate a craft shop on the site.

Craftsmen will work on the spot and the articles produced will be sold.

The complex will also include a museum and a replica of a pre-historic Indian dwelling, plus a house of feast where it is hoped the Indians from time to time will show their skill in "ancient magic."

CURATOR NAMED

Mrs. Mary McKenzie, a hereditary chief of the Kixpiox band, has been appointed curator of the museum village.

George Moore, B.C. museum adviser, said the signing over of the village to the Indian people of the district will be marked on June 29 with dancing and a feast.

The ceremony will be attended by Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes.

Don't Let the Dollar Get Away

Any tag returned to an officer of the Department of Fisheries or sent to regional headquarters, 1155 Robson St., Vancouver, is worth $1.

Purpose is to learn the migratory behaviors, abundance and feeding habits for benefit of commercial and sports fishermen.

The chartered boat K Charles is being used in tagging operations in Sooke and Pedder Bay for about two months. Chartered trollers Valiant I and Tidewater III will carry out trolling experiments in Becher Bay, Sombrio Point, Glacier Point and Port San Juan areas until July 15.

At the same time, says the department, planes will study the distribution of commercial and sports fishing boats in the region.

Ask The Times

Q. Is there anywhere in Canada where a medical is necessary before a marriage certificate is issued, and what are the waiting periods in the provinces? A.C.C.

A. Saskatchewan is the only province that requires a full pre-marital medical, including a blood test. Alberta, Manitoba and Prince Edward Island require a blood test; the other provinces do not require any examination whatsoever. Waiting periods after issuing of a marriage licence vary: Alberta—eight days; B.C.—three days; Manitoba—24 hours; New Brunswick — five; Newfoundland — no licence required; Nova Scotia—five; Ontario — three; P.E.I. — seven; Quebec—none; Sask.—five.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.
